It is not this general proposi tion but the meaning, and our personal exemplification of it, in our daily lives that concern us. It does not mean that we shall or can have the same porsonal affec tion for all men regardless of their habits and character. It does not mean that we shall love their faults, or excuse or palliate their wrong doing. "Hate the sin but love the sinner," does not imply that our love for the sin

TIT FOR TAT.

Dyke's Desiderata,-the four How a Neighbor Evened up Matters With a Farmer Who Made a Fuss About the Chickens.

> A farmer who has a wheat field that has been showing up well since the snow went away and the spring like weather has set in, called at a lawyers office the other day and complained that he had a neighbor whose chickens were pasturing his wheat off close to the ground, and wished a damage suit filed. The lawyer feeling kindly to the neighbor, and wishing to save him some annoyance, wrote the neighbor a letter, stating the attitude of the farmer, and advising the neigh-

The next day the farmer, who owned the wheat, received a let ter from his neighbor. The neighbor said he had clipped the wings of his chickens. Then he brought up a new subject.

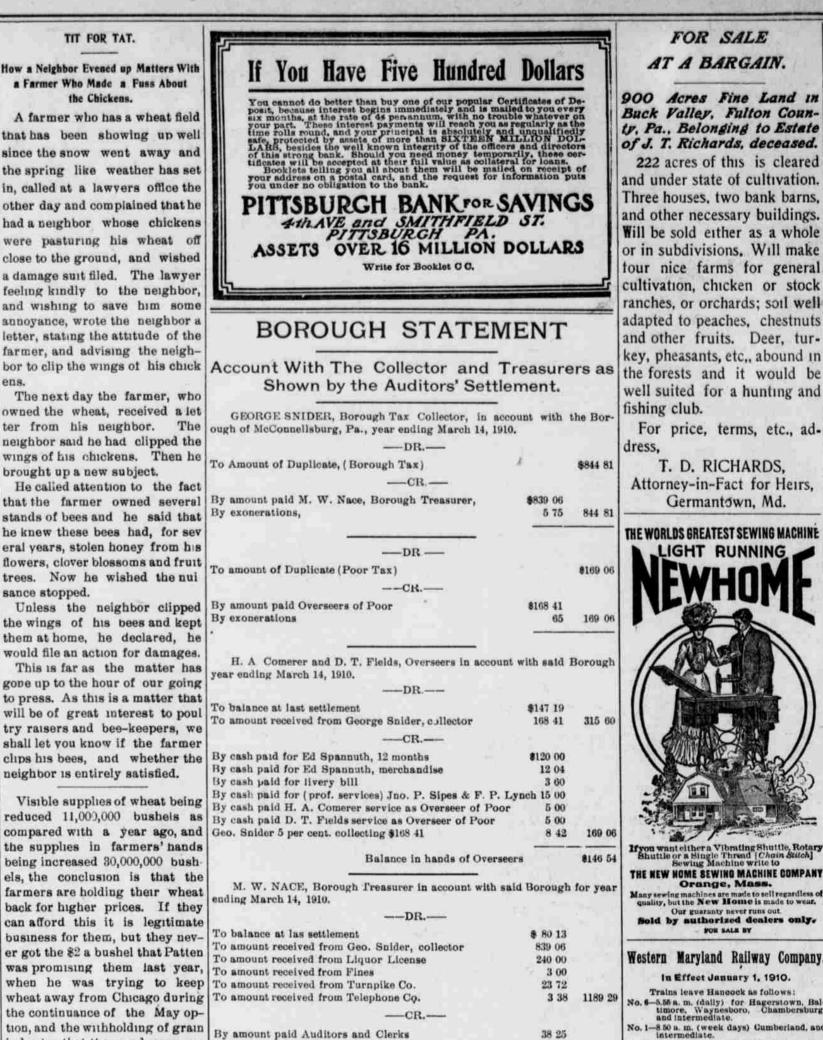

He called attention to the fact that the farmer owned several stands of bees and he said that he knew these bees had, for sev eral years, stolen honey from his flowers, clover blossoms and fruit trees. Now he wished the nui sance stopped.

Unless the neighbor clipped the wings of his bees and kept them at home, he declared, he would file an action for damages. This is far as the matter has gove up to the hour of our going to press. As this is a matter that will be of great interest to poul try raisers and bee-keepers, we shall let you know if the farmer clips his bees, and whether the neighbor 1s entirely satisfied.

Visible supplies of wheat being reduced 11,000,000 bushels as compared with a year ago, and Geo. Snider 5 per cent. collecting $168 41 the supplies in farmers' hands being increased 30,000,000 bush els, the conclusion is that the farmers are holding their wheat back for higher prices. When a reigning queen is to be married she must broach the subject first to her future consort. The same rule holds good with regard to all royal ladies who marry commoners. Queen Victoria has told how she managed to "put the question" to Prince Albert-how she first showed him Windsor and its beauties and the distant landscape and then said: "All this may be yours." The Queen of Holland, on a like occasion, simply sent a sprig of white heather, begging Prince Henry to look out its meaning following means of proposing to the Marquis of Lorne; She was about to attend a state ball and gave it out for the first dance the man she intended to honor. She selected the Marquis, who subsequently became her

But perhaps the most interesting of all ways chosen was that of the Duch-ess of Fife. She took the Earl, as he then was, to a drawer and showed him its contents. There he saw a number of trifles he had given her at different times, including sprigs of several kinds of flowers, now dead, he picked for her at different times. He was much impressed at the sight, nor did it require words on her part to make her meaning plain.
