CONDENSED FOR HURRIED READERS

Why pay 40 to 60 cents a pound for stale candy when you can get the purest made—right "hot off the griddle" at Seylar's every Friday evening and Saturday at 29 cents a pound?

Tuesday afternoon, the merchants of town called a meeting to consider the closing of the stores at six o'clock three nights a week—Monday, Wednesday, and Friday—beginning July 1st. The meeting was attended by nearly all the business men, and the consensus of opinion was that shorter hours are in store for the over-worked merchants. Full particulars next week.

M. A. Faubel and W. W. Deffenbaugh, near Wolfburg, Bedford county, were attracted to Philadelphia recently by an advertisement of "a valuable horse for sale for $65." They were flim-flammed into buying four for $545, but soon after starting for home found the horses were all lame and unfit for work. They returned, reported to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and gave back the horses, but at a loss of $170.

John A. Gettig, of Braddock, who was to have been married to Miss Mena Anderson, of Essen, disappeared recently, on the eve of his nuptials. He started for his tailor's to obtain his wedding suit and has not been seen since. The guests who were assembled for the happy event disappeared on receipt of the news. Relatives are heartbroken. The deserted fiancée thinks that her intended has met with foul play. Her opinion is that, after being beaten and robbed, he was left to die in some lonely place. He was a young man of exemplary habits and had talked for days about his approaching marriage.

Last week's People's Register, Chambersburg, says: "N. I. Finiff, who moved from the country to Reservoir Hill a couple years ago, was seen on the street with his right arm in a sling, and upon inquiry, the writer was told that while helping to unload freight, Finiff got his fingers caught between the door and the jam, the result being two or three badly pinched ends. This accident will throw him out of work for some time, for even if he is entitled to draw from the Relief Association, this is not as profitable as working for the Company."

The annual reunion of the Fulton County Colony was held at the home of Charlie Funk, Republic, O., on the 11th inst. On account of the day being stormy and disagreeable, there were not many present, and the exercises, of course, had to be held in doors. The formal exercises consisted of recitations, readings, singing and speeches. Those from a distance were Luther Pittman, wife and daughter, of Dayton, O.; Mrs. Oliver Winters and children, and Miss Bertha Crider, of Fremont, O., and Janet and Lola Pittman, of Oakland, Ill. Everybody present had a very enjoyable time, and the only regret was, that all the Fulton county people could not be present. The reunion will be held at James Funk's next year.

Tying a Horse.
A horse should always be tied to a hitching post with a strong strap or rope which there is no possibility of breaking. If a horse once breaks loose, he is apt to acquire the bad habit of breaking loose at every opportunity. A neck strap or rope which passes round the neck and through the ring in the bit is better than the ordinary tie strap fastened in the bit ring such as usually comes with bridles. If a horse has acquired the habit of breaking loose, try this plan and fool him when he tries it again. A horse should always be tied so that it cannot get its head to the ground. It will stand more quietly if compelled to keep its head up.

FELL FROM CHERRY TREE.

Charlie Mellott, Son of Joseph E. Mellott, Fell 25 Feet and Broke His Arm and Dislocated His Shoulder.

Last Wednesday, as Charlie Mellott was up in a cherry tree on his father's farm in Belfast township, picking cherries, the limb on which Charlie was standing suddenly broke, and he fell to the ground a distance of twenty five feet. When picked up he was more dead than alive, but a physician was summoned hastily and succeeded in bringing the young man around again. As it was, he has a broken arm, a dislocated shoulder, a badly sprained back, and it will be some time before he is as "good as ever."

WHIPS COVE.

Last Tuesday our lumberman, Mr. Stetler brought a splinter new 18 horse power traction engine to the Cove. Wednesday morning he hitched it to a load of bark and proceeded to the top of Sideling Hill mountain, there he hitched to three more wagons upon which were piles of bark that in dimensions would compare favorably with young hay stacks; but there is always a limit to man's accomplishments, and so it was in this case. A few rods down the mountain that one wagon crawled off below the road and leaned its burden up against a sapling and with its wheels resting deep in the soil of old sideling Hill, refused to continue farther.

D. C. Mellott and wife, and Albert Plessinger and daughter Miss Achsie, attended the funeral of Wm. Bard at Ebenezer last Wednesday.

Roll a stone down a dark alley; the hit dog always howls.

The prospects of the convention at the Jerusalem church Saturday was somewhat blighted, due to the very stormy weather.

Rev. Diehl, of McConnellsburg, Mr. Reel, of Philadelphia, and Rev. Waise, of Breezewood, were the prominent speakers of the day, and gave excellent instructions, that would do well to be adopted by both schools, but just how much of it the Devil swiped I can't tell.

Wedding Invitations.

They need not be answered unless the recipient is an intimate friend.

Then a congratulatory note may be sent.

An announcement demands no reply.

The matter of wedding gifts is, of course, an unsettled question.

There are a number of well bred persons who do not respond to an invitation with a gift, believing that it is poor taste to send gifts to them whom they scarcely know but to whose wedding they may have been invited for some reason or courtesy.

Of course the fact that one knows the groom rather than the bride makes no difference one way or the other. It is to the bride that the gift is sent.

An "at home" card inclosed in the invitation necessitates a call within the time named or, if one lives in a distant city, a card sent by post.

Giving It Away.

"A woman just can't keep a secret," he declared, opposing a statement.

"Oh, I don't know," contradicted the fustery lady. "I've kept my age a secret ever since I was twenty-four."

"Yes," he replied, "but one of these days you will give it away. In time you will just simply have to tell it."

"Well," she replied with confidence, "I think that when a woman has kept a secret for twenty years she comes pretty near knowing how to keep it."

How It Happened.

Lady—Poor man! So you are just out of jail?

Tramp—Yes, mum. I was a victim of fortune-tellers back in 'ninety-nine.

Lady—Indeed?

Tramp—Yes, mum. The District Attorney told me where I'd ever been at! What I'd ever done during my whole life, and the Judge predicted where I would be for the next ten years.

RECOMMENDATION.

"Gentlemen of the jury," said the prosecuting barrister, "this prisoner is an unmitigated scoundrel; he acknowledges it. And yet, thanks to the wisdom of the common law, he has been given a fair trial by a jury of his peers."

Somewhat Cheaper.

"Is it so, that you used to call regularly on that girl?"
"Yes; she always sang a song to me that I loved."
"Why didn't you marry her?"
"I found I could buy the song for 50 cents."

"Gentlemen of the jury," said the prosecuting barrister, "this prisoner is an unmitigated scoundrel; he acknowledges it. And yet, thanks to the wisdom of the common law, he has been given a fair trial by a jury of his peers."

A Memento of the Departed.

"I suppose you carry a memento of some sort in that pocket of yours?"
"Yes; it is a lock of my husband's hair."
"But your husband is still alive!"
"Yes, but his hair is all gone."

His Indifference.

"What's your position in this polar controversy?"
"My position is that I ain't a-going to buy either book."

AN ILLUSTRATIVE SUGGESTION.

Hints in Regard to the Beautifying of the Farm.

Looking at the grounds surrounding the farm and suburban homes through the country, the lack of well-planned and well-cared-for driveways is noticeable; or, where kept in good condition they far too often lead to the barn by the most direct line of approach, with no apparent care for the effect they have on the place as a whole.

Granting that every foot of unnecessary driveway represents added labor, and admitting that it must be well cared for, or take from rather than add to, the beauty of the place, brings one to the same fact that must

A beautiful home standing in the center of an immense lawn with no visible way of driving up to the house and, in easy curve leads entirely around it, and to the barn in the rear building is not practicable, a bit of special planting will break the line of view and is desirable, also, as a means of securing additional beauty.

Viewed from the standpoint of labor involved, there is no denying that it requires more to lay out and make a long driveway than a short one and, too, the longer one must be a wider one, or look like a streak through the sod.

When, however, the work of making has been done that of keeping in good condition is not proportionately greater for the reason that in the curving, endless driveway, a homemade scraper, a steady old horse, and a careful driver will do the work with no greater outlay of time and strength than would be required to keep the shorter and narrower one in order by the power of the "man behind the hoe."
