All Accept As Final Murphy's Opinion on Fighters' Condition.
Of all the fight experts who are at Reno covering the Johnson-Jeffries fight, none has attracted as much attention as Mike Murphy, the world-famous trainer of athletes. He is there for the Philadelphia North American, and when he pronounced James J. Jeffries in fit condition to give a battle to his huge colored antagonist, the opinion was flashed all over the country and quoted by all writers, because it is known that in the matter of physical condition his word is final. Mr. Murphy, who is athletic director at the University of Pennsylvania, who trained the team that won the last intercollegiate meet, and also prepared the American athletes for the Olympic games in England, is said to know more about the human body athletically considered, than any man in the world, and his reputation for honesty is as great as his ability. Murphy's training articles will appear daily in The North American, including Sunday and Monday morning. On Tuesday morning will appear his comment on the fight.

There is no woman so strong that does not, at times, need a tonic. Rexall Celery and Iron tonic reaches the spot. Like the stitch in time, a bottle of this great nerve food will catch up the broken strand of health, when further neglect would mean a spell of sickness, nervous prostration, and a ruined constitution. For sale at Seylar's—The Rexall Store, McConnellsburg.

Elder A. J. Garland will preach at Needmore, Sunday, July 8, at 11 o'clock and at Hill's Chapel at 3.

SAVE THE BABIES

Timely Word to Mothers on Care of Infants During Hot Weather.

ADVICE WORTH HEEDING

Health Commissioner Dixon Gives Rules to Be Observed in Nursing the Baby and For Its Proper Care in General—The Necessity of Pure, Fresh Milk.

The hot weather of this season of the year is extremely dangerous to the lives of infants and young children, not only because of the depressing effect of high atmospheric temperature in general, but more especially because of the effect of hot weather upon all perishable articles of food, among which cow's milk holds the first place.

It is therefore highly important that cow's milk to be used for infants' food should be the purest and freshest that you can afford to buy. During the hot weather ice is absolutely necessary for the preservation of milk, and all milk used for food should be cooled by ice as soon as it comes from the cow, and should be kept next the ice until ready to be used. A little money spent for ice may prevent illness and its greater expense for medicine, nursing and medical attendance. As water is often a carrier of disease it is safest to use only boiled water for drinking or the preparation of a baby's food. The following rules will aid you in keeping your baby well during the hot weather, and are given out by the State Department of Health of Pennsylvania:

Breast feeding. Every mother should endeavor to nurse her baby. Breast milk is the natural food of a newborn baby. There is no other food that can compare with it. A breast-fed baby has a much greater chance of living than a bottle fed baby. Immediately after birth do not give any kind of artificial food to the baby while waiting for the breast milk to come. Put the baby to the breast every four hours and give nothing else but water that has been boiled. The baby needs nothing else and will not starve. After the milk comes into the breast nurse the baby every two hours during the day and two or three times at night.

Don't nurse the baby whenever it cries. A moderate amount of crying helps to develop the lungs. Babies who are nursed irregularly or whenever they cry are likely to get indigestion and then cry the harder from pain. Nurse regularly, and the baby will soon learn to expect its nursing only at the proper intervals. Give the baby a little boiled water several times a day.

After the baby is two months old lengthen the time between feedings to two and a half or three hours, with only one or two feedings at night.

Do not wean the baby as long as he is gaining, and never do so except by advice of your doctor. Do not follow the advice of friends or neighbors about weaning. If the baby remains well, but after a time stops gaining in weight, do not think that your milk is of no value, but consult your doctor about adding one or two bottles to help you out.

Bottle feeding. If it becomes necessary to feed the baby entirely or only in part upon the bottle, remember that the greatest cleanliness is necessary in all details of the feeding. As soon as a bottle is finished it should be thoroughly washed with cold water, then cleansed with hot water and borax (one teaspoonful to a pint of water) and put aside for further cleansing before being used again. If you have only a few bottles and it becomes necessary to use the same bottle for the next feeding, boil it for a few minutes before putting fresh food into it. Never let the baby nurse from the remains of a bottle which he has not finished. Take it away from the crib, pour out the milk and cleanse at once. Stale milk curd sticking to the inside of a bottle after a few hours become poisonous and may contaminate fresh milk coming in contact with them. It is better to have as many bottles as the number of the baby's daily feedings, so that all the bottles can be boiled together before the food is prepared in the morning.

Nipples. The simpler the nipple the safer for the baby. Do not use complicated nipples, and under no circumstances buy a bottle with a long rubber tube attached to the nipple. It cannot be kept clean and will certainly cause bowel trouble. After the bottle is finished the nipple should be removed at once, turned inside out over the finger and scrubbed with cold water and a brush kept only for this purpose. After use, always boil the brush.

The cleansed nipple should be kept in fresh borax water (one teaspoonful of borax to a pint of water) in a covered glass. Rinse the nipple in boiling water before using it. Do not put the nipple into your own mouth to find out whether the milk is warmed enough. Let a few drops of the milk fall on your wrist; if it feels too hot for your wrist it is too warm for the baby's mouth. No general instructions can be given about the preparation of a milk mixture for your baby. Each baby needs a combination suited to its digestion. The mixture upon which some other baby is thriving may be too strong or too weak for your baby. Let the doctor tell you how to mix the food. If it is necessary to use cream in the mixture do not buy cream—it is likely to be stale—but get it by pouring off half a pint from the top of a quart bottle of milk, after cleansing the lip of the bottle.

During the summer the baby's food should be brought to a scald after it is prepared. It should then be poured into the clean bottle, corked with baked clean cotton wool and kept next the ice until needed. Do not heat a bottle when you go to bed and keep it in bed until nursing time, because you do not want to go to the ice box for it and heat it when the baby needs it. This is a certain way to make the baby sick.

for it and heat it when the baby needs it. This is a certain way to make the baby sick.

Bowel movements. A bottle fed baby should have at least one and not more than two or three bowel movements a day. If the milk is clean to start with and has been kept cold, and all the feeding utensils clean as you have just been told, the baby's movements should be yellow in color, and not too hard to be passed easily. If the movements become greenish in color, but not more frequent than two or three times a day, give one or two teaspoonfuls of castor oil. If the color does not improve after the oil has worked off, consult your doctor. At this time he will be able to prevent the serious bowel trouble with which the baby is threatened. If the movements remain green in color and increase in number to five or six or more in the twenty-four hours your baby is beginning to have bowel trouble or summer diarrhoea. Stop milk at once, give pure boiled water instead and call the doctor. It may not be too late.

Do not begin milk feeding again until the doctor orders it. You will not starve your baby by stopping the milk; every drop of milk that goes into its stomach after this warning simply adds to the poison already there. You will cause serious or fatal illness by keeping up milk food after the bowels become loose and the movements green in color.

Vomiting. A bottle fed baby should not vomit if its food is pure and properly adjusted to its needs. If vomitings occur it is usually a sign of approaching illness, either of one of the serious diseases of childhood, or more commonly in hot weather, of summer diarrhoea. Vomiting due to this cause may be the first sign of trouble and the bowels may not become loose until several days later. If vomiting is repeated, stop milk feeding, give boiled water, cool it of the temperature at which the milk is given, and consult your doctor at once.

Clothing. Do not put too much clothing on the baby in summer. During the hottest weather remove most of the clothes; a thin loose shirt and a diaper are sufficient during the day and on very hot nights.

Never use clothing made with tight waistbands. Petticoats and skirts should be supported by straps over the shoulders.

Bathing. Bathe the baby every day. In hot weather a quick sponging all over later in the day will give comfort and make him sleep better. Wash the baby each time the diaper is changed and dry the parts thoroughly before using powder. Wash all soiled diapers and boil them. Never use a dried wet diaper without first washing it.

Fresh air. Fresh air is as important for the baby's health as fresh food. During the summer keep the baby out of doors as much as possible. Keep the baby out of the kitchen—he may get a "sunstroke" from too much heat indoors.

Eruptions of the skin. If the baby has an eruption or breaking out of the skin, consult a doctor. Do not think that every rash is prickly heat; it may be some serious disease like scarlet fever, measles, smallpox or chicken pox.

Extracting the Truth.

The late Senator Carmack, of Tennessee, used to tell a story of a will case where Tom Myers, former Speaker of the Legislature, was an attorney. The question hinged on the sanity or insanity of the testator when he made his will, and Mr. Myers was introducing evidence as to the unsoundness of the mind of the man who made the will at the time he made it. He called a witness who had talked with the dead man a few hours before he died. "Did you hold conversation with the testator a short time before he died?" asked Myers.

"Yes, sir."
"Now, tell the jury what he said. Do not make any comments on what you think he meant or what interpretation should be put on the conversation. That will be for the jury to decide. Just tell us what he said. Did he say anything to you?"

"Oh yes, sir, he said considerable."
"Well, tell us one thing? What remark did he make to you on any subject? Do you recall any?"

"Yes, sir. I recall one remark he made."
"Ah!" said Myers "Now we are getting on. What did he say?"

"Well," replied the witness, "he said he reckoned that Legislature where Tom Myers was Speaker was about the orneriest Legislature he ever did see."

Jerrold's Wit.

On the first night of the representation of one of Jerrold's pieces a successful adapter from the French rallied him on his nervousness. "I," said the adapter, "never feel nervous on the first night of my pieces." "Ah, my boy," Jerrold replied, "you are always certain of success. Your pieces have all been tried before." He was seriously disappointed with a certain book written by one of his friends. This friend heard that Jerrold had expressed his disappointment, and questioned him: "I hear you said—that was the worst book I ever wrote." "No, I didn't," came the answer; "I said it was the worst book anybody ever wrote." Of a mistaken philanthropist, Jerrold said he was "so benevolent, so merciful a man—he would have held an umbrella over a duck in a shower of rain."—Argonaut.

A Curious Mistake.

A married couple stood looking into a shop window. A handsome tailor-made dress took the lady's fancy, and she left her husband's side to examine it more closely. Then she went back to where he had been standing and took his arm.

"You never look at anything I want to look at!" she exclaimed. "You don't care how I dress! You don't care for me now! Why, you haven't kissed me for three weeks!"

"Indeed, I am sorry. It is not my fault, but my misfortune!" said the man. Turning round she looked at him and gasped. She had taken the arm of the wrong man.
