CONDENSED FOR HURRIED READERS

The Sheets Stage Line takes you to Mercersburg for 50 cents. John A. Henry of Clear Ridge, was a County seat visitor on Wednesday.

Misses Nellie and Lillian DeHart, and Harvey Helman and Joseph B. Doyle, were among those who attended the Fire Company's big day at Mercersburg, on Saturday.

C. C. Pence, of Braddock, Pa., spent the time from Friday until Monday, the guest of Rev. J. L. Grove, of this place. Mr. Pence's parents were members of Mr. Grove's church when he was pastor of the church at New Wilmington, Pa., several years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Karns, and daughters Grace and Lulu, and Mr. Clayton Karns—all of Everett, came to McConnellsburg in Mr. Karns' touring car and spent Sunday with John Ott and family at McConnellsburg, and with other friends in this place.

Uncle John Tice, of Knobsville, was in town Monday attending to business, and getting ready for the threshing season, which is now about to begin in earnest. Mr. Tice threshed the first crop of the season last Friday for John W. Snyder, which yielded about 400 bushels market measure. There will be an unusually large yield of wheat this season, and it has never been harvested in better condition.

Greencastle, which for a number of years enjoyed the distinction of being the only town in the valley without a cent of bonded or floating indebtedness, now holds the distinction, unique in the state, of not having a levy nor levying a single mill of borough tax, the income from the water plant being amply sufficient to carry on the municipal government.

Recently there has located in Chambersburg Dr. J. A. Thorn, a New York eye specialist of some note, who has leased and filled up with modern appliances, a large office on N. Main St., in the Rose-dale Building, Chambersburg. The doctor has moved his family there, has taken a house on S. Main St., and located permanent ly.

Some boys do not earn $20 a year, yet they can afford to smoke cigarettes and to use tobacco in other forms. Little boys should think it over seriously before commencing to use tobacco. Boys who do not use the weed or loaf continuously on the streets are much better models to follow. No boy should wish to pattern after a profane, foul-mouthed, worthless street loafer.

Three Altoona shopmen were fined $25.53 by Justice of the Peace Croyle at Petersburg for fishing in the Juniata river with untagged outlines, the information was made by Fish Wardens J. D. Sizer and J. H. Morgan. The fish laws are very strict and great care should be exercised by lovers of this sport in order to avoid being caught in some unlawful act.

Mrs. Mary Golden, aged 82 years, duplicated her girlhood's work in the harvest field on the farm of her son, Isaac Golden, in Adams county, and bound several sheaves of wheat just to show the younger generation that she had not forgotten how to take up the work that in her younger days was the common work of the women on the farm. Mrs. Golden enjoyed this recurrence to old times and was with difficulty persuaded to desist from her self-imposed tasks.

The Police Department of Washington, D. C., and Waynesboro, are looking for Edgar W. Foster. It is charged that Foster posed as a real estate speculator and advertised extensively the "Opening of the new city addition to Waynesboro," guaranteeing twenty-five per cent. in six months. R. C. Thompson bought one $25 lot from Foster and it now develops Foster had no lot to sell. He left behind his office sign, grip, and a lot of unpaid bills for advertisements, etc.

Earle Suders, who has been employed in Franklin county for some time, is spending a few days at his home in this place.

Two fine large church chandeliers for sale at a bargain. Kerosene burners. Have been used in Presbyterian church. Taken out to make room for gasoline system. Inquire of J. G. Reiser.

Our old friend George Mills, formerly of Union township, but now extensively engaged in farming in Maryland, has just threshed the wheat from 120 acres and got 4,200 bushels. He has 80 acres yet to thresh, which will yield as well as the first, and he expects to have a total crop of 7,000 bushels. His elevator man says no finer wheat ever grew in Washington county. The crop was cut with two eight foot binders, took 610 lbs. twine, and required 14 head of horses. He has about 60 acres in corn with prospects for a bumper crop.

Mr. Denton Hendershot, one of Fulton county's substantial farmers, was in town yesterday. Hands being a little scarce this harvest, he climbed onto the binder and drove it ten days, which is a pretty good record for a man that is "not as young as he used to be." Mr. Hendershot says, that while the straw is good, he does not think the yield of wheat this harvest will be up to expectations.

Mr. Job Truax, stand up! Since you sent your timothy heads in, we have received two from your neighbor Amos Plessinger, that measure 11 inches, and 11 1/2 inches respectively. While you did not tell us about your rye, Mr. Plessinger says that from one grain sown on his farm last fall, there grew 38 heads, aggregating a yield of 1,746 grains. At that rate you see, if one grain yields 1746 grains, 1 bushel would yield 1746 bushels. Now as to value: The one bushel of seed rye is worth about 75 cents, and 1746 bushels is worth 1746 times 75 cents, which is $1,309.50. It is plain to the Editor that there is more money raising rye than running the FULTON COUNTY NEWS.

Too Much Like Work.
The happy mother of a seven-months-old baby, whose chief business seems to be making a noise in the world, was paying her sister a visit, and the other evening young Master Harry, aged seven years, was delegated to care for the baby while his elders were at dinner. So he wheeled it back and forth, forth and back, the length of the library, giving vent to his sentiments by singing, much to the amusement of the family: "Gee whiz! I'm glad I'm free, No wedding bells for me."

Why Run Risks?
A Canadian author wrote an anthem for a recent celebration in Toronto. Toward the end of the exercises, when the people were going out a few at a time, the author rushed to the conductor and said: "Is it over?" "Practically." "But, Great Scott! man, they have not sung my anthem!" "Well," said the conductor, "so long as the people are going out peacefully and quietly, why sing it at all?"

Watching the Valuable Child.
"Vy do you watch your little Able so closely; you don't let him out of your sight?" "He iss such a valuable child now he needs watching." "But you never thought so before!" "I know; but dis morning he swallowed a five-dollar gold piece."

The Flat Iron.
When the thermometer dropped below zero Mrs. Rogers was much disturbed by the thought that Huldah, the new kitchen maid, slept in an unheated room. "Huldah," she said, remembering the good old custom of her girlhood, "it's going to be pretty cold to night. I think you had better take a flat iron to bed with you." "Yes, ma'am," assented Huldah without enthusiasm. Mrs. Rogers, happy in the belief that her maid was comfortable, slept soundly. In the morning she visited the kitchen. "Well, Huldah, how did you get along with the flat iron?" Huldah breathed a deep sigh of recollection. "Well, ma'am, I got it 'most warm before morning."—Every-body's Magazine.

Never Forget Anything.

A successful business man told me there were two things which he learned when he was eighteen, which were ever afterwards of great use to him, namely: "Never to lose anything and never to forget anything." An old lawyer sent him with an important paper, with certain instructions what to do with it. "But," inquired the young man, "suppose I lose it; what shall I do then?" "You must not lose it!" "I don't mean to," said the young man, "but suppose I should happen to?" "But I say you must not happen to; I shall make no provision for any such occurrence; you must not lose it!"

This put a new train of thought into the young man's mind, and he found that if he was determined to do a thing he could do it. He made such a provision against every contingency that he never lost anything. He found this equally true about forgetting. If a certain matter of importance was to be remembered, he pinned it down on his mind, fastened it there, and made it stay. He used to say: "When a man tells me that he forgot to do something, I tell him he might as well have said: 'I do not care enough about your business to take the trouble to think of it again.'" I once had an intelligent young man in my employment who deemed it sufficient excuse for neglecting any important task to say: "I forgot it." I told him that would not answer. If he was sufficiently interested, he would be careful to remember. It was because he did not care enough that he forgot it. I drilled him with this truth. He worked for me three years, and during the last of the three he was utterly changed in this respect. He did not forget a thing. His forgetting, he found, was a lazy and careless habit of the mind, which he cured.—Country Gentleman.
