Why did Washington cross the Delaware?"

Why, indeed? Not a child could think of anything but the answer to the famous chicken problem: "To get on the other side," and, of course, that wouldn't do. Then little Annie's hand shot into the air. Little Annie crosses the Delaware every summer herself, hence the bright idea. Well, Annie?"

which feels from ten to twenty degrees cooler than their neighbors enjoy, by regulating the diet.

The plan is to avoid meat entirely for breakfast; use a goodly allowance of fruit, either fresh or cooked. Then follow with a saucer containing about four heaping teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts, treated with a little rich cream. Add to this about two slices of crisp toast with a meager amount of butter, and one cup of well-made Postum. By this selection of food the bodily energy is preserved, while the hot, carbonaceous foods have been left out. The result is a very marked difference in the temperature of the body, and to this comfortable condition is added the certainty of case and perfect digestion, for the food being partially pre-digested is quickly assimilated by the Marinated Frankfurters.

For a hearty dish with which to tickle the palates of a hungry sausage eating crowd have frankfurters on hand. Prick each link, cook the sausages slowly in boiling water for three minutes and then bake them for half an hour. Meanwhile have sliced cold boiled potatoes marinating in oil and vinegar. Toss the potatoes together with sliced onion, sliced pickled beets, mustard pickle and a few stuffed olives cut into pieces. Arrange the salad in a mound in the middle of a platter and the sausages around it .-New York Sun.

Dried Cherries. An old-fashioned country housewife who owns some fine cherry trees gives the following recipe for drying cherries to use in winter pies. They taste more like the fresh fruit than the cooked preserve, she says. Choose the finest and largest of red cherries, stone them and spread them on large platters in the sunshine. Let them stand until they become dry, taking them in only when the sun is down or the day is damp or cloudy. When nicely dried pack them into stone jars after strewing them with the best brown sugar .- New York Tribune.

Ragout of Veal.

Veal from shank or breast may be used for this dish quite as well as higher priced cuts. Stew the meat until very tender with onion, parsley, one-fourth cup of vinegar and a bay leaf, and remove from the bone while warm. When cool cut into pieces suitable for serving, roll each in seasoned flour, brown lightly in the fat fried out slowly from several slices of salt pork. Make the sauce with onefourth cup each of butter and flour and one-third cup of yeal stock, onehalf teaspoon of kitchen bouquet, one tablespoon of lemon juice and three of prepared horseradish. Pour this around the veal, garnish with the crisp pork and a little water cress or parsley .- Boston Post.

Eggs Curried.

Take hard boiled eggs, cut in halves, remove the half yolks and cut them into rings. Place all these rings round edge of dish and pile the white rings up to make a sort of border, pour some thick curry sauce in the middle, place the half yolks at equal distances apart on the white round the edge, sprinkle a few specks of green parsley round the edge of whites; this gives the dish a pretty appearance. Curry Sauce-One tablespoon of butter, one of flour, one teaspoon of curry powder, one large slice of onion, one large cup of stock, salt and pepper to taste. Cut the onion fine and fry brown in butter. Add the flour and curry powder. Stir for one minute, add the stock and season with the salt and pepper. Simmer five minutes, then strain and serve.-Boston Post.

Afternoon Tea.

One of the fads that has cropped out with the settled habit of afternoon tea drinking is the serving of colored bonbons with the tea in place of cube sugar. Some women make these bonbons, coloring them to suit candy is also used for this purpose. Lemon and tea are said to clear the complexion, but if one is very tired the tea should be drunk clear or with a little milk and very slowly. If one ever noticed the epicurean comfort of an old tea drinker with a cup of hot tea one must have observed with what deliberation the tea was taken. It is a fault with many housewives to let the tea stand too long after the water goes on before serving. Seven minutes is the prescribed limit of any brand, and less than five is better with all kinds. For a second cup, where a teapot is for the first service. a tea ball or perforated tea-making spoon is a convenience.- New York

DRIFT TO THE CITIES LESS PRONOUNCED, CENSUS INDICATES While Still Large, Statisticians Think They See Falling Off, 'Judging From Early Tabulations of the Figures.

Washington.—Americans continue yielding to the lure of the city. Figures of the thirteenth census now being compiled show that. The attraction of the average wage of $1.50 increased her gain from 42.4 per cent. for an eight hour day in the city is stronger than the drawing power of decade. Increased her gain from 44.6 the last stronger than the drawing power of decade. Increased her gain from 44.6 the last stronger than the drawing power of the $20 a month and "keep" for the twelve and fourteen hour day on the farm, but there are indications that the tendency toward the city is slightly less. It is too early yet to make an accurate estimate.

Advance census figures indicate that 60 names will be added to the list of municipalities having a population of 25,000 and upward. There were 160 names on that list ten years ago. The 25,000 population places call themselves thriving cities. Each has been deemed important enough by the makers of standard publications like the World Almanac to warrant a place in their statistics. Now the list will be so long that the more daring editors are expected to raise the minimum to 50,000. A few decades ago it was only 10,000.

About two-thirds of the newcomers in the 25,000 list are in the states in the basin drained by the Mississippi and north of Kentucky. The others are in New York and New England, the South and the Middle West.

Less Growth in Some Large Cities.

During the last ten-year period Washington increased but 18.8 per to nose Ohio out of fourth place and cent., as against 21 per cent. during come in the procession immediately the preceding ten years. Providence after Illinois.

Drift to Cities Less Marked.

Statisticians in the census office believe that while the drift is still toward the cities, it was not quite so marked as it was ten years ago; that there may be just a little eddying from the cities to the farms or that fewer farm boys are responding to the call of the city. But there can be no certainty until long after the total population has been figured out and until after the figures prepared by the immigration bureau showing the destination of immigrants have been con-sidered in connection with the census. The 52 counties of Texas that have been reported show a population of $27,008, as compared with 551,944 in 1900, an increase of 48.7. They are well scattered throughout the state and are considered fairly representative. Texans are counting on an increase in the house, if the present ratio is maintained, of at least four and possibly five members. At present Ohio has 21 members of the house and Texas 16. Texas expects to nose Ohio out of fourth place and

"Trade is still quiet as a whole, more so, indeed, in some lines than was the case last week, and quieter even than ordinarily at this midsummer period While conservation still governs future operations by wholesalers and jobbers, and retail or final distribution is still disappointing, there are, however, some movements which indicate a more optimistic outlook in leading basic lines. The Tenderfoot Farmer
It was one of these experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow are so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds him-self regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shav-ings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "week" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfalling remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medieine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol es from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."
