HOW ST. LOUIS MANAGER WINS

Winning Teams Are Always Hustling for Every Little Point-Team Work Necessary.

BY JOHN C'CONNOR.

(Copyright, 1910, by Joseph B. Rowles.) Keeping every player on his toes every minute of every game is what vins-and this regardless of our own showing so far this season. Whenever players begin to touch their heels to the ground, either fielding, hitting or running the bases, they are getting ready to lose a lot of ball games.

All the winning teams I have played with, or managed, have been teams that kept hustling every minute for every point. The study of heel and toe was the most important. Persons outside the business do not realize the importance of this. A base runner, for instance, who moves off first with his heels down, loses nearly three feet in reaching second because he was not on his toes and jumping when he started. Inches count in modern baseball and men who lose feet are bad ball players no matter how good they

To win every man on a team, not only those on the field, but the coachers, must know what is to be done. In this experience and familiarity with each other's style of play helps a lot. If one man does not know the habits and style of the others he is likely to destroy all team work and ruin the best laid plans of the others. It is the duty of a manager, as I see it, to try to keep up this enthusiasm provided he can force the pace of the men without damaging them otherwise. His position is a hard one. He must know his men intimately, and understand their temperaments. He must handle each man separately, yet avoid all favoritism and partiality. Every manager has the same things to contend with and his duties on the playing field really are the lightest of all. If a man's heart is not in his work and if he lacks confidence in himself and his club he cannot win. What winning I have done in the past is due to this hustling, aggressive style of play which I learned chiefly under Tebeau and with the old Cleveland

It is Chasing Mint Julep From Bar and Has Relegated Sundae to Rear of Drug Stores-Dealers Busy.

Chicago .-- Buttermilk -- the drink that is making Chicago famous.

If you don't live strictly on a but termilk diet during the hot weather you don't belong, and dairymen, doc tors, drug-store keepers, club men, caterers and restauranteurs have as much as agreed upon it.

According to people who devote much of their time to the laudable labor of selling thirst quenching peverages, buttermilk has for the last five years steadily increased in popularity as a hot-weather drink until today it is the most sought after of all, having surpassed such rivals as the once-favored ice-cream soda, the mint smash or the entrancing julep.

When the thermometer hovers be tween 88 and 95, buttermilk becomes the cup that cheers and never inebriates, no matter how plenteously imbibed. Drink experts say so. They say that this once more or less despised liquid is now called for more frequently than any other in country clubs, in drug stores, in hotels, in restaurants and in buffets.

It is made by private families from "lacto-bacilli" tablets, which hotels and restaurants it is served icecold in bottles made especially for buttermilk.

And why? Because for a long time physicians have been pointing out that it is the best hot-weather drink. They have said that it is the most easily digested, the most cooling, the and that wasmost healthful. They have declared it even an excellent hot-weather food. And besides that, there are compara tively few people, it is said, who don't take to buttermilk naturally, like a duck to water.

"Buttermlik?" queried Manager Marsh of the Borden Dairy company "Why, we are selling more buttermilk right now than ever before. It is the Chicago summer drink, and we are in a position to know. It is being sold everywhere-because 'most everyone has a nicked to spare and 'most every-

Tannersville, N. Y .--- If Harvey Baker, a farmer, could only get another cow and another bolt of lightning he would have money in the bank. He said so himself in describing an untoward occurrence in which his only cow, Fannie, and a thunderstorm play ed the principal roles. For several years Fannie's generos ity in the matter of giving milk has been Baker's chief asset. Selling the milk for 8 cents a quart and the fact that Fannie has always been an ac modating cow have made it possi ble for the farmer to keep his head above water. He has laid in no sur plusage of wealth, but after what has happened he is sure that if he had one more cow and if the weather con-
