PESSIMIST RAISES A WAIL

Incidentally Gives a Hard Jolt to Time-Enlarged Conception of New England Thanksgiving.

"Oh, yes; the New Englanders make a great time of Thanksgiving," said the insurance man as the subject was under discussion. "Yes, they are great on Thanksgiving."

"All the relatives gather for a big dinner, don't they?" was asked.

"Yes, my Uncle Ben, up in Vermont, gathered thirty of us at his house last Thanksgiving."

"What a visit you must have had!" "Oh, yes."

"And the banquet. I can picture it." "Can you?"

"There was turkey, goose, duck, chicken, roast pig and spareribs. There was mince pie, pumpkin pie and cider. There was a big cottage pudding and cranberry sauce. Ah, it must have been a royal feast."

"Yes, it was," dryly replied the insurance man. "My Uncle Ben killed off four old roosters, his wife made four or five apple pies, and stewed up a peck of prunes, and we sat down to the feast."

"But—but it was Thanksgiving." "Sure, Mike. If it hadn't been we wouldn't have got the prunes."

"And—and that was all?" "All except that after dinner my Uncle Ben took up a collection for the heathen, and we chipped in 50 cents apiece. My Uncle Ben was the headman, you know. Oh, yes—New England Thanksgiving, I've been there."

Significance in Names.

In an Illinois town a workman having been informed that a sixth baby had arrived at his home, exclaimed: "Sufficient," and his neighbors, referring to his having given that name—Sufficient—to the new arrival, credited him with originality. The incident resembles a case nearer home, adds the New York Tribune. A New York family was blessed with nine daughters, when the stork dropped a tenth one. It was in the old days when the slang term for an old story was a "chestnut," and as the baby certainly came under that head she received the name, but for euphony's sake the French for the word was employed, and she was called Marron.

Putting in the Time.

A gentleman was engaging a general man and telling him what he wanted him to do. "You will have to clean the windows and the boots and the knives and go messages, chop wood, cut short grass, mind the horse and pony, look after the garden and keep the house supplied with vegetables and do any odd job that is required and if suitable you will get ten shillings a week."

"Is there any clay in the garden?" asked the man.

"What makes you ask that?" asked the gentleman.

"I was thinking I could make bricks in my spare time," said the man.

The Way to Find Him.

"My wife and I are going to spend a few months with her people at Strong's Corners," said the meek little man, "and I want you to mail your paper to me."

"Yes," said the clerk, "what's your name?"

"Well—er—to make sure, I guess you'd better address it: 'Mary Strong's Husband, Strong's Corners.'"

TEMPERANCE NOTES

HARM IN OCCASIONAL GLASS

Prof. Amaldi, Noted Italian Alienist, Tells of Many Dangers in Moderate Drinking.

The gifted Italian alienist, Prof. Paolo Amaldi, who is a physician and scientist of international note, delivered recently a public address on alcoholism and moderate drinking which illustrates in a striking way the fact that the great scientist leaders of the European movement against alcohol almost without exception make straight for the logical conclusion of abstinence.

"It is," said Professor Amaldi, "no spirit of dogmatism which makes me judge anti-alcohol propaganda of the moderate type to be contradictory, useless and harmful. Rather, the plainest logic. Alcohol is a poison, the prototype of narcotics, charged with passing seductions and permanent disasters. In the true and precise sense of the word no dose is harmless. In fact, a 'harmless glass' is a myth without scientific justification. From no point of view is it a food. The most minute quantity diminishes the system's power of resistance, as Laitenen's beautiful experiments have proved.

"Now, the logical conclusion from these facts is abstinence—a conclusion corroborated by personal experience. For thirty years I was a moderate drinker of wine. For fourteen I have lived abstinent, and the result is I commend abstinence to all who are dear to me. As a physician, too, and not merely in my work as an alienist, my most important successes are due to indicated prohibition of alcoholics, including wine.

"I must explain how and why I consider a temperance agitation in the moderate sense as an evil thing. First, it must be remembered that moderation has been fruitlessly preached for centuries by moralists and philanthropists. Further, in Italy, it is not the alcoholism of the few who land in prisons and madhouses which is the danger, but the widespread moderate alcoholism, which, affecting all strata of society, soils and discolors the whole nation; which under the disguise of the 'harmless glass,' weakens the whole national organism's power of resistance, increases disease of all kinds, makes the bed for all forms of tuberculosis, prepares the moral and physical decline of coming generations and flitches a fourth—perhaps a third—of our people's wages spent in 'moderate drinking.' The alcoholism of the insane, the criminal, the drunkard, is but the visible and irremediable exponent of the fundamental, the true pathological phenomenon—the social alcoholism, against which we must and can struggle.

"In this sense the maxim that moderate drinkers are the real cause of alcoholism is true. It is a pity that we, in Italy, cannot take advantage of the experience of other people in this fight. For if we should advance now to the radical position we could blot out the twenty to forty years which separates us from other nations."

EVILS OF THE LIQUOR HABIT

Little Band of Indian Shakers Are Doing Much to Stamp Out Injurious Traffic in West.

Working quietly but steadily, a little band of Indian Shakers, adherents of a new Indian religion, are doing more to stamp out intemperance in the northwest than any other factor, says Collier's. Asking no help from the whites or from the Indians themselves, but believing that they are directed by the spirit of their departed leader and founder of the sect, John Slocum, the priests of the belief are found in nearly all the Indian villages of Washington and Oregon. They teach one doctrine—temperance—cry continually against the evils of the liquor habit, and expound crudely the teachings of the Bible. John Slocum, the Moses of the Shakers, though dead, is their prophet. Through him the "Great Spirit" is directing the work of saving the red men from their greatest curse—whisky.

Since the Shaker priests have started their crusade, the authorities are finding that it is much easier to stop the illegal traffic of liquor among the Indians. When an Indian, a member of the faith, backslides and falls by the wayside, the priests or priestesses find out who sold the liquor and report the seller to the authorities. Convictions are assured, as the Indians will testify against the prisoner, something that has never been true in the northwest before.

A few months ago the Shakers dedicated a handsome new church at Mud Bay, near Olympia, the capital of Washington, the home and the birthplace of the new faith. The church is a substantial structure constructed entirely by the Indians. Peter Kalam, a highly educated, wealthy priest of the faith, donated the money to buy the materials, and with the other Mud Bay Indians, did the manual labor upon the building. Mud Bay Sam donated to the church an acre of ground, upon which the building stands.

Alcohol a Fraud.

Dr. Norman Kerr, president of the Society for the Study of Inebriety, London, says:

"Other things being equal, the less alcoholic liquors resorted to the better for the chances of the patient's recovery. Alcohol does not nourish, but pulls down; does not stimulate, but depresses; does not strengthen, but excites and exhausts. Alcohol is the pathological fraud of frauds, degenerating, while it claims to be reconstructing; enfeebling, while it appears to be invigorating; destroying vitality while it professes to infuse new life."

THE NEWS OF PENNSYLVANIA

Pittsburg.—The Carnegie Steel Company mills of the United States Steel Corporation Wednesday saw the first briquette made from ore dust in their special plant. The briquette will be converted into pig iron and thus is solved the conservation of ore dust, which has heretofore been scattered by the winds over the many square miles of the Pittsburg district. The discovery of the briquetting plant and its operation here means a saving of millions of dollars on what has heretofore been accounted as waste and was reckoned in the cost of production. For two years the steel company has been working on a plan to capture the ore dust from the furnaces and machinery was invented for this purpose. A special plant for the briquetting was built and its first product was brought to hand yesterday. Fifty-eight men are employed in this conservation scheme, and new plants will be added to meet the requirements.

Lebanon.—To marry and thus escape a breach of promise suit, only to be literally dragged from the arms of his bride to answer another breach of promise suit, was the unique experience of Matthias Fatt, aged 23 years, of this city. Miss Maria Bruker, of Hebron, recently brought suit against him for breach of promise, and on Tuesday of this week he married her, an alderman performing the ceremony in the office of the marriage license clerk. Fatt and his bride had scarcely left the place when Miss Annie Marshall, of this city, went before Judge Henry and instituted a breach of promise suit against the bridegroom. No amount has been named for heart balm, and a sympathetic friend furnished bail, so that Fatt could return to his bride and conclude the honeymoon.

Lock Haven.—Secretary Calibus of the State Game Commission, estimates there were about 800 deer killed in Pennsylvania the season just closed. Of this number at least 125 were killed in Clinton county, which is unquestionably one of the best sections in the State for the propagation of deer. This has been the best deer season since the introduction of the new laws governing the killing of deer and sportsmen generally have endeavored to live up to them in the strictest sense. There have been no violations revealed and strange as it may appear not an accident reported during the entire fifteen days, yet the woods were fairly swarming with hunters.

Pittsburg.—L. Swift, Jr., a former councilman convicted of bribery during the councilmanic graft crusade of last spring, surrendered himself to the sheriff to begin a four months' sentence that had been imposed. Appeals to the Superior and Supreme Courts for a new trial were refused, and the sentence of the lower court was upheld. Swift was charged with taking $81.10 for his vote in councils on the ordinance selecting banks as city depositories.

South Bethlehem.—Edward Miller nearly killed his brother-in-law, Charles Kratzer, with shot in his anxiety to kill a rabbit that suddenly dashed across their path, while out hunting. Surprised at the audacity of the cotton tail, Miller hurriedly pointed his gun and pulled the trigger. The shot struck Kratzer full in the right arm and side, and a doctor afterwards picked out 175 pieces of shot from the wounded man's body.

Shenandoah.—Joseph Botanas, 16 years old, had an awful experience and a miraculous escape from death at Maple Hill colliery. He was done for the day. Passing rapidly-revolving machinery, his clothing caught in a belt, whirling him in space from one wheel to another for about five minutes before his agonizing cries were heard and the machinery stopped. Strange to say, he was only slightly injured.

York.—Sol C. Mayer, 59 years old, of Atlanta, Ga., dropped dead in a local jewelry store. Heart disease was the cause. Mr. Mayer, who is a traveling salesman, had entered the store for the purpose of having his watch repaired. While the jeweler was examining the timepiece, Mayer fell backwards to the floor, dying within a few minutes.

Pottstown.—A Reading Railway flyer running a fifty-mile clip through the lower end of Pottstown, killed a man who is believed to be an employee of one of the industries in that locality. His head is missing, and he was otherwise so terribly mangled that identification is impossible.

Altoona.—After nine years of wandering about the country, C. F. Ames, aged 42, a plumber, returned to his former home at Beaver Falls, found his wife married to another man, and rather than cause any trouble in the apparently happy household, agreed to go his way, providing he was permitted to take his eldest son, aged 11. Father and boy started for Wilkes-Barre, where the former had been employed, but their money ran out when they reached here. Ames related the story to Chief of Police Clark, whose heart was touched.

Birdsboro.—Catherine Snyder, 8-year-old daughter of Charles Snyder, who was shot by her brother Howard, with a revolver, succumbed to the wounds accidentally inflicted by the bullet, after being in a hospital for one day.

The excess of exports of merchandise over imports in the United States for the first nine months of 1910 amounted in value to $50,535,298. However, in the same period last year the excess was $92,420,554 and in the 1909 period $422,269,181.

COMMERCIAL

Weekly Review of Trade and Market Reports.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

"Business moves along lines of safety, the absence of speculation making the situation appear duller than it actually is. The volume of transactions, although by no means as large as it might be if expanded to fulfilled limits, is nevertheless sufficiently large to keep the great body of workmen occupied, so that the average of prosperity is fair.

"Buying of equipment by the railroads develops slowly, yet considerable new business is in sight and a generally more hopeful feeling prevails in iron and steel."

Bradstreet's says:

"Demand for holiday goods is becoming more prominent, and developments in this respect are responsible for whatever expansion has occurred in trade this week. Novelties, jewelry and such articles are appropriate to the season and in good request and the consensus of reports indicates that trade is in excess of last year.

"Business failures in the United States for the week ended November 24 were 212, against 248 last week, 217 in the like week of 1909, 193 in 1908, 258 in 1907 and 174 in 1906."

RED CROSS SEAL IN HISTORY

First Used During the American Civil War—Now an Aid in Fighting Tuberculosis.

Red Cross Christmas seals date back in their origin to "charity stamps," first used for the soldiers' relief funds in Boston in 1862, during the Civil war. After the war, this method of raising money was discontinued in this country for a generation, although it found vogue in Portugal, Switzerland, Australia, France, Spain, Denmark, Norway, Russia, Sweden and other European countries. There are now several hundred different types of charity stamps used in all parts of the world.

Stamps or seals were first used to get money for the anti-tuberculosis crusade in Norway and Sweden in 1904. After being used in these countries for three years, as a direct result of the interest of Jacob Riis in this movement, the Delaware Anti-Tuberculosis association, headed by Miss Emily P. Bissell, and the Red Cross society of Delaware combined in issuing a tuberculosis stamp. So successful was this campaign that nearly $3,000 was realized, and the next year, in 1908, the American Red Cross was induced to issue a national Red Cross tuberculosis stamp. From this sale, $135,000 was realized, that amount being almost doubled in 1909. This year, for the first time, the sale is organized on a comprehensive basis, taking in all parts of the United States. A million for tuberculosis work is confidently expected.

This harmless preparation will promptly digest anything you eat and overcome a sick, sour, gassy or out-of-order stomach within five minutes. If your meals don't fit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion. Old Pete's Little Joke.

Foolish questions and funny answers were under discussion in the Trenton avenue and Dauphin street police station the other day, and after listening for a while to some amusing instances, Sergeant McCay told the following:

"Old Pete Flood was the attendant in the Franklin cemetery some years ago, and it became the custom to ask him how business was, just to hear his reply. It came in a heavy bass voice:

"'Ain't buried a living soul today.'"
