A few days ago when looking after his traps he was surprised to have the same fox again in his possession, caught at the very same spot as the former time.

County Must Pay.

Judge Frank Trexler of Lehigh County filed an opinion of State-wide interest on Monday, deciding the question of payment by a county for the burial of a soldier who dies in another county.

The case arose from the death of Lieutenant Robert Hammersly of Altoona, who died at the Soldiers' Home in Hampton, Va.

Judge Trexler upheld the county commissioners in their refusal to pay the bill, deciding that only those soldiers who die within the county are to be buried at the county's expense.

Did Hair Ribbon Carry Fever.

The necessity of great care to prevent the dissemination of contagious diseases is demonstrated by the experience of a family living beyond the corporate limits of Waynesboro.

Children from a home in which there had been scarlet fever went coasting upon Frick hill. One of them lost a hair ribbon.

Children of another family, coasting there, found the ribbon and, not knowing its ownership, carried it home. Later they discovered to whom it belonged and returned it, but, about the same time, scarlet fever developed in the house, and it is the belief of the family that the scarlet fever germs were carried into its home by the hair ribbon.
