GOOD ADVICE.

Ferdinand—She is all the world to me! What would you advise me to do?
William—See a little more of the world, old chap!

IT IS A MISTAKE

Many have the idea that anything will sell if advertised strong enough. This is a great mistake. True, a few sales might be made by advertising an absolutely worthless article but it is only the article that is bought again and again that pays. An example of the big success of a worthy article is the enormous sale that has grown up for Cascarets Candy Cathartic. This wonderful record is the result of great merit successfully made known through persistent advertising and the mouth-to-mouth recommendation given Cascarets by its friends and users.

Like all great successes, trade placards prey on the unsuspecting public by marketing fake tablets similar in appearance to Cascarets. Care should always be exercised in purchasing well advertised goods, especially an article that has a national sale like Cascarets. Do not allow a substitute to be palmed off on you.

The Oldest Kluckit.

Jake Hunt, the oldest living Kluckit Indian known, lies at death's door at his home adjoining this town east of here. The old Indian is reputed to be more than 100 years of age.

Years ago an Indian village stood where the Hunt family now carries on a general farming business. All that is left of the old settlement is a little shanty, a totem pole and numerous mounds where the Kluckit Indians who could not reach the century mark Old Jake says that this was the Indians' paradise before the advent of early white settlers.

Jake Hunt is destined not to die a poor Indian. His lands are as rich and productive as any in the valley and command a high price. He is said to have married seven times during his long career, but there will be only a widow and a few children to fall heir to his valuable property.—Husum Correspondence Portland Oregonian.

Art in the Nude.

The photographer's lady was verily preoccupied showing some samples of work to prospective sitters, when a tall and rawboned individual, apparently from "the land," stalked solemnly into the studio, and intimated that he would like to know what the "pieces" were worth.

"Like that, $3 a dozen," said the photographer's lady, handing him one. The former gazed long and earnestly at the photograph of a very small baby sitting in a wash basin.

"And what would it cost with my clothes on?" he finally asked.

EVOLVES NOVEL ATHLETIC TRAINING IDEA

Coach A. A. Stagg, University of Chicago.

Coach A. A. Stagg of the University of Chicago has evolved the new "American idea" for athletic training in the educational institutions of the land. Departments founded for the present and future welfare of all the students, with specialized directors and improved facilities, is the coach's plan for the correct physical culture of college youths.

Coach Stagg's ideals are embodied in a report entitled "Some Comments on Physical Education," prepared for the Society of Directors of Physical Education in Colleges, of which he is president. In giving details for more efficient work in athletic lines he emphasizes the moral and educational importance of athletics in centers of learning.

In addition to caring for the students' health and morals Coach Stagg recommends training that will benefit the collegians after graduation.

"An ideal scheme of physical education, it seems to me, would not be complete unless it provided the student with the training for recreational exercise in after life," he says. "To that end, therefore, students should be taught and encouraged to master with some degree of proficiency swimming, bowling, handball, basketball, tennis, golf, boating, bicycling, horsemanship etc., so that he should have a degree of proficiency in many forms of exercise and recreation."

The maroon teacher's requirements for directors of physical education are probably stricter than those enforced in the majority of colleges. In discussing the ideal director he says:

"I should say first of all, that he should have the instinct of an educator. He should have a broad collegiate training so that he would have breadth of vision. It would serve him well if in college he could specialize in psychology and the theory of education. He should have normal training in a good school of physical education, either preceding or following this with a complete course in medicine. While in college he should have been interested in and closely studied gymnastics and athletics and participated in them as much as possible.

"It has been truly said that the physical director has more influence on student morals than any other teacher. That then indicates the necessity of the director being a man of high impulses, of fine personality, fair-minded, sympathetic and honest. His public and private relations with students demand frankness with sympathy, justice with firmness and uncompromising honesty."

MANAGE OWN RACING STABLE

King George Announces Thoroughbreds Will Be Raced Next Year Under Majesty's Colors.

The announcement has been received by several prominent American turfmen that King George of England would personally conduct his stable of thoroughbreds on the English tracks next year and follow the example of his father, King Edward.

King George has always been a great admirer of racing and before ascending the throne was prominently engaged in most of the English classics. After the death of King Edward, however, those of His Majesty's horses which were in training were run in the name of Lord Derby.

The news from England is that King George has decided to take up the famous thoroughbreds and will enter all the horses in his own name. The latest issue of the English racing calendar, the official journal of the Jockey Club, contains details of the entries for next season's meetings that have already entered into on behalf of the King. The engagements relate to the New Market, Second October, Bath, Highbury Club, Doncaster Spring, Gatwick October, Hurst Park Whitson, Newbury Summer and Sandown Park first summer meeting.

GOOD POINTS IN FOOTBALL

Among Other Things It Teaches Players Value of Moderation in Eating and Drinking.

There is no doubt that football is a very strenuous sport, and that it has more than a dash of danger in it. But, after all, it has its uses, declares the Baltimore Sun, and possibly they will outweigh the dangers in the long run. It is for the most part a clean, manly sport, though there occasionally creeps into a line-up some coward who takes advantage of the opportunity offered to wreak personal spite or to gain victory by dirty work. The game itself teaches young men in the first place, the necessity for taking care of themselves physically. It teaches them that moderation in eating and drinking is of the highest value in putting athletes in condition and keeping them there, and it is thus useful in forming their habits of life. Then it teaches them on the field that instant, unhesitating obedience to command is absolutely necessary to success; that they must not stop to question the advisability or argue the expediency of a movement decided upon by the leader, but that they must instantly obey.

M'GRAW PESTERS AN UMPIRE

Leader of New York Giants "Gets Goat" of Arbitrator Johnstone by Referring to Red Nose.

Wonder if the war between John J. McGraw and Umpire Johnstone's nose will be continued all through the campaign of 1917? It was a feature of the last three summers, and John J. will hardly let go of anything which affords him and his merry men so much fun as has been given them by Johnstone's hogie, says a New York correspondent of the Cleveland Leader.

Umpire Johnstone is one of those florid men whose snouts get sunburned in a hurry. After about one week of real hot weather his proboscis bakes a flaming crimson, and stands out from his expressive countenance like a white-headed Swede at a Spanish clambake. It grows redder and redder as the hot spell continues, and doesn't bleach out till the cool weather comes—and what fun McGraw does have with that promontory!

John goes by first base and some other coacher by third. Ere long a decision bobs up that John doesn't like, and he barks merrily: "What's the greatest color for a human nose, kid?"

"R-red!" bellows the coacher, and Johnstone looks pained.

"Costs lots of money to paint a nose red, doesn't it, kid?"

"Yep, but look at the fun you have!"

"By this time Johnstone's whole face begins to match the rose, but what can he do? What can he say? McGraw

BAILEY TO AUCTION HORSES

Texas Senator Makes Announcement That He Will Dispose of His String of Trotters.

It is announced that Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Texas has decided to sell his entire trotting horse string and will retire permanently from the sport. The announcement is made by his New York agents, who have been authorized to sell his entire string of horses, about 50 head, at public auction next month. The only horse which will not go under the hammer is the famous stallion Prodigal (216), now 25 years old, which the Senator has owned many years.

Senator Bailey gives lack of time and pressure of other business as the reason for his decision. The senator is now the only leading man in public life interested in the American trotter. He is rated as an authority on blood lines and for many years has taken an active part in the improvement of the American light harness horse and the advancement of racing. He is the president of the American Association of Trotting Horse Breeders.

GOSSIP OF SPORTDOM

Baltimore is making strenuous efforts to get Bob Unglaub of the Washington team.

It is about time for another celebrity to "refuse to coach the Harvard baseball team."

George Huff, the Cubs' aggressive scout, is scouring the woods in search of the ideal bat.

Editor Travis of an eastern golf magazine is maintaining his record for continuous play in amateur tournaments. Arthur Shafer, Giant utility infielder, has the distinction of being the first American baseball player to go to Japan as a coach.

Western Golf association leaders want a few more concessions from the reluctant east, so they are reviving that familiar war talk once more.

Tommy Burns just can't stay retired. Now the Canadian says he will return to the fighting game and battle Langford if he can cure a bad knee.

"Muggsy" McGraw, manager of the Giants, arises and remarks that he will get in condition this spring with the intention of jumping into the game occasionally.

Handing titles to athletes has not proved successful in the past and Mahout will be working under a sort of hoodoo defending that passed to him by Gotch.

Elliott, new infielder of the New York Highlanders, has fallen heir to $30,000 left by a relative. That is not enough to put him out of the game, he says. Only the umpire can do that.

Jack Flynn, Pirate first baseman, who was sought by Manager Chance of the Cubs when waivers were asked, is now scheduled to become an understudy to George Gibson, the Pittsburgh pitcher, who has been a much overworked athlete in the past.

National league magnates have come to the conclusion that an umpire should be put on the retired list when his eyesight has failed him. This is a brilliant and new idea.

George Tebeau, the Kansas City baseball magnate, assures the scribes something worth reporting will pop in the fall, but fails to mention how this is to help out in the present emergency.

Change Name of Doves.

The name of the Boston Nationals may be changed from the Doves to the "Rustlers." They were called Doves in honor of the Dovey brothers, and now that Russell is in command a change would be in order.

Omaha Signs Pickering.

Ollie Pickering, the veteran outfielder who distinguished himself with the Louisville American association team last season has been signed for the 1911 season by Pa Rourke. Mr. Rourke says Pickering will be placed somewhere in the outfield, but does not know where. Pickering was in Omaha in 1898, when he did good work for the local team. His start in the baseball world was made in Columbus, O., in 1896. He was with the St. Louis Browns in 1907, with Washington in 1908, the next year with the millers of Minneapolis and last year with Louisville.

Jim Corbett, always on the alert, is investigating Carl Morris, the Oklahoma giant, who slaughtered Marvin Hart in three rounds last week. Corbett says he is going to put on the gloves with the former locomotive fireman and may decide to take him in-tow.

The Wise Bishop.

To the brilliant Episcopal bishop of Tennessee, Dr. Thomas F. Gallor, a Memphis man of rather narrow views complained about charity balls.

"I doubt if it be quite reverent, Bishop," the man said, "to give a ball for the purpose of charity."

But Bishop Gallor, with a saving sort of common sense, laughed and replied:

"Why, my dear fellow, I'm sure, if it would do anybody any good, I'd dance the whole length of Memphis in full canonicals."

THREE CROPS A YEAR

Doesn't such a statement appeal to YOU, a Northern farmer, struggling each year to produce even one crop successfully? Skeptical though you may be, we can furnish you absolute proof that there IS a CLIMATE and a SOIL capable of producing THREE SUCCESSIVE CROPS IN ONE YEAR. You say, "Show me this WONDERFUL COUNTRY." Come then from your land of ice and snow and see these.

SOUTH GEORGIA FARMS

Located in Ware County, (South) Georgia, the heart of the Wiregrass Country and the Garden Spot of the State. It begins within three miles of the bustling City of Waycross, a country that awaits the plow of the farmer and the man who will return to the soil. Good Health, Pure Water, Home Market, Good Soil, Level Land, Good Drainage, Good Transportation, and THREE CROPS A YEAR.

Read This Open Letter From a Successful Farmer

Waycross, Ga., Nov. 28, 1910.

To Whom It May Concern:
I am a resident of Ware County and my farm adjoins Deen Land Farms, located 11 miles southwest of Waycross. I am cultivating 100 acres. I have brought my land into a high state of cultivation and yield claim one of the best farms in the county. This year (1910) I planted 50 acres to corn and the crop measured 2,000 bushels or 40 bushels to the acre. This corn is worth $1.00 per bushel in the Waycross market, but I have none to sell, as it is fed to my stock of which I have a plenty. The stock consists of 3 horses, 4 mules, 75 hogs, and 150 head of cattle. Had 8 acres in hay which yielded one ton to the acre and worth $25 per ton. One acre in sugar cane, which easily netted me $100.00. My sweet potatoes covered two acres of ground and I dug 400 bushels, worth today 80 cents per bushel. I used no commercial fertilizer, whatever, only the manure from my stock was spread on the fields and there is nothing that can beat it for enriching the soil. I consider my income from the farm to be in excess of $3,000.00.

To those who are seeking a home and land that is fertile, I say, come to Ware county and locate south of Waycross. Yours respectfully,
M. TATUM.

Isn't that one of the most HONEST and CONVINCING letters that you ever read? It does not subscribe to a fake we can prove to YOUR SATISFACTION. You can't beat this land, and you can't beat our prices. We guarantee it. We'll allow you 60 days—two months—satisfy yourself that here's the farm and here's the place you've been hoping for. planning for, dreaming of. If it isn't—if you are not then satisfied, we'll hand your money back without a murmur. Show any misrepresentation and we will refund your money, every penny of it, plus interest, right up to the hour of your last payment. Here is the best land that lies out of doors, and cheap; we want actual settlers, growers of truck, and small farmers. That's why this land is selling now at $20 to $25 an acre, according to nearness to Waycross; all equally good soil; $1 per acre down and $20 to $25 per acre per month. In two years you wouldn't see it for $200 per acre. No interest; no taxes; no recording fees.
