THE OLD-TIME PARLOR.

There used to be in almost every rural home in the country a sacred room—the "parlor." Every reader is probably familiar with it, for it still exists, though not so universally as it did years ago, when no home in the land, in village, hamlet, or on farm, was considered complete or well-equipped without this dismal apartment—carefully shrouded in against air and sunlight; a jar of waxwork on the center table; a collection of curious odds and ends on the what-not in the corner; mottoes and chromes on the wall; a vivid ingrain or Brussels carpet on the floor. The sound of festivity seldom penetrated the gloom of this parlor, says the Philadelphia Press. At rare intervals distinguished visitors were received in it—witnesses of wedding or funeral. It was never a pleasant room; it smelled damp and dusty; the children stood in awe of it; and yet it was their mother's pride. Happily the day of the pentup, unsavory parlor is fast passing away. The children, going out into the bicker world with observant eyes, have returned to the homestead and insisted upon flinging open the doors and windows and admitting a burst of sunlight and a rush of pure air. They have made a living room of a tomb. In their childhood the kitchen was the most comfortable place in the house; it was scrubbed every day, ventilated always, made light and airy and clean and hospitable while the ghastly forbidden precincts of the parlor were exposed to sanitary search not oftener than twice a year—during the inevitable spring and fall housecleaning.

It is only recently that they have discovered a way of canning decayed eggs, and there are bakers in the large cities who are so devoid of honesty that they would as soon use rotten eggs as fresh ones. Thus a market is created, and but for the fact that the state under its pure food laws can step in and condemn this product as unfit for consumption, the problem created by cold storage would have been rendered more complex as the year goes by, says the Rochester Herald. It is not beyond the bounds of possibility that meat which has been cold-stored to the point of decay is treated in the same manner. No one ever hears of it being thrown away.

And now the London police have discovered that the prisoner convicted by finger prints, and who, it was reported, had established his innocence by indisputable evidence that, being in the army at the time, he could not have been guilty, was, after all, a fakir. He stole the army records of another man to bolster up his defense and came very nearly getting away with it. The police are doubly pleased at the discovery, since it prevents a guilty man from escaping and re-establishes the finger-print theory as infallible at least so far as experience has gone. But for a time the fakir had both the London police and the finger-print theory "groggy."

Secretary Dickinson has just issued a report on the militia of this country that shows how little the minds of Americans are turned away from peace and toward war. He announces that in 1910 the strength of the organized militia forces of the nation is only 119,660 men, an increase of but 3,113 in seven years, says the Boston Globe. He does not add that there are almost to a thousand as many clergymen, printers, manufacturers, grocers, butchers, stenographers or masons in the nation as there are citizen soldiers. But the fact is true.

A Butte man who is being sued for breach of promise is charged by the plaintiff with having called her "My Dear Tobacco." No wonder she wants $10,000, since he was not explicit enough to say whether she was of fine cut, or a mere plug.

Returns from the New York public library indicate that fiction fell off in demand as compared with books of a historical or scientific nature. This should spur the Indiana school of novelists to renewed efforts or some thing.

A San Francisco man says he will rot before he pays alimony to his divorced wife, but it is believed he will change his mind before decomposition gets a firm hold on him.

It may be theoretically possible to transport 10,000 men across the Alps in aeroplanes, but with the example of Molissant and Hoxley in their minds the chances are that 9,000 of them will refuse to be transported in that way.

China will sacrifice 200,000,000 quous for the artificial hair market this year, and all will be sent to America. The joke on the Chinese is that they don't know that puffs have gone out of fashion now.

The man who experiments in fruit growing may produce a strawberry so big that it will fill a box by itself, and leave no room for deception.

AMERICAN HELP FOR PERSIA

Experts to Reorganize Its Finances.

W. M. SHUSTER IS TREASURER GENERAL.

Washington, D. C.—To assist the Persian government in reorganizing its finances W. Morgan Shuster, of this city, will be appointed treasurer general of the empire. Mr. Shuster, who reorganized the Philippine customs service and revised the Philippine tariff law, is one of five Americans who will be employed by Persia in its financial rehabilitation.

The Persian Parliament recently passed a law authorizing the government to seek five American experts to reorganize the finances. The Persian charge in Washington thereupon took up the matter with the State Department, which suggested the names of five Americans competent to undertake the task. In addition to the treasurer general, the positions to be filled by Americans are those of inspector and an expert accountant, who will serve as assistants to the treasurer general, and a director of taxation, with one assistant. The American appointees will be under the direction of the Persian Minister of Finance and their contracts will be for a minimum of three years. Arrangements practically have been completed for the appointment of these other experts, and their names will be announced shortly.

The advent of the Americans in Persia will be in line with the policy of the new regime of the empire to introduce foreign talent in various capacities for the purpose of modernizing the administration of the country. Mr. Shuster has had many years of experience abroad in the service of the United States government. From 1898 to 1901 he was in Cuba, chiefly in the customs service, and in 1901 he was appointed collector of customs for the Philippine Islands, having charge of reorganizing the Philippine customs service and revising the Philippine tariff laws. Upon the recommendation of President Taft, who was then secretary of war, Mr. Shuster was appointed by President Roosevelt in 1906 secretary of public instruction in the Philippine Islands and a member of the Philippine Commission. He is a member of the bar of the Supreme Court of the United States and of the federal Court of Customs Appeals, as well as of the Supreme Court and Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

810,000 FOR A CALF.

Record Price for Youngster Only Seven Weeks Old.

Brockton, Mass.—Daniel W. Field, of this city, has announced the sale of his seven weeks' old Royal purple bull calf, Azgie Cornucopia Sir Colantha, to W. H. Miner, of Chicago, the purchase price being $10,000, the highest amount, it is believed, ever paid for a young bull. The bull was, figuratively, born with a silver spoon in its mouth, its dam and sire being world's champions.

The dam was Azgie Cornucopia Pauline, owned by Mr. Field. Pauline is the world's champion senior four-year-old. The sire is Colantha Johanna Lad, also owned by Mr. Field. He paid $8,000 for the bull. Both sire and dam are products of previous world's champions.

Mr. Miner operates a farm of 7,000 acres at Chase, N. Y. He is stocking his farm with the best horses and cattle that he can secure. A few days ago he sent an expert agent to this city and the purchase price was agreed upon.

C.—Lieutenant Commander Benoit d'Az, the French naval attaché, called upon Acting Secretary Winthrop at the Navy Department to notify him that the French squadron in the West Indies will visit New Orleans between February 23 and 25. TOMB OF MILLIONAIRE ROBBED

Ghouls Carry Off Woman's Body From Cemetery.

Erie, Pa.—Body-snatching that may equal the daring grave-robbers who stirred the country more than a quarter of a century ago when the body of A. T. Stewart, New York's pioneer merchant, was stolen, has stirred this section of Pennsylvania in indignation at its daring as nothing has since the sensational kidnapping which occurred in this vicinity a few years ago.

The mausoleum of one of the most prominent families of this section of the state was desecrated. A body is missing from the vault of the family of the late Congressman William L. Scott. The police of neighboring cities and communities within 40 miles have been notified of the crime. The discovery was made by two women walking through the Erie Cemetery. The family was immediately notified and a watch was placed in the cemetery at midnight after all assurances were made that the missing body was not in the vicinity.

Is Mrs. McCollum's Body.

While the police have been informed of the grave-robbing, no name is attached to the missing body by them. The first information to the public came from the family, but again no name is given. It is known, however, that the body taken by the ghouls is that of Mrs. McCollum, sister-in-law of the late Mr. Scott. The police believe the body is being held for ransom and that the vandals also intended to carry away the bodies of the millionaire and his wife.

Investigation showed that the casket containing the body of Mrs. McCollum had been carried away. The caskets were sealed in a wall, and a chisel had been used in breaking the seals before the metallic box could be carried away.

That the casket and body were carried away in a wagon is indicated by tracks in the snow about the mausoleum. The footprints of four, and in some instances, six men are discernible about a point where the end of a wagon might be placed.

Cemetery Officers Reward.

The Erie Cemetery Association offered a reward of $1,000 for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the ghouls who desecrated the mausoleum. Later developments indicate that the body of Mrs. Anna M. McCollum had been taken from the casket before its removal from the mausoleum. Parts of the casket were found scattered over the floor of the vault. Although a large force of detectives are making a thorough search of the city not a trace of the robbers or the missing body has been found.

LOCAL OPTION FOR ALABAMA.

House Passes Bill And the Senate Is For It.

Montgomery, Ala.—By a vote of 58 to 44 the House of Representatives passed the Parks Local Option bill. As the Senate is known to be overwhelmingly in favor of a local option bill, it is believed that the Parks bill will be rushed through that body and become a law before the end of next week. The bill provides that 45 per cent. of the number that vote for Governor can petition for an election on the question of "wet" or "dry." It also provides for distilleries and breweries.

HOUSE INCREASES ITS MEMBERSHIP

Crumpacker Bill Fixes Size of House For Ten Years.

BASED ON THE 1910 CENSUS REPORT.

Democrats, Aided by Few Republicans, Win Fight for Increased Representation—Reapportionment Under the Census of 1910—New York Gains Six and Pennsylvania Four Additional Representatives.

Washington, D. C.—After March 4, 1913, the Senate concurring, the House of Representatives will consist of 433 members. This is the result of an all-day struggle in the House over the question of reapportionment, which finally resulted in the passage of the Crumpacker bill fixing the size of the House for ten years, commencing with the Sixty-third Congress, at the number stated. If Arizona and New Mexico should be admitted to statehood, they will be given one representative each, bringing the total up to 435.

Under the new reapportionment plan no state loses a member. The following states gain the number indicated:

Alabama, 1; California, 3; Colorado, 1; Florida, 1; Georgia, 1; Idaho, 1; Illinois, 2; Louisiana, 1; Massachusetts, 2; Michigan, 1; Minnesota, 1; Montana, 1; New Jersey, 2; New York, 6; North Dakota, 1; Ohio, 1; Oklahoma, 3; Oregon, 1; Pennsylvania, 4; Rhode Island, 1; South Dakota, 1; Texas, 2; Utah, 1; Washington, 2; West Virginia, 1.

The House spent more than five hours in discussing and voting upon the bill and various proposed amendments. An amendment offered by Representative Bennet, of New York, and designed to cut down Southern representation, was voted down by 154 to 96.

Champ Clark, of Missouri, in favoring an increase in membership, declared that the real work of the House would continue to be performed in committees and that the number of representatives on the floor would make little or no difference.

WHOLE FAMILY WIPED OUT

Husband and Wife Die in a Suicide Pact.

New York.—Joseph Barrett, on his way up the stairs of the apartment house at 750 Fulton street, Brooklyn, stumbled against a man. Barrett struck out with his right hand. "What are you doing here?" he asked. "It's you, Barrett, is it? What are you doing here?" "Oh, it's you, Barrett, is it?" said the man on the stairs. "I don't know what to do. I've got 50 cents between my family and starvation. What would you do?" "I think," said Joe Barrett, "I would go to bed and look for a job in the morning. Go on. That's a good fellow."

With a nod, the man turned into a third-floor flat as Barrett climbed another flight of stairs to the fourth floor. Barrett told his wife that he had met Frank Bernard in the hallway and that Barrett seemed depressed.

Some hours later, at getting-up time, Barrett smelled gas. For a time the odor was hard to locate. He went up a flight of stairs and made sure it came from the Bernard flat. He tried the doors. All were locked. He went to his own apartment and used the fire escape to the apartment above.

In the bedroom of the Bernard apartment Mr. Barrett found Frank Bernard, his wife and two small children dead on the bed. Gas was rushing from opened cracks in the ceiling chandelier. Mr. Barrett notified the police, and Borough Inspector James Dillon and Capt. B. J. Hayes, of the Bergen street station, made a formal investigation.

It seemed that Mr. and Mrs. Bernard had agreed to die together and take their children with them. There was no indication of a struggle. The father and mother lay clasped in each other's arms, with their children, George, four years old, and Daniel, two years old, in their arms. After questioning the people in the house, Inspector Dillon concluded that Bernard had become so despondent because of failure to obtain work that he had persuaded his wife to join him in committing suicide.

Frank Bernard was a well-known athletic trainer. He was a member of the old Union Athletic Club, Pineapple and Fulton streets, and was known all over the country as an amateur athlete. He ran in short events from 100 yards up to a quarter of a mile, and was also a good jumper and hurdler. He became a professional some years ago and contested in the Caledonian and Irish-American games, and in contests in all parts of the country. He was successful and well liked.

WIDOW KEEPS SUICIDE PACT

Kills Herself and Child After Her Husband's Death.

FAMILY IMPOVERISHED BY ILLNESS.

Mrs. Lynwood S. Keene, of Oxford, Me., Shoots Her 14-year-old Son and Then Kills Herself While the Body of Her Husband Is Being Prepared for Burial Downstairs. All Three Bodies Will Be Buried Together, According to Their Dying Request.

Oxford, Me.—In fulfillment of a compact made with her husband during his lingering illness, which death ended Saturday, Mrs. Lynwood Keene took her own life Sunday after having fatally shot her 14-year-old son Gerald. The compact dated about a month back and was found by the coroner in a sealed envelope in the woman's room.

Keene once was a prosperous farmer, but the family had become impoverished and discouraged during his long sickness. He was 38 years old and his wife a year or two younger. The document found in a dress in Mrs. Keene's room, along with several farewell letters to relatives bore the names of both Mr. and Mrs. Keene, although the husband apparently had been too feeble to more than make his mark, his name being written by his wife.

The document recited briefly the family troubles, the result of Mr. Keene's illness. In it his death was predicted, and it was stated that as both the parents thought it would be wrong to have their son remain in the world to suffer the troubles they had experienced, Mrs. Keene bound herself to "do away" in the words of the compact, with herself and their son Gerald as soon as possible after the death of the husband and father.

Friends of the family who were in the house assisting in preparing the body of Mr. Keene for burial heard shots fired upstairs. They found the boy Gerald in bed in his room with a bullet wound in his right temple. So close had the revolver been held to the child's head, probably while he was asleep, that the hair about his temple was singed. The boy was alive but unconscious when found. He lived less than an hour.

The door of Mrs. Keene's room was broken in and her body was found stretched on the bed. She had placed the revolver muzzle to the roof of her mouth and fired, death probably being instantaneous. The revolver was on the bed beside her. In letters to relatives to whom small gifts were made of personal belongings, the husband and wife asked to be buried in a double casket and that their son's coffin and theirs be placed in the same box for final interment.

LIVE STATE CAPITAL NEWS

Notes That Are of Interest to Pennsylvanians.

Brief Mention of Matters as They Occur at Harrisburg, Official and Otherwise.

Toll Road Bill.

The great influx of bills pertaining to good road legislation which has been introduced in both branches of the Legislature are now in the hands of the prime movers of the campaign where they will be closely scrutinized. The aim and purpose of the bills to devise means to construct and improve State highways in an efficient and economical manner as possible. The two best measures are the toll road bill now in the hands of the Senate Committee and the bill which Senator Sprout has prepared and introduced this week.

Legislators who have examined the toll road bill and are familiar with the various State systems by that at least a measure has been prepared which will work out the situation of toll ridden districts. The one point emphasized by every one has been the necessity of State aid. No one county with any considerable mileage can afford to condemn and acquire the roads of that county. It will be necessary, therefore, for the State to come to the assistance of all of the counties traversed by the highways in order that the true purpose of the proposition may be accomplished.

Alter Bill Passes House.

The House passed by a vote of 10 to 18 the Alter bill extending term of office of all public officers affected by the constitutional amendments. The bill now goes to the Senate and it is the program to pass it and have the courts pass upon it.

Among the bills reported from committee were those regulating sales and stock; authorizing counties to spend money in cleaning up controlling streams; repealing the act placing care of condemned abandoned turnpikes on townships; that costs will hereafter fall on counties and creating office of second assistant Attorney General at $2500 a year.
