Simplicity of Expression. A story was told on Martin Lomasney at the Cape Cod commercial travelers' dinner by Representative Pope Leaminster. "Last season Lomasney was seen talking to some one in one of the corridors, and as I passed I heard these words: 'Shall I write him?' 'No,' said Lomasney; 'never write a thing when you can talk, and never talk when you can nod your head.'"

Time for Stillness. Mrs. MacLachlan was kind to her American boarder, but she did not propose to allow her to overstep the limits of a boarder's privileges, and she made it very clear.

One Sunday the boarder, returning from a walk, found the windows of the room, which she had left wide open, tightly closed.

"Oh, Mrs. MacLachlan, I don't want my room to get stuffy," she said, when she went downstairs again. "I have plenty of fresh air!"

"Your room will not get stuffy in one day," said her landlady firmly. "I never use custom, miss, to have fresh air rooshin' about the house on the Sabbath."—Youth's Companion.

HEREDITY Can Be Overcome in Cases.

The influence of heredity cannot, of course, be successfully disputed, but it can be minimized or entirely overcome in some cases by correct food and drink. A Conn. lady says:

"The years while I was a coffee drinker I suffered from bilious attacks of great severity, from which I used to emerge as white as a ghost and very weak. Our family physician gave me various prescriptions for improving the digestion and stimulating the liver, which I tried faithfully without perceptible result.

"I was acquainted with my family history for several generations, and once when I visited him he said: 'If you have inherited one of these torpid livers you may always suffer more or less from its inaction. You can't dodge our inheritance, you know.'

"I was not so strong a believer in heredity as he was, however, and, beginning to think for myself, I concluded to stop drinking coffee, and see what effect that would have. I feared it would be a severe trial to give it up, but when I took Postum and had a well made, it completely filled my need for a hot beverage and I grew very fond of it.

"I have used Postum for three years, using no medicine. During all that time I have had absolutely none of the bilious attacks that I used to suffer from, and I have been entirely free from the pain and debilitating effects that used to result from them.

"The change is surely very great, and I am compelled to give Postum exclusive credit for it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

GUN PRACTICE AT ONE OF OUR COAST DEFENSES

FIRING A 12-INCH GUN AT FT. WADSWORTH

THE question of coast defense is just now being given much attention by the military authorities. It is avowed that, for some reason or other, this "line of defense" has not received that consideration in the past to which its importance entitles it. During this year, however, the matter will be taken up in earnest at Washington, and it is safe to say that many points on our coast that are now unprotected will in due season be equipped with forts of the type represented in the picture above. This photograph was taken during target practice and at the moment of the firing of one of the 12-inch disappearing guns with which Fort Wadsworth is armed. The roar and concussion of the explosion of these pieces of ordnance are alike tremendous. To counteract their effects on the body, the soldiers are instructed to raise themselves on their toes and open their mouths. In some instances the men reinforce these instructions by covering their ears with their hands.

BREED ARMY HORSES

Great Britain on Still Hunt for Good Animals.

Sum of $250,000 to Be Set Aside for Developing Equine—Choice Ones Go Abroad Because Foreigner Pays More.

London.—A sort of government stud, of which the purpose is to establish a new breed of horse, is not unlikely to be presently endowed by the commissioners of the development grant.

They have promised, as recently announced, $250,000 for the encouragement of horse breeding; but the more any definite scheme is inquired into the more clearly it appears that the cardinal point, so far as the army is concerned, is money. The best horses go abroad simply because the foreigner pays more; and to supply a government department with extra doles is no business of the commissioners. What they do should be done principally on behalf of the breed itself.

This being so, it is proposed as a first step to try to convert the hunter from a mongrel to an aristocrat. The hunter is the horse of horses for utility. The cavalry and the territorials want nothing but the hunter. At present the breeding of hunters is a random business, as it always is in cross-bred stocks.

Thoroughbred sires are sent to the several centers by the royal commission on horse breeding, but the breeding of hunters would be on a very different footing if the hunter type could be, as it were, stereotyped in a distinctive pure breed. In many parts even of Ireland, the paradise of hunters, the type is depreciating and nowhere is it improving.

It is argued that a really scientific and practical body, with the grant of several thousand dollars a year, could evolve a pure bred hunter of just the sort required, just as the pigeon or dog fanciers have evolved birds and dogs of every sort of "pattern." Similar experiments recently made in Hertfordshire in regard to polo ponies are very promising; and these have been undertaken on no very scientific method.

The evolving of such a horse would make horse breeding for the army a steady, lucrative business instead of a lottery, and would be a constant source of wealth to the country. It is to be hoped that a small part of the $250,000, vaguely and conditionally offered, will be spent on such a progressive experiment as this.

There are scores of men who would co-operate. Hackney enthusiasts believe that hackney blood should appear in such a breed and would, as a result, offer good, lend mares as others would lend stallions, it is not often that the opportunity is offered of organizing so useful an experiment so cheaply.

WAITERS MUST BE HEALTHY

Big New York Hotels to Require Physical Examinations Similar to German Custom.

New York.—The German system of supervising the health of hotel employees for the protection of guests is being put into force in the larger New York hotels. A large Broadway hotel, employing 450 servants, put the system into operation lately.

The serving of food by infected waiters imperils the health of patrons, according to sanitarians. "The hotel guest," said one manager, in speaking of the innovation, "is at the mercy of the management of the hotel which the patronizes in respect to the selection of employees. A hotel ought to protect its guests from diseases just as any private householder would protect himself and family.

"Only recently it was brought to my attention that a man and his wife and child who had been staying at a hotel, whose name should have been feetly ordered household were enjoyed by the small owner and guests. A flagstaff surmounts the tower top and a small yard surrounds the house encircled by an iron fence.

"It sure was some house, wasn't it?" commented the coachman of the household to a visitor as he crawled out of the door and fastened it with a string. "It's a shame to see it go to pieces." It is to be repaired, however, and kept in shape.

TOY HOUSE TO BE RETAINED

Even Though Girl for Whom It Was Constructed Has Since Married and Moved Away.

Chicago.—The Bijou toyhouse for children, which for many years has gladdened the hearts and excited the interest of children passing the home of Thomas Lynch, Dearborn avenue, is to be kept in repair and renovated. The wedding recently of Miss Lella Lynch, for whom the model house was constructed, when she was a small girl, revived a desire of Mr. Lynch to keep intact the miniature dwelling which had brought as much joy to members of the family. Miss Lynch is now Mrs. J. F. Stevens and her home for the present is at Washington, D. C.

The little home, about ten feet long and eight feet wide, situated in the yard adjoining the Dearborn avenue address, is or was complete in its appointments. It is a replica of a modern house, but now sadly in need of repair and fresh paint. A veranda which formerly made a pleasant lounging place for the small residents of the house has fallen away in ruins. Electric light and the connections are broken, and inside of the dwelling is one of chaos. Much of the appointments of the apartment, however, remain to demonstrate its former glory and completeness.

Three rooms comprise the lower floor, with stairs leading to a tower, from which a view of the neighborhood can be obtained. A bedroom contains a bureau and mirror with a closet and chairs. There is a small sewing machine and piano in the living room, with a table and couch. A gas burning grate formerly provided heat for the apartment, while electric fixtures testify to modern lighting effects. Real windows with shades, an electric door bell, small dinner dishes and other accompaniments of a perfectly ordered household were enjoyed by the small owner and guests. A flagstaff surmounts the tower top and a small yard surrounds the house encircled by an iron fence.

"It sure was some house, wasn't it?" commented the coachman of the household to a visitor as he crawled out of the door and fastened it with a string. "It's a shame to see it go to pieces." It is to be repaired, however, and kept in shape.

PARROT CHEWS UP HER TAG

Express Employees Had Lively Time Caring for Bird—Death Follows Delivery to Owner.

St. Paul, Minn.—A parrot, sent to St. Paul from Chicago, chewed up her address tag and made things lively for the last ten days in the office of the Wells-Fargo Express company. She perished after reaching her rightful owner.

"Why, that parrot was talking the whole blessed day; we could hardly get in a word edgewise," said one of the clerks. "We took her out of the box every day to feed her, and we all ways had trouble catching her again."

Polly was shipped to a Mrs. Cook by her son in Chicago. The bird managed to reach the label on the box and destroyed it and there was a long delay in getting a duplicate address.

Mrs. Cook called at the office of the St. Paul Humane society and in formed Miss Alice Niland, secretary that the Wells-Fargo company had detained her parrot for ten days because they had lost the address and that she did not believe the parrot had been cared for all that time. The express company officials say every attention was paid to the bird and that it really got a good deal more than was its due.

THE HOBBLE SWEETHEART.

"What's the matter with him? Has he got rheumatism?"

"No; the girl he is engaged to wears a hobbleskirt, and he got that walk from trying to keep step with her."

Runs on the Bank of England. Even the Bank of England has not been entirely free from runs nor from the necessity of saving itself by strategy. In 1745, for instance, it was forced to employ agents to invest notes, which were paid as slowly as possible in sixpences, the cash being immediately brought in by another door and paid in anna, white anxious holders of notes vainly tried to secure attention. In 1825, too, only the accidental discovery of 700,000 £1 notes saved the bank from stopping payment.—London Chronicle.

Land That Pays You Back in Sixty Days

It figures out this way. See this farm? Belongs to a man named Moor. Last August, AFTER HARVESTING THAT SAME YEAR, one crop of oats and one of cantaloupes, for which he received $3,600.00, he let the grass grow, and in forty days the hay on every acre was worth $25.00, or just about what it will cost you to buy exactly as good an acre of ground, in the same neighborhood, from us.

DEEN LAND FARMS

at Waycross, Ware Co., Ga., cost $20.00 to $35.00 an acre (price depends on how close they are to the city of Waycross) and can be taken possession of at once on payment of a dollar an acre down. If you had to pay cash for this land, as you can see, six weeks in grass would let you out about even. But you don't have to pay cash. You can take three years' time to pay if you wish. That makes this proposition easier for you than a government entry.

Reserve Your Land Now—No Risk

Tell you what do. Write Senator Deen to pick you out the best farm of the Deen Land Farm Tract. He'll do just that for you—select the best there is. Enclose a deposit of one dollar per acre on acreage desired (farms sold in 10, 20, 40 and 80 acre parcels)—then take 60 days to investigate, examine titles, etc. At the end of that time if you are not more than satisfied, say astonished, that you can get such rich, lively, productive land as this, within a radius of two to ten miles of the handsomest, most prosperous and fastest-building railroad town in the new RICH SOUTH—then you can have your deposit money back with 6% interest added—just by asking for it.
