Midnight in the Ozarks

and yet sleepless Hiram Scranton, of Clay City, Ill., coughed and coughed. He was in the mountains on the advice of five doctors, who said he had consumption, but found no help in the climate, and started home. Hearing of Dr. King's New Discovery, he began to use it. "I believe it saved my life," he writes, "for it made a new man of me, so that I can now do good work again." For all lung diseases, coughs, colds, lagrippe, asthma, croup, whooping cough, hay fever, hemorrhages, hoarseness, or quincy, it's the best known remedy. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Trout's drug store.

Hon. Harry A. Thompson, editor of the Tyrone Times, and Grand Chancellor of the order of the Knights of Pythias of the Domain of Pennsylvania, spent the time from Saturday until Monday with his mother Mrs. M. A. Thompson in this place. His mother has been in very poor health for several months.

Miss Mary Hull, of Pittsburg, is visiting in the home of her sister Mrs. D. A. Nelson in the Cove.

Womanly Wisdom.

To fit a large cork to a small bottle, cut two wedge shaped bits from the narrow end of the cork.

Wash bread boards and mixing bowls, or anything in which flour is used, in clear, cold water, using a small scrubbing brush.

A wholesome breakfast dish may be made from wheat fresh from the granary. Soak it over night and cook it all day on the back of the range. This makes a food unequalled as to nutriment, and a great favorite with all who have been served with it. A bowl of this wheat, served with rich milk, makes a good breakfast for a growing child.

Potato soup: Boil a quart of potatoes and an onion until thoroughly cooked. Pour off the water. Add a piece of butter the size of an egg, and beat the whole well with a fork or wooden spoon. Heat a quart of milk and pour over this mixture. Salt and pepper to taste. Keep it hot on back of stove until served, but do not allow it to boil after the milk has been added.

The right way to poach eggs: Have a saucepan of water boiling hot, but not actually bubbling. Break the eggs, one at a time, into a saucer and slide them into place in the water. Draw the pan aside where they can not boil, and baste the water over them with a spoon till they are covered with a thin veil of white. Have ready slices of bread toasted, buttered and cut in pieces the size of the eggs and arranged on a hot platter. As each egg is lifted out on a skimmer, trim off the ragged edges and slide it on the toast.

Sponge cake made in this way will keep fresh and moist longer than the old-fashioned kind: To seven eggs take half a pound of flour and three-quarters of a pound of sugar and the juice and grated rind of a lemon. Pour over the sugar a half cupful of boiling water and let it boil. Beat whites and yolks of eggs well together, and when sugar is boiled to a clear syrup, pour it over them, beating the whole until it is thick and light. Stir in the flour lightly and add the lemon last of all. Bake in a slow oven. If properly made it will be wonderfully light and delicate. —From April Farm Journal.

Danger from Infected Meat.

At the recent meeting of the American Veterinary Medical association, in Chicago, Dr. L. Enos Day of the Chicago meat inspection staff, in an address on infectious diseases, pointed out "the widespread menace of septicemia from infected meat." Medical practice has given the name of "meat poisoning" to this infection to distinguish it from ptomaine poisoning, the effects of which are similar. A victim of this infection may die of the illness or may only be affected to the degree of a partly poisoned system. Next to tuberculosis, Dr. Day said, he considered septicemia the most dangerous disease of the meat inspector had to guard against.

Pain and Grief Common to All.

It is not surprising that "accidents are always happening." Even kings and queens cannot live through calm and peaceful days. Toothache attacks their royal nibblers and gout brings pain to honored toes. Disappointment, suffering, loss of money, anxiety are merely bitter ingredients in the formula of daily existence.

Br'er Williams Says.

"I don't want ter onderstan' heaven 'twel I gits dar, an' even den I ain't gwine ter make too close inquiries, kaze dey might ax me whar I come from, an' how come.—Atlanta Constitution.

Trouble Maker.

"De man dat loves to make a disturbance," said Uncle Eben, "is a good deal like de honk horn on an automobile. He kin make folks get out in de way, but leave him to haise' an' he won't git nowhere."

The Philosopher of Folly.

"I find that it pays to pretend I believe what another man says," observes the Philosopher of Folly. "If I do, he always pretends he believes what I say, and we get along great."

Beware of Ideas!

An English dramatist should guard himself against ideas as carefully as a young girl should preserve her character. Dramas of adventure are immortal.—Era.

WHY HESITATE?

An Offer That Involves No Risk For Those Who Accept it.

We are so positive our remedy will completely relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish it free of all cost if it fails.

Constipation is caused by weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestines or descending colon. To expect a cure you must therefore tone up and strengthen those organs and restore them to healthier activity.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our guarantee. They are eaten like candy, and are particularly ideal for children. They act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They have a neutral action on the other organs or glands. They do not purge or cause any inconvenience whatever. They will positively overcome chronic or habitual constipation and the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments. Try Rexall Orderlies at our risk. Two sizes, 10c. and 25c. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store, Leslie W. Seylar.

The Youth's Companion is for Everybody

Of course if you are too young to read, or so old you've forgotten how, you may not enjoy The Youth's Companion. That's rather a sweeping statement, however, for hosts of children love to have the stories and jingles of the children's page read to them. There's many a grandfather and grandmother whose eyes are dim who like nothing better than to sit and listen to The Companion stories and articles. Many a blind person and even those who in addition can either speak or hear have been cheered by The Companion, its contents have been communicated to them through the finger-tips of friends. The reading of The Youth's Companion is a pretty sure cure for all kinds of loneliness. Robinson Crusoe would have been a happier man if he could have had his Companion Thursday as well as his man Friday. Just send for a sample copy of the April sixth number and see if you don't like it. THE YOUTH'S COMPANION, 144 Berkeley Street, Boston, Mass.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

To The Memory of Herbert Lawrence Kerlin by the Members of the Knobsville Cornet Band.

Whereas, It has pleased our Heavenly Father to remove from our midst, one of our members, Herbert Lawrence Kerlin, by death,

Resolved, That we recognize the hand of God in this dispensation of his providence and bow in humble submission to his divine will.

Resolved, That we place on record the high esteem in which we held our brother, Mr. Kerlin.

He was a dutiful son, a kind and loving brother, and a true hearted, sympathetic friend.

He will be greatly missed from our number but we shall long hold his memory in loving remembrance.

Resolved, That these resolutions be recorded on our minutes and published in the FULTON COUNTY NEWS and Fulton Democrat.

MISSION WORK.

so we waited until the shower was over. A number of women came in urging me to stay over for a few days, and if not, to be sure to return to them. From Momegan we went to Dukargan. The rain came down pretty hard as we were crossing the mountain, but the sun was shining when we reached the village. It was market day there and we had to come directly through the market so that a great crowd followed us. We had difficulty in finding a place, but finally secured a vacant house with a nice garden. We remained there over the Sabbath. Sabbath morning some women came to see me and took me to their house where I had a chance to read and talk to them. In the afternoon more women came, but not as many as I would like to have seen. These women had never heard the gospel, so they said, and I think it was true, because I seemed so very strange to them, and until their curiosity was somewhat satisfied it was hard for them to listen.

Our next stop was at Govgan. I had no work here. We stopped at a caravansara. Returning from Maragha we stopped at this place and I had a chance to talk with some women who belonged to the place. They invited me to come to them.

Our next day was a hard one—24 miles on horseback. We reached Sheshawan about 5 o'clock very tired. We rode up to the house where Mr. P. always stops, but much to our dismay the woman of the house would not let us in, nor would they send after the man of the house. It had been two years since Mr. P. had been there and, in the meanwhile, the man had taken to himself a new wife and she did not know us. We had about given up getting in when the man of the house came along and let us in. I was too tired to talk any that night, but the next morning had a good talk with some women. We are hoping to go back there sometime soon and stay some days. Now we come to our last day out; we left Sheshawan at about 8:30 for our last day before reaching Maragha. This road takes us along Lake Uruma; it grew to be very hot, altho late in October and the gnats bothered my horse a good deal; so much so, that after shaking himself quite hard, much to my surprise I felt my horse go down and I going over his head, when I heard the gentle voice of my husband saying "stay on Lucille, stay on." After balancing on the pommel of my saddle for a few seconds I decided to stay on, and with the help of the horse who was rising to his feet I slid back into my saddle.

We reached Maragha at tea time about 4:30. It seemed like getting home to get into our helper's house. Everything was so clean and the tea so refreshing, and then later came the first good meal we had had for seven days. In Maragha I spent my time among the Armenians, receiving a cordial welcome everywhere, but did not have the real spiritual work I should like to have had, nor did I get out among the Moslems as I should like to have done. It is something, however, to get acquainted, and then I can know better just what to do next time.

The roads were so unsafe we could not go beyond Maragha, so after 16 days in Maragha, we returned home. As we were coming straight through we came in a Russian carriage, reaching home four days after leaving Maragha.

I am in hopes that this is just the beginning of many tours which I shall be able to make in the future. We are hoping that the country will get settled so that it will be safe for us to go everywhere and at any time. Just now there is much uncertainty on every side, but after New Years we hope to go to Khor.

With kindest regards to you all,

Very sincerely yours, LUCILLE D. PITTMAN.

How He Was Done.

The Artist—I should like to paint your portrait. Were you ever done in oil? The Countryman—No, but I was done in copper once.

Looking Ahead.

Redd—I see somebody has given $250,000 to construct a stadium for the Syracuse University, where football may be played. Greene—Now, who is going to endow the hospital beds. —Yonkers Statesman.

Its Influence on Her.

"Don't you think," asked Mrs. Oldcastle, "that everybody is affected more or less by environment?" "Yes," replied Mrs. Pakenham, "if they're foolish enough to take such things; but I always turn down my glass and never touch it."—Chicago Herald.

Kitchen Amenities.

The New Maid—In my last place I always took things easy. The Old Cook—Well, your mistress ought to have had sense enough to keep 'em locked up!

Changing.

She—And what attracted you to me? He—Your eyes. "My eyes?" "Yes; you have black eyes. I'm getting rather tired of being engaged to girls with blue eyes!"

Feminine Amenities.

Miss McFlirter—Your husband and I have been having quite a long chat over old times. You're not jealous, are you, dear? Mrs. Nookbridge—Oh, not in the least of you, dear. I would be, though, if it were any other girl.

Kicked by a Mad Horse.

Samuel Birch, of Beetown, Wis., had a most narrow escape from losing his leg, as no doctor could heal the frightful sore that developed but at last Buckien's Arnica Salve cured it completely.
