

AFTER 7 YEARS SUFFERING

I Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Waurika, Okla.—"I had female troubles for seven years, was all run down, and so nervous I could not do anything. The doctors treated me for different things but did me no good. I got so bad that I could not sleep day or night. While in this condition I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and began its use and in a short time I had gained my average weight and am now strong and well."
—Mrs. SALLIE STEVENS, R. F. D., No. 8, Box 31, Waurika, Okla.

Another Grateful Woman.

Huntington, Mass.—"I was in a nervous, run down condition and for three years could find no help. I owe my present good health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier which I believe saved my life."
"My doctor knows what helped me and does not say one word against it."
—Mrs. MARI JANETTE BATES, Box 134, Huntington, Mass.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, and nervous prostration.

COOK OUTDID THE SCHOLAR

Maybe Sign Was Not All Good Latin, but She Translated It Without Difficulty.

Jack returned home from college, where he had won high honors as a student of ancient languages, but he pleaded ignorance one day when his young sister asked him to translate a sign she had seen of an optician's which read thus: "Con sultu salu utu urey es."

Jack struggled manfully with it for several minutes and gave it up.

"There are some words in it that are Latin. The others aren't, anyhow. It doesn't make sense."

"That is what I said," replied his sister. "But cook translates it without any trouble. She says it means 'Consult us about your eyes.'"

Open-Air Schools Increasing.

Since January 1, 1907, sixty-five open air schools for children afflicted with or predisposed to tuberculosis have been established in twenty-eight cities, according to an announcement made by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. The first open air school in the United States was established on January 1, 1907, by the board of education of Providence, R. I., at the instance of Dr. Elen A. Stone. The next school was established in May of the same year at Pittsburg, and the third at Boston in July, 1908. According to the reports received by the national association, the result of the open air class-work has been to restore most of the children to normal health and efficiency. One of these open air schools or classes should be established for each 25,000 population, especially in cities.

Willing to Make an Effort.

On a large estate in the Scottish highlands it was the custom for a piper to play in front of the house every week day morning to awaken the residents. After an overconventional Saturday night, however, the piper forgot the day and began his reveille (can it be played on the pipes?) on Sunday morning. The angry master shouted to him from the bedroom window: "Here, do you not know the fourth commandment?" And the piper sturdily replied: "Nae, sir, but ye'll—hic—whistle it till—hic—try it, sir."

FROM THE STATE CAPITAL

Information and Gossip at Harrisburg.

DOINGS OF THE LEGISLATURE.

Brief Mention of Matters as They Occur at the State Capital Official and Otherwise.

State to Fight Mine Fire.

The joint Legislative Commission appointed to make an investigation of the mine fire which has been burning beneath Carbonado for seven or eight years, filed its report with the Legislature and recommends that the State take immediate control of the situation and that an appropriation of $100,000 be made for the purpose of extinguishing the fire. The commission finds that the continuance of the fire is dangerous to the community and that the State Department of Mines should be given authority and means to proceed immediately to either confine the fire or extinguish it and that the Attorney General sue the owners of the tract for the cost of putting out the fire. The report of the commission criticizes the owners of the property known as the Watts-Seurity tract for a disposition to allow the fire to burn out and for failure to furnish specific information to assist the commission in its investigation. Accompanying the report is a statement by Chief of Mines James E. Roderick in which he says the only way the fire can be controlled is by digging a channel around it. Thirty-two private properties with an estimated value of $55,000 would have to be condemned to bring this about and the work would cost about $175,000. A bill to appropriate $100,000 to start the work of confining the fire was presented in each House immediately after the report was read.

Utilities Bill.

The first public hearing on the public utilities bill was attended by representatives of many of the public service corporations of the State. The discussion, which was taken part in by the counsel for the various companies on the one side and Attorney General Bell and Representative Gilpin Robinson for the State, resulted in a battle between lawyers and was along legal lines throughout. The gist of the arguments advanced by the corporation lawyers was that the utilities bill in its present form was unnecessary, unfair and burdensome in that it not only compelled the corporations of the State to obey existing laws, which they were always ready to do, but in addition they were compelled under the provisions of the bill to have additional rules and regulations thrown around them.

Licenses for Aviation.

In line with the progressive spirit of the age and the habit into which legislative bodies have fallen of regulating and licensing everything on the earth and the waters under the earth comes a bill providing for the licensing of aviators who desire to fly from any premises in the Commonwealth either for sport or exhibition. The measure provides that any aviator who carries passengers shall first satisfy the Secretary of the Commonwealth that he or she is competent to manage an airplane and shall have a license from an incorporated society or association of individuals formed for the purpose of promoting the science of aviation. Any aviator who flies for sport or exhibition comes under the same provision and is compelled to satisfy the Secretary of the Commonwealth of his or her fitness to fly.

Cash for Rittersville Job.

The bill to provide the $478,000 which the Rittersville Commission told Governor Toner was necessary to complete the buildings, was presented in the House by Chairman Woodward, of the House Appropriations Committee. The bill carries the sum former Governor Stuart cut out of the appropriation, and says the money is for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of the act to erect the buildings.

Hotels Seeking Hearing.

The Philadelphia Hotel Association, through Thomas C. Leslie, its secretary, complained to the State Railroad Commission that an impression had been given that the hotels made money on their telephone service. The hotels, it was set forth, lose money by reason of telephones. A hearing is desired to give the commission a correct idea of the business.

Bills Passed in House and Senate.

The State Senate passed a House bill making it a misdemeanor for any proprietor, manager or employee of a theater or other public place of amusement to discriminate against any person wearing the uniform of the United States. The penalty is a fine not exceeding $500 or imprisonment not exceeding one year. Authorizing cities and boroughs to enact ordinances prescribing regulations for mining coal beneath them to prevent the settling or caving in of the surface.

Authorizing the State to build bridges over any river not more than 1,000 feet and not less than 500 feet wide at localities not less than ten miles distant from the nearest public bridge over the same river in counties where the indebtedness increased by the cost of such bridge would exceed the limitation of two per cent. of their assessed valuation. Appropriating $110,000 for the purchase of land for rifle range or land for permanent camping ground for division encampment or for permanent camping ground for three separate brigade encampments.

LIVE NEWS OF THE STATE

Pen Argy.—Miss Ethel Tucker was announced as having won the valedictory honors of the Senior Class of the local High School, Miss Minnie Parsons is the salutatorian. The commencement exercises will take place on June 2.

York.—Thousands of shad are swimming about in front of the big dam at McCall's Ferry. Many of them have been caught with dip nets and seines. It is stated that on account of the dam they cannot get up the river.

Johnstown.—Three colored persons, one a woman, were killed, and five, also one a woman, were injured, in an automobile accident, while returning from a dance. The machine, running fifty miles an hour, skidded, jumped on to a pavement and ran into a telephone pole.

Mauch Chunk.—A cablegram has been received from Peking, China, by friends of Mrs. Harry E. Parker, deceased, stating that Mrs. Parker died of pneumonia and not by the plague, as supposed, and that the body will be shipped to Mauch Chunk for burial, arriving at San Francisco on May 19.

Media.—Harry C. Worrall, a farmer of Newton township, began a suit for divorce from his wife, Margaret Worrall, charging her with misconduct with Thomas Pyle, of Lima. Pyle is under bail for trial on a charge preferred by Worrall, and Worrall was held for trial on a charge of assault and battery on his wife.

Bethlehem.—George Buss, a brother of Tobias Buss, of Lehigh, received word that the duPont Powder Company had decided to purchase his invention. The invention is one by which powder is manufactured that is non-explosive unless ignited by fire. He has patented the invention in this country, Mexico and Germany.

Bloomers.—Only the fact that a hard storm was in progress saved the village of Exenange when the three-story planing mill of John Hartman and Jacob Smith caught fire and was destroyed, entailing a $5,000 loss. The mill was in the center of the village and with no fire protection the heavy rain kept the flames from spreading.

Norristown.—Because there is not sufficient money in the county treasury, the erection of the new House of Detention, bids for which have been received, and which will cost about $15,000, the building will likely be postponed for a time at the direction of County Controller Jacobs, who says he wants the county to pay as it goes.

Chester.—John Grawl, of Leiperville, died in the Chester Hospital from injuries received at the Baldwin Locomotive Works in Eddy-stone, where he was employed. He was adjusting the driving box of a locomotive on wheels when he fell, sustaining a fracture of the skull. Grawl came to Leiperville a few months ago from Reading.

Pottsville.—Armed with logs torn from the table in their ward, Adam Hanselman and William Collins, two inmates at the county insane asylum, fought a duel to death. When attendants rushed to the ward, drawn there by the sound of the scuffle, Collins, who is 33 years old, was lying on the floor with his head battered in, while over him stood Hanselman uninjured. Collins died shortly afterward.

Reading.—The jury in the case of R. B. Wagner and C. B. Wickersham against the Reading Railway Company for the destruction by fire of their barn in Douglass township, alleged to have been caused by sparks from a locomotive, awarded the plaintiffs $3,500 damages. The barn was valued at $3,000 and contained crops and machinery worth $1,200. It was located forty feet from the Colebrookdale branch.

York.—John B. Kone, of Chanceford township, was badly injured by an explosion of a small dynamite cap which had been hidden away in some loose tobacco which he had been carrying around in his pocket. Kone loaded the bulb of his pipe with the tobacco and, after he had given several strong puffs, there was an explosion which carried away portions of his nose, cut his eye and burned his face badly.

Allentown.—By direction of State Health Commissioner Dixon the butter produced in the greater part of Lower Macungie, a rich agricultural township of Lehigh county, has been quarantined on account of scarlet fever. An epidemic of this m'ad'y which spread through the borough of Eumans and sundry villages, was traced by the health inspectors to scarlet fever in the families of the dairymen.

Bloomers.—At the closing session of the Northumberland Presbytery here Rev. S. C. Dickson, of Bloomersburg, and Rev. W. K. Preston, of Elysburg, were elected ministerial, and D. H. Snyder, of Sunbury, and Robert L. Montgomery, of Warrior Run, lay commissioners to the General Assembly.

Bethlehem.—While on a visit to his daughter, Mrs. W. A. Coleman, at Butztown, Howard Laubach, for twenty years proprietor of the Hanoverville Hotel was stricken by a stroke of apoplexy and died, his age being 70 years.

Mauch Chunk.—Clerk of the Courts of Carbon County John J. McGinley, received a verdict for $10,000 damages against the Central Railroad of New Jersey, for the loss of both his legs at Hauto, near Lansford, on December 18, 1903, by an accident. He was then a brakeman, and while his train was receiving a car loaded with timber a brake chain broke and McGinley was thrown on the track, the car passing over both his legs. It was stated at the trial that the chain was defective, having been put together with wire at places.

LIFE SAVED BY FRIEND'S ADVICE

About three years ago I suffered with appendicitis and after having an operation performed it left me with a severe case of kidney trouble. I was doctored by several physicians and getting no relief I took the advice of a friend and procured a bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. After taking the contents of the first bottle I felt greatly relieved and decided to continue it. After using the contents of three more dollar bottles, I experienced a complete cure. I cannot recommend Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root too highly to anyone suffering from kidney or bladder trouble.

Yours very truly,

OF COURSE.

The Magistrate—You say you didn't know the pistol was loaded, yet the dealer who sold it to you says you did not pay for it.
Prisoner—What's that got to do with it?
The Magistrate—Well, if you didn't pay for it, then the dealer must have charged it for you.

"ECZEMA ITCHED SO I COULDN'T STAND IT."

"I suffered with eczema on my neck for about six months, beginning by little pimples breaking out. I kept scratching till the blood came. It kept getting worse, I couldn't sleep nights any more. It kept itching for about a month, then I went to a doctor and got some liquid to take. It seemed as if I was going to get better. The itching stopped for three weeks, but when it started again was even worse than before. The eczema itched so badly I couldn't stand it any more. I went to a doctor and he gave me some medicine, but it didn't do any good. We have been having Cuticura Remedies in the house, so I decided to try them. I had been using Cuticura Soap, so I got me a box of Cuticura Ointment, and washed off the affected part with Cuticura Soap three times a day, and then put the Cuticura Ointment on. The first day I put it on, it relieved me of itching so I could sleep all that night. It took about a week, then I could see the scab come off. I kept the treatment up for three weeks, and my eczema was cured.

"My brother got his face burned with gunpowder, and he used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The people all thought he would have scars, but you can't see that he ever had his face burned. It was simply awful to look at before the Cuticura Remedies (Soap and Ointment) cured it." (Signed) Miss Elizabeth Gehrl, Forrester City, Ark., Oct. 16, 1910.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a liberal sample of each, with 32-page booklet on the care and treatment of skin and hair, will be sent, postfree, on application to Potter D. & C. Corp., Dept. X, Boston.

Bloodless Battles.

"What we want," said the peace promoter, "is a system that will permit candid discussion to take the place of actual conflict."
"Don't you think," inquired the man who was reading the sporting page, "that our professional pugilists have come pretty near solving the problem?"

Justified.

"MASTER"

(It is suggested that bachelors shall be compelled by law to outdo themselves "Master," and when married they may be known as "Mister.")

The Henpecks sat one evening—the day's hard tasks were done. Henpeck removed the apron from his vest; He'd straightened up the table, washed the dishes one by one. And now he settled down to have a rest. He waited for the paper, which Mrs. Henpeck read; She reached some news that filled her with delight. "Call bachelors all 'Master,' the proper plan," she said. And Henpeck, nodding sagely, vowed: "That's right!"

"The men," said Mrs. Henpeck, "too long have had full sway. And bachelors must be identified; So long as they're unmarried, a tax they ought to pay. And sign their names to show their 'class, beside.' Then Henpeck kept on darning the socks, to pass the while. And leaning down to get a better light, Or possibly to keep her from noticing his smile, He said, with meek expression, "Yes, that's right."

SOUR DROPS.

We often have wondered what psychological impulse tells some women when to laugh at the theater. A man who is under 20 or over 40 finds it hard to understand why there should be anything except soubrettes on the stage.

Folks who adopt music as a profession may not be said to have a hold on fame until they have caused the postponement of a concert because of their illness.

Some people go around missing trains just because it gives them a chance to boast of their absentmindedness.

The man who takes you to one side and tells you that he is simply crazy because of his love for some girl, is simply crazy.

Love makes the world go round—but two drinks of rye will give it a perceptible whirl, according to Kentucky theorists.

A man will make more excuses for being fired than his boss does for firing him.

The man who stands on the street corner and ogles women is usually the one who applauds the loudest at the play when the hero tells the villain to subhand the girl.

Some men are mean enough to make scrap books of baby food pictures and preserve them to show to the victims in about 15 or 18 years.

Diplomacy. "We must give up the open-door policy, I am afraid," says the first diplomat.

"And why?" demands the second. "The Ambassador from Kishnow will not agree to our plans, and you know the whole open door idea hinges upon his decision."

"Hinges on it, does it?" asks the second one. "Hinges on it? Tell you what we'll do. We'll make it a sliding door. See?"

Thus was shirt sleeved statecraft given another great impetus.

Knew Her Limitations. "Wouldn't you like to drive for a little while, Mollie?" "Mercy, no! Why, I can't drive a horse any better than I can drive a tack."

Just for Spite. "She seems to be a woman of exceptionally unpleasant disposition," observes the newcomer, referring to an absent one.

"Unpleasant disposition?" echoes the native. "Why, did you never hear of what she did to cause heartburnings among her acquaintances? She announced a big dinner and ball for a certain evening, and then never invited a soul to it."

A Mere Tyro. "You are flirting terribly; I do not like it," said the indignant wife. "But, my dear," begged the poor husband, "you must be lenient with me. Remember, this is my first at tempt at flirting. I'll do better as I get in practice."

Lack of Horse Sense. "Ba, ha!" laughed the philosophical man, after his horse had thrown him. "It's a good joke on you. You are running to Greenville, and I am going to Jonesboro."

Johnson and the Smart Children.

Full of indignation against such parents as delight to produce their young ones early into the talking world, Samuel Johnson gave a good deal of pain, by refusing to hear the verses the children could recite, or the songs they could sing. One friend told him that his two sons should repeat Gray's Elegy to him alternately, that he might judge who had the happiest cadence.

"No, pray, sir," said he, "let the dears both speak at once."
