He was an immaculate servant. To watch him serve a salad was to watch an artist at work. To hear his subdued accents was a lesson in the art of voice-production. He never slipped he never smiled, and his mutton-chorwhiskers marked him as one of the old and faithful stock. But one even ing, to the surprise of his master, he showed unaccountable signs of nervusness. When the chicken came on he confused it with the pheasant. He served everything in the wrong or der, made blunder after blunder, and put a final touch to his shame by up setting the salt over the only superstitious member of the party. Then at last, when the ladies had retired to the drawing room, he touched his mas ter on the shoulder. "I beg your pardon, sir," he said in a respectful un derione, "but could you manage to spare me now? My house is on fire."

"I suppose it will," said David Green as he entered from the other side. He seated himself without apparently seeing the wicker suit case that acted as a barrier on the wide

The short trip to the station was made in absolute silence. The girl sat straight and looked out the cab window so that all Green saw of her face was the firm line of her profile. When the taxi whirled into the station, David Green watched the girl lean forward and examine the register of fares. Then he saw her ex tract a half dollar. The face regis tered 60 cents and Green realized that his companion intended to pay half the amount. Under the circumstances, he felt that she was taking the right course and he remained passive not attempting in any way to break the silence.

The man and the girl stepped from the taxi on opposite sides and each handed the chauffeur a half dollar.

How Cloves Grow.

Clover are the unexpanded flower buds of a beautiful evergreen tree which grows only in tropical countries. The buds are at first a pale color and gradually become green. after which they develop into a bright red, when they are ready for collecting.

During the drying process they are exposed to the smoke of a wood fire and then to the action of the sun, which accounts for their dark brown color when ready for the market.

The clove tree, which attains a height of 30 feet, is a native of a small group of islands in the Indian archipeligo called the Spice islands, but in the last four centuries it has been carried to all the warmer parts of

They do not scour, they do not gripe, they do not weaken, but they do start all the secretions of the liver and stomach in a way that soon puts these organs in a healthy condition and corrects constipation. In my opinion constipation is responsible for most ailments. There are 26 feet of human bowels, which is really a sewer pipe. When this pipe becomes clogged the system becomes poisoned, causing biliousness, indigestion and impure blood, which often produce rheumatism and kidney ailments. No woman who suffers with constipation or any liver ailment can expect to have a clear complexion or enjoy good health. If I had my way I would prohibit the sale of nine-tenths of the cathartics that are now being sold for the reason that they soon destroy the lining of the stomach setting up serious forms of indigestion, and so paralyze the bowels that they refuse to act unless forced by strong

Judgment

TEXT-And we know that we are of God, and that the whole world lieth in wickedness.-John 5, 19.

Christ himself appeals to us, as he did to the Jews of old when he says: "Judge not according to the appearance, but judge the righteous judgment."

And well we need to heed the appeal. To judge by appearance is a most common weakness. Of all bistorical characters who have been subjected to the misjudgment of his fellow men does not Christ stand em phatically marked as the Misjudged One? Misjudged by his townsmen, misjudged by the spiritual leaders of his time, whose duty it was to have watched the signs of their times predicted by the prophets and so clearly fulfilled before their own eyes that he that runneth might read, and yet the majority failed to recognize the Anointed One.

Misjudged by scribes, Pharisees, the Sanhedrim with two notable exceptions, he did not even escape the total misjudgment of his own disciples and his own kin.

Not only did Christ's contemporaries fail to judge the righteous judg-Others of other times, yea. ment. even of our own, have shown the same lack of judgment. With the Jews as a nation and within the church, among the gentiles, though on different lines, misjudgment of Christ that somber specter of unbelief, has tacitly adhered throughout the ages as a doleful helrloom.

Mary, in her lack of appreciation of the divinity of her child, fails to judge a righteous judgment when she found him in the temple questioning and hearing, and receives as a rebuke: "Wist ye not that I must be about my father's business?"

The scribes saw in him only the carpenter's son and, arrogant in their classical pride, asked with supercilious contempt, "Whence bath he then this learning?

The Parisees, blinded by their selfrighteousness which amounted to self-worship and created around themselves an air of exclusive sanctity in nothing second to the caste feeling of the Brahman, seeing Jesus "receiving sinners and eating with them," and judging by appearances, saw in him only one of the puebel aspiring to a thing beyond his reach and ken and said: "Praise God, we know that this man is a sinner!"-John 10:24.

The priesthood, who, with the Parisees only added burden to burden upon the people, without aiding them with their smallest finger, as well as the Sanhedrim as a whole, looked upon this Jesus who did well, helping all, as one playing to the galleries for ulterior purposes; a usurper and an interloper within.

The Jew of today judges most harshly of him who has done most to exalt the nation whose only excuse for existence is that he, the despised on, should come through it, for the despising of whom they are today despised, but through whom they shall see him whom they have pierced and acknowledged him the Messiah. The Mohammedan judges of him as the prophet whose term has expired only to be supplanted by another. The Unitarian, the Theosophist, the Brahma Sumaj, Reformed Buddhist and others of a similar stamp, agree in assigning to Christ a place in their systems as a good man, the best man, a teacher, a model, a prophet, yea, even a God, lacking in judgment and failing to judge the righteous judgment. And why? For, says Jesus, "Ye judge after the flesh,"-John 8:15, Spiritual things must be spiritually discerned. God is a spirit and those that worship him must worship him in spirit and truth. Only those who have been spiritually regenerated, thus having received the spirit of God, can judge a righteous judgment of the person and fivinity of Jesus Christ. No man can say that Jesus is the Lord but by the Holy Spirit."-1 Cor. 12:3. "Who is a liar but he that denieth that Jesus is the Christ? He is anti-Christ who denieth the Father and the Son."-1 John,

Is then Christ misjudged by all? No. blessed be God, he has yet a remnant preserved unto himself, "7,000 knees who have not bowed unto Baal." Then asked Jesus of them, "Whom say ye that I am?" And Simon Peter answered and said, "Thou are the Messiah, the Son of the living God." And Jesus answered and said unto him, "Blessed are thou, Simon Barjona, for flesh and blood hath not revealed it into thee but my father which is in Heaven."

The man who was born blind, healed by Jesus, driven out of the synagogue by the blinded priests and Pharisees, judged a righteous judgment and acknowledged and worshipped Jesus as the Son of God .-

Jesus himself said (John 10), "I am the Son of God, and furthermore the Father and I are one, he who seeth me seeth the Father."

At his baptism and at the transfiguration God himself by a voice out of Heaven bore him witness. This is a sure saying worthy of all acceptance. Let us ask of him and he will give you the spirit who will lead us into all the truth as it is in Christ

E L. Powell, Louisville.
