CARING FOR TUBERCULOSIS

Thirty-Nine State and 114 Local Sanatoria Provided, but These Are Only a Beginning.

In spite of the fact that state sanatoria and hospitals for tuberculosis have been established in 31 states, and 114 municipal or county hospitals in 26 states, vastly more public provision is needed to stamp out consumption, says the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. Nearly every state east of the Mississippi river has provided a state sanatorium, and west of the Mississippi river, state sanatoria have been established in Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and Oregon. There are 38 sanatoria provided by these states, Massachusetts having four, Connecticut and Pennsylvania three and Texas two, including special pavilions and almshouses; there are 114 municipal or county hospitals for the care of tuberculosis patients.

Apart from these institutions, however, and a few special pavilions at prisons, hospitals for the insane, and some other public institutions, a grand total of hardly 200, the institutional care of the consumptive is left to private philanthropy.

HE KNOWS THEY ARE NOT.

Mrs. Benham—The paper tells about a man who stole a head of lettuce and then went back and got another, being arrested on the second trip.

Benham—'I'll bet you can't make that fellow believe that two heads are better than one.

Snakes in Prohibition Maine.

Snakes emptied two saloons in Portland of the crowds of customers a few evenings ago. A non-resident ordered a box of snakes sent to him from the south for the purpose of cleaning out a vast number of rats from his place. The snakes were given a chance to demonstrate their rat killing ability and the large snake destroyed 15 in a few minutes. The snakes were then taken to two different saloons and in a few minutes cleared them of the crowd.—Kennebec Journal.

GUARD AGAINST EVIL

Ornaments Supposed to Ward Off Disease and Bring Luck.

Although Most People Profess to Laugh at Idea of Wearing Them Purely for Luck, Yet Charms Are Popular With Many.

London.—Perhaps the instinct to avert the evil eye is born in our nature. Civilization has lessened it to a great extent, but in every race we find an instinct exists. The wearing of nearly all personal adornment seems to have originated in an idea of pacifying evil deities.

The savage wears ornaments symbolizing the protective powers supposed to be able to keep away harm or danger. In the West Indies there is a bean or seed which the natives think possesses many valuable properties. If carried in the purse they say the owner will never want for money; if hung on a watch chain good luck will ever be with the wearer. But woe betide the man who loses his precious charm. The East Indian leaves a tiny corner of his embroidery unfinished to propitiate the gods; the dusky mother calls her baby hard names for fear her love should bring ill fortune upon him.

In England superstitious country folk tie amulets around their necks to prevent disease. Some of the earliest of these were skillfully wrought by the people who inhabited this country thousands of years ago and treated flint much the same as a cameo, producing varied effects by cutting through into the different layers of color. Several examples of this practically lost art may be seen in the museum at Ipswich. They are carved to represent the heads of men and women, birds, fishes and reptiles, and are for the most part cleverly and prettily done.

The fossil blemishes found on many of our coins embedded in the rocks were once thought to be thunderbolts and were worn as charms by fisher folk. Farmers in ancient times decorated their horses by hanging amulets and gypsy fetich charms among their trappings to insure a good harvest. These amulets were frequently associated with the worship of the sun and were of Egyptian, Moorish and Persian origin.

Although most people profess to laugh at the idea of wearing them purely for luck or from superstitious motives, yet charms are worn still with good humored toleration and, for reasons none can explain, secretly favored, just in the same way that sober minded men and women cling tenaciously to a crooked sixpence and treasure a three-penny bit with a hole in it as omens of good luck.

A pink coral band in Italy is supposed to ward off the evil eye and plays its part in ornaments. Ruby ornaments are supposed to disperse evil spirits and are considered a protection from poison and other dire evils. Emeralds banish blindness, Garnet ornaments are supposed to keep one in good health; the sardonyx insures happiness. The sapphire keeps off fever. Amethysts keep off worries. A turquoise means that you will never want a friend. A four leaved clover in a crystal locket is a favorite charm and is said to bring good fortune and long life to its wearer. Jade also has a reputation for a luck bringer.

Save Birds from Odd Death

Protection From Electric Lighthouses Is Given by Government of Holland—Provide Perches.

The Hague, Holland.—The Dutch government, recognizing the utility of birds, has long sought means to defend them from the danger of the powerful lighthouses especially of the electrically operated "Brandaris" light on the island of Terschelling. Thousands of the birds annually met their death there and a government commission was appointed to inquire into ways and means of stopping the slaughter. This commission, headed by the noted ornithologist, J. Thyssen, passed several nights in observation at the Brandaris light during the migrating season.

As soon as the light shone forth from the tower flights of birds would approach. Then they would continue to circle about like moths around a candle. All night they flew round and round, while a few few directly at the flame and were dashed to death against the glass or masonry.

From what he saw Mr. Thyssen concluded that he could easily devise a plan to help the songsters. He had some large wooden frames constructed providing perches for 10,000 birds at a time. Some of the frames were painted white and the others black—

Middletown, Vt.—George M. Ward, who calls himself the oldest newboy in New England, the other day celebrated his seventy-third birthday and his sixty-fifth year as newspaper delivery man. Mr. Ward has delivered papers since a date prior to the Civil war over a route that takes in parts of 27 streets and covers 12 miles in all. He still goes over the route on foot every day in two hours and a half and shows no signs of fatigue at the end.

DISHWASHING IS ART

Chicago Club Women Discuss Domestic Duties of Today.

Women Must Be Educated "Down" to Kitchen and Standard of Domestic Employees Raised—Let Maid Use Piano.

Chicago.—"Women must be educated down to the kitchen, and the standard of domestic employees raised." This was the verdict of prominent Chicago club women, when they decided that women themselves are to blame for the lack of popularity of home occupations.

The occasion was the eleventh annual reciprocity meeting and anniversary of the Artcraft Institute and Guild, and the subject was "How may our widespread interest in art, as a factor in every day life, be best employed to raise the standard of domestic occupations?"

"There is just as much art in laundering a piece of lace as in drawing the design."

"Let the second maid use the piano. The dressmaker does."

"Flats and delicatessen stores have destroyed home life."

"The little things in life, such as washing dishes and preparing food are included in art as fully as painting and sculpturing."

There were other opinions to receive favor. Incidentally, Mrs. D. Harry Hammer, Mrs. F. K. Howes and several other women, clad in fine dresses and wearing costly jewels not only admitted, but took pride in announcing that they were not strangers to household duties.

"I would rather wash dishes than embroider," said Mrs. Skyes.

"Even with the widespread interest in art as a possible lever to raise the standard of domestic occupations, I confess my inability to apply the lever until the dignity of all work is demonstrated," said Mrs. Hammer.

"To dignify dishwashing is difficult but possible."

Mrs. George P. Vosbrink could not entirely agree with the others.

"Suppose you do raise the standard," she said, "what good is that going to do? I would like to know how many women here would mingle with their servants—"

But Mrs. Howes interposed, raising a warning finger.

"Why," she said, "there are leaders in Chicago society who worked as domestics, and I know of a prominent Boston woman of high standing who used to sell cigars, and my husband bought from her, too."

Mrs. George E. Colby questioned whether it would not be educating a woman "up" and not "down" to teach her more of kitchen life.

FRENCH NOW DRINKING TEA

Seems to Have Become Not Only Fashionable, but Popular—620,000,000 Cups Drunk in 1909.

Paris.—Tea drinking in France seems to have become not only fashionable, but popular. Its increasing vogue is shown by the revenue returns for 1909, which show a consumption of 1,293 tons. Reckoning a pinch of tea a cup, this represents about 620,000,000 cups drunk in the course of the year.

Ten or fifteen years ago tea was regarded in France as a semi-medical concoction, to be used to restore fainting women. It was classed among the mild liquids commonly known as "tisanes," and in the provinces, at any rate, people who expressed a liking for tea as a beverage were looked upon as "snobs" or eccentrics.

Nowadays the fashion has spread all over the country, and no hotel would be likely to perpetrate such an absurdity as the famous announcement, "Tous les jours, 5 o'clock a quartre heures." The practice of giving sweet wines with cakes in the afternoon is now looked upon as quite out of date.

Brings Several New Plants

Harvard Professor Returns From Trip to China With Flora Which Will Be Introduced Here.

Cambridge, Mass.—E. H. Wilson of the Harvard Arboretum has returned to Harvard after two years in China, bringing with him many new species of plant life. The new plants include lilies, hedge greens, clematis, vines, berries and other flora which he believes within a few years will supplant the species hitherto known to botanists, and will create a new race of beautiful flowers and useful berries. One of his treasures is a plant that will make a hedge so dense that it can be cut almost as thin as a fence and will stay green a great part of the year.

STATE CAPITAL NEWS

HARRISBURG CORRESPONDENCE

Deputy State Secretary.

William Hertzler, former State Senator and stalwart Republican of Juniata county, was appointed deputy secretary of the Commonwealth to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Colonel Lewis E. Bettler, Philadelphia, who resigned last February. Mr. Bettler had held the position for twelve years, being appointed by Governor W. A. Stone, and continued in office by Governors S. W. Pennypacker and Edwin S. Stuart.

Mr. Hertzler was born in Turbett township, Juniata county, July 7, 1858, and after being educated in the schools and academies of his native county, graduated from Washington and Jefferson College in 1881. He read law under Lewis E. Atkinson, at Milltown, and was elected chairman of the County Republican Committee the year he left college, being re-elected the following year. In 1889 he was elected a member of the State House of Representatives and then served in various local offices, giving particular attention to school affairs. In 1896 he was elected to the State Senate.

The former Senator is one of the best known men in the Juniata Valley and has been a prominent Republican. He was clerk of the Committee on War Claims of the lower house of Congress in the sessions of the Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth Congresses by appointment of Congressman Thad M. Mahon, and reappointed to the same place by Congressman Kittridge Huskins, of Vermont, in the Sixtieth and in the first session of the Sixty-first Congress. He was Congressman Mahon's secretary in three sessions and served in the same capacity for Congressman B. K. Focht in the Sixtieth, Sixty-first and Sixty-second Congresses. His acquaintance in this State and with men of national prominence is wide.

Mr. Hertzler is interested in banking and mercantile enterprises.

Fare and Seat Complaints.

The State Railroad Commission has been asked by the Business Men's Association of Milton to investigate the fare question on the Lewisburg, Milton & Watsonstown Street Railway, it being claimed that trip books are accepted only during certain hours. Other complaints received are that a passenger was unable to get a seat in a Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train from Pittsburg to Baltimore, being compelled to stand all the time, and that a telegraph company should not charge for delivery of a telegraphic money order when money was wired but not delivered.

Barnard Statues.

The statutory executed for the State by George Gray Barnard was taken over by the Commonwealth. Papers were signed by officers of the Capitol Building Commission accepting the groups. Barnard has received all that is due him from the commission. He will get the additional $50,000 as soon as the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings can audit his bills. This probably will be undertaken this week when the board meets. The formal acceptance of the statues by the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings will take place October 4.

Fish Gearing.

A committee of residents of York and Lancaster counties appeared here to ask the Governor to make an investigation into charges that the construction of the fishways at McCall's Ferry dam prevented fish from getting up the river. Governor Tener's absence prevented a hearing. Fish Commissioner Meehan denies that the fish ways are inadequate and says that the difficulty is that the flow of water is too strong.

Capitol Cases Stricken From Docket.

The last two capitol fraud criminal cases were stricken from the docket of the Dauphin County Court at the request of District Attorney John Fox Weiss. They were against Architect J. M. Huston, William P. Snyder and James M. Shumaker, former State officials now in prison; William L. Mathews, former State Treasurer, and John H. Sanderson, contractor for furniture, who are dead.

Philadelphia Gets Position.

Miss Ethel K. Baldwin, of Philadelphia, was appointed a stenographer in the Department of Public Instruction, by Dr. N. C. Shaeffer, the superintendent. She is a relative of Harry Baldwin, of the Auditor General's Department.

Chief of Standards' Bureau.

James Sweeney, of Tioga county, a clerk in the State Bureau of Industrial Statistics, was appointed the first chief of the new State Bureau of Standards, by Secretary of Internal Affairs Henry Houck, and the new chief will at once procure from the United States Government at Washington a complete set of standards of weights and measures. The bureau has a chief at $2,000 a year, with $2,500 for new standards and $3,600 for traveling expenses.

Conductor Finds Bonds.

Harrisburg.—Eustace A. Seaman, a conductor on the Middletown line of the Central Pennsylvania Traction Company, has sent to the officers of the company a package of bonds, of the face value of $16,500, which he found on his car a few days ago. The bonds expired in 1902, but many of the coupons are attached and an effort is being made to locate the owner through the company which issued them.

SHE WAS WISE.

He—Ah, sweetheart, I love you more than all my wealth.

She—Yes, but you only get ten a week.

Settled Them.

"I've a sight o' sons—thirteen altogether," remarked a prosperous old farmer, "and all of 'em's done me credit save the three eldest, who sowed wild oats at a pretty rapid rate, and then came home and saddled my shoulders with the harvest."

"Well, I own I was glad to see 'em back, and I feasted 'em, and petted 'em, and set 'em on their legs again, only to see 'em skedaddle off fresh when things had slowed down, with all the cash they could lay hands on."

"That thereabout sicken me, so I called the rest of 'em together and said:

"There's ten of you left, and if any of you 'ud like to follow 'otter three I won't try to stop you. But, understand this, though there may be a few more prodigal sons, there'll be no more fatted calves. I've killed the last of 'em!"

"And," continued the old man, triumphantly, "I've had trouble wi' none of 'em since!"

A Catastrophe.

A cat was being chased along the roof of a New York building. It lost its balance and fell on a boy who was standing on a balcony on the second floor. The startled boy fell in his turn, landing on a baby carriage, for untasted empty, which another boy was wheeling in the street. The first boy dislocated his wrist; the cat was killed.
