Cars and Engine Run Over Boy.

Roy Oden, 16 years old, of Waynesboro, made one of the most remarkable escapes here last week possibly in record. He was in the Emmert shops and jumped out of a door which is close to the tracks that run from the Cumberland Valley railroad to the Geiser shops. Just as he did so the Geiser shops shifting engine, pushing three cars, came along. Young Oden was knocked down by the front car and fell immediately in front of it and between the rails. The three cars and engine passed over him. Strange as it may seem, he was not seriously injured. His arms and back were cut and one ankle contused. He was otherwise bruised.

The track is not very well ballasted at the point where young Oden fell. He managed to get between two ties and drew himself into as small position as possible, which accounts for his narrow escape. The trainmen did not know for some time afterward that they had run over the boy.

Analysis of Cheap Candies.

Dairy and Food Commissioner Foust announced the undertaking by the Food Bureau of a highly important investigation. The subject of this undertaking is the cheaper candies, the so-called "penny goods" so largely consumed by the little folks and sold at the little shops and near the school houses. There has been a good deal of talk about these products, some alleging even that certain of the chocolates owe their color not to the delectable paste from the cocoa bean, but to paint stuffs or ochre; that some of the fudges contain arsenic in considerable amounts, that the bright hues that delight the eyes and fix the fancy of our little tots are not of wholesome vegetable kinds, but are undesirable dyes made from coal tar without due care as to their freedom from poisonous or unwholesome by-products, and that talc or soapstone is sometime used to give weight, in place of wholesome food materials.

Parents are rightly concerned that their loved ones, too young to protect themselves and readily beguiled by deceptive appearances, shall, on the one hand, not be deprived of the little luxuries that at once served to gladden their childhood days and to afford valuable nourishment to their active little bodies, and, on the other, that they shall not be exposed to injury in the house of their supposed friend, the candyman.

It is likewise important that, if these vague charges are not well founded, that the interests of the confectionery trade, made up in the main of men of high character who have for years organized to keep their business free from abuses of the kind here mentioned, shall be freed from the shadow of such unpleasant suspicions as those above alluded to.

For these reasons, the Commissioner has arranged for a searching study of the cheap candies sold in Pennsylvania. For this purpose, about three hundred samples have been collected. In the purchase of these samples, full care was taken to avoid duplication, so that the number of brands represented corresponds closely to the number of samples purchased. The nature of the goods bought is suggested by some of the brand names, such as "rain bow suckers, almond tops, revolvers, hammer eggs, cigars, happy bunnies, strawberry plates, candy bolsters, candy sweet potatoes, candy fish, ice cream cups, red jumbos, lightning rods, tootsie rolls, flag suckers, line barrels, ball player caramels, log cabin kisses."

These samples have been delivered to Dr. Chas. H. La Wall, of Philadelphia, Chemist to the Bureau, for complete analysis. When the work is finished the results will be published in bulletin form in order that the public may have full information about the nature of these curious ly named sweets. It need scarcely be added that, if the findings show the existence of the bad practices above mentioned, the guilty will be vigorously prosecuted; but if they fail to appear upon this extensive examination, it is hoped that parents' fears may be allayed, the children's pleasure be no longer disturbed, and confectioners' interests freed from unjust annoyance.

Women School Directors in This State.

It is said that women in some portions of Pennsylvania are seriously considering taking an active part in the election of school directors and endeavoring to secure representation on the school boards in view of the providing by the school code for the election of 9 directors at large in cities of the third classes. These nine directors are not elected from any particular ward, but are all on one general ticket, and every voter in the city votes for nine—if he chooses. It is this that has encouraged the woman taxpayer to believe that on a ticket at large she might have a chance of success in running for school director. In some cities the newspapers are already discussing the claims of certain prominent women as candidates for school director.
