SIPES DOES NOT WAIT FOR TRIAL.

Accomplices From Outside.

Early this morning, Wm. Lockard in jail awaiting trial at October court for shooting Constable Foster of Wells Valley called Sheriff Harris from bed and informed him that the back doors of the jail were standing open, and that there was nothing to hinder cows from coming in and chewing up the bedclothing.

Confederates from the outside had been on the job with keys, entered the jail, and assisted their friend to regain his liberty.

Evidently somebody did not want to take the chances of developments that might come out Friday afternoon.
