Apples Cure Horse of Fear.

James Lyons, of Skowegan, has succeeded by the use of apples in so training his horse that the animal is no longer afraid of automobiles. The animal's fear of motorcars has resulted in four broken wagons and nearly scared the female members of the house hold to death.

Lyons was out driving recently when he saw an automobile coming along a narrow place in the road. He had been eating apples, and as he jumped out of the wagon he went to the horse's head and gave the animal an apple.

As the machine whizzed by the horse hardly noticed it. Lyons then got his idea, went home and perfected an arrangement to the saddle large enough to hold several apples. By pulling a string from the wagon the basket is lowered in front of the horse's head, so that when an automobile approaches the basket drops, the horse begins eating the apple and fails to notice the machine.—Chicago Ocean.

Amanda Wolford, who has been visiting her many friends in Everett, and also attended the Christian Conference at Earlston, has returned home. She reports having a very pleasant time while there and enjoyed the meeting immensely, and met many old acquaintances. Sixteen ministers were present during the session.

BELIEF IN WITCHCRAFT.

It Still Survives in Some Parts of India.

Belief in witchcraft is still so fast rooted in parts of India that unfortunate persons suspected of the black art are not uncommonly done to death. In Bengal last year several cases of the kind came before the courts. In the Southern Parganahs a woman was murdered by her mother and brother, who believed her to be a witch.

In Palaman a man was killed, as the villagers held that he was a wizard. In another case two women were murdered on the bare suspicion that they had caused the death of three children by cholera. Human sacrifice also is still practiced among the uncivilized tribes of Bengal.

In Angul some Khonds sacrificed a girl as a propitiatory offering against cholera, and in Palaman a boy was enticed into the jungle and killed as a sacrifice. There can be little doubt that any relaxation of vigilance would result in a serious increase of witch killing and human sacrifices.

First of Them Made as Far Back as 1844.

Comparatively few, perhaps, know that the electric light was used in photography so far back as 1844, and yet that this was the case is shown by an interesting present which has been received by the Royal Microscopical Society from M. Nachet, one of the French Fellows. This consists of a frame containing six microdaguerotypes taken with the electric light by the great French savant, Leon Foucault. They are probably not only the oldest photographs of their kind in existence, but almost certainly the first application of the electric light to scientific studies. The original plates from which these reproductions were made all bear the date 1844 and the signature of Leon Foucault.

Stone Gongs.

At Chufu, the birthplace of Confucius, there are to be seen some remarkable examples of sounding-stones, or stone gongs. One of these stones, which are composed of a grayish oolitic limestone, has been shaped into a cover for an incense-dish placed in front of the tomb of the grandson of Confucius. When struck with a stick, or with the knuckles, it rings like bronze, and the sound is so distinct that it is difficult to believe, without inspection, that the object is not really composed of metal.

Sounding-stones are known in other countries. There is a bridge at Corick, in County Mayo, Ireland, which is locally known as the "musical bridge," because the stones forming the coping give out a musical note when struck.

Why Dumas Fills Quit Smoking.

The younger Dumas, like M. Maeterlinck, became convinced in middle life of the injurious effects of nicotine, and his conversion was brought about in truly dramatic fashion. He once told an interviewer, "which set out so vividly the evils brought on by smoking that I laid down my cigar (the fifteenth that day, if I remember rightly) and vowed I would never smoke again. This vow I have rigidly kept, and am firmly convinced that tobacco saps the brain as surely as alcohol." Fortunately, tobacco-smokers can point to a long line of distinguished men, from Milton to Meredith, who have lived to a great age with unimpaired faculties in spite of their smoking habits.

The Food Value of Chestnuts.

The fruit of the chestnut tree is nearly as valuable as bread and more valuable than potatoes for dietetic purposes. Two pounds of chestnuts contain 118 grammes of starch and eight of fat.

The annual production of chestnuts in France is over 3,000,000 quintals of 220 pounds. That means food for many workmen. But the hide-tanners keep the product from the food-market by buying it in large quantities for use in their business. Producers make more profit by selling their chestnuts for tanning than by disposing of them for food.

His Own Opinion.

"So," said the head of the firm, "you want your salary raised?" "Yes," the office boy timidly replied. "What makes you think your value to this company has been increased?" "Well, do baseball season's over, and I'll be here a good deal more regular now."

The Brave Knights of Old.

The human race is not physically deteriorating. The quotation, "We are growing weaker and wiser," is only a partial truth. We are certainly growing wiser, and we are as certainly not growing weaker. The human animal is more robust and powerful today than ever, capable of greater strength and endurance. It has been demonstrated many times that the famous knights of chivalry, the tales of whose prowess make the blood tingle, were smaller and weaker than the men of the present time. The average man of to-day cannot get into the armor of the old Crusader. His body is bigger and more powerful than was that of the man of old.

New Blood Needed.

Just because some neighbor gets more eggs than Mr. A, is no reason why A should change his breed of chickens. Probably he ought to introduce new blood into his flock and give it different care from what it has been getting. However, do not waste time and feed on dunghills and scrubs.

KEEPING A FEW BEES.

An Easy Way of Supplying the Table or Adding to One's Income.

Any person living upon a farm or in the outskirts of a village would find it a pleasure and a profit to keep one or more colonies of bees, especially if he desires to have a few dollars of his own. The honey bee is a benefactor to our race, roaming the fields at will, gathering honey and pollen, which it pays for in the fertilization of the flowers. She takes nothing from the fertility of the soil, but gives to it one of the greatest fertilizers known, the clovers, which would become extinct if it were not for her agency in fertilizing the bloom. No land is required except a spot on which to place the hives.

The fear of stings, I think, prevents many from liking the work, and yet, when properly protected with a bee veil, and working only in the warm part of the day, and never when cloudy, rainy or cold, and with the use of a good smoker, one need rarely be stung. In many cases the sting of a bee is attended with much pain and swelling, while in others there is no doubt that the system can soon be become inured to the poison so that no bad effects are produced. Well the writer recollects the time when a bee sting was very painful to him and was always attended with much pain and swelling. I know there is a sort of current impression to the effect that bees will sting some people more than others. While this is true, it is not because they are able to recognize any peculiar physical condition or difference, nor is it because one person smells to the bees differently from another. It is because they notice a difference in behavior of different persons. Avoid quick motions; do not breathe upon them, and if there are other bees flying about in search of plunder do not leave the hive open too long. In case of accidents the smoker should be used freely, and it ought to be at hand for any manipulation in the apiary. It is much easier to prevent the anger of bees than to put a stop to it after it has begun. If you mismanage a colony of bees and rouse their anger it is quite likely that this disposition will remain with them for a few days.

A bee away from home, or laden with honey, never volunteers an attack. This is so well established and so well known by apiarists that if I were not writing mainly for beginners I should not think of mentioning it.

Thus, in order to render bees harmless it is only necessary to cause them to fill themselves with honey, and this is done by frightening them with smoke. When smoke is driven into a hive through the entrance the bees at once begin filling themselves with honey. But with them, as with human beings, it is the most experienced that are the slowest to take flight. So when the old bees are all at home it is more difficult and takes more time to compel them all to fill themselves. For this reason it is much safer to handle bees during the warmest part of the day, or at a time when the greater part of the old bees are in the field. The bees which compose a swarm are usually filled with honey for the journey that they expect to take, and are harmless unless crushed or very much irritated by the anger of others and the smell of the poison. It is not absolutely necessary to smoke a colony of bees till all the bees fill themselves with honey in order to handle them safely, but it is certainly the safest method.—F. G. Herman.

Bees Friends of Farmers.

If every farmer and fruit grower were to take the advice offered recently in a remarkable lecture before the Farmers' Club, London, British crops would probably be multiplied in value by millions of pounds.

Mr. Herrod, proving his contentions by admirable slides, made out the bee to be one of the greatest friends of the human race. Formic acid, which no chemist can make, is obtained direct from the bees in America and used as a cure for rheumatism and in the hospitals; honey is now employed as a valuable substitute for cod liver oil.

But the farmer and fruit grower receive the most valuable boon. It is proved that apples are earlier, larger and much more numerous where bees are in quantity. Some photographs showed that misshapen and stunted apples are due principally to bad fertilization and the perfect strawberry needs 100 to 300 acts of fertilization.

New Zealand, which now exports clover seed, could not grow any till a cargo of bumble bees was sent over, and a number of California fruit growers failed till bees were kept.

The marvelous statement of Darwin that flowers, especially red clover, are finer where cats are most numerous was corroborated. Only the bumble bee fertilizes the first crop of red clover, the smaller flowers of the second crop can be reached by honey bees; the great enemy of the bumble bee is the field mouse; the great enemy of the field mouse is the cat. Therefore, flowers are best where cats are many. It would be not less true to say that the clover is best where owls are most frequent.

Thanks to All.

We are certainly thankful for the large number of new subscribers added to our list during the month just closed. They were all voluntary, which speaks for itself. We also return thanks for the prompt remittance from a large lot of old subscribers renewing their subscriptions for another year.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION SUBMITTED TO THE CITIZENS OF THIS COMMONWEALTH FOR THEIR APPROVAL OR REJECTION, BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA, AND PUBLISHED BY ORDER OF THE SECRETARY OF THE COMMONWEALTH, IN PURSUANCE OF ARTICLE XVIII OF THE CONSTITUTION.

Number One.

A JOINT RESOLUTION Proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, so as to consolidate the courts of common pleas of Allegheny County.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met. That the following amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania be and the same is hereby proposed, in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof:— That section six of article five be amended, by striking out the said section, and inserting in place thereof the following:

Section 6. In the county of Philadelphia all the jurisdiction and powers now vested in the district courts and courts of common pleas, subject to such changes as may be made by this Constitution or by law, shall be in Philadelphia vested in five distinct and separate courts of equal and co-ordinate jurisdiction, composed of three judges each. The said courts in Philadelphia shall be designated respectively as the court of common pleas number one, number two, number three, number four, and number five, but the number of said courts may be by law increased, from time to time, and shall be in like manner designated by successive numbers. The number of judges in any of said courts, or in any county where the establishment of an additional court may be authorized by law, may be increased, from time to time, and whenever such increase shall amount in the whole to three, such three judges shall compose a distinct and separate court as aforesaid, which shall be numbered as aforesaid. In Philadelphia all suits shall be instituted in the said courts of common pleas without designating the number of the said court, and the several courts shall distribute and apportion the business among them in such manner as shall be provided by rules of court, and each court, to which any suit shall be thus assigned, shall have exclusive jurisdiction thereof, subject to change of venue, as shall be provided by law. In the county of Allegheny all the jurisdiction and powers now vested in the several numbered courts of common pleas shall be vested in one court of common pleas, composed of all the judges in commission in said courts. Such jurisdiction and powers shall extend to all proceedings at law and in equity which shall have been instituted in the several numbered courts, and shall be subject to such changes as may be made by law, and subject to change of venue as provided by law. The president judge of said court shall be selected as provided by law. The number of judges in said court may be by law increased from time to time. This amendment shall take effect on the first day of January succeeding its adoption.

Number Two.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to section eight, article nine, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met. That the following is proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof:—

Section 2. Amend section eight, article nine, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, which reads as follows:— "Section 8. The debt of any county, city, borough, township, school district, or other municipality or incorporated district, except as herein provided, shall never exceed seven per centum upon the assessed value of the taxable property therein, nor shall any such municipality or district incur any new debt, or increase its indebtedness to an amount exceeding two per centum upon such assessed valuation of property, without the assent of the electors thereof at a public election in such manner as shall be provided by law; but any city, the debt of which now exceeds seven per centum of such assessed valuation, may be authorized by law to increase the same three per centum, in the aggregate, at any one time, upon such valuation," so as to read as follows:—

Section 8. The debt of any county, city, borough, township, school district, or other municipality or incorporated district, except as herein provided, shall never exceed seven per centum upon the assessed value of the taxable property therein, nor shall any such municipality or district incur any new debt, or increase its indebtedness to an amount exceeding two per centum upon such assessed valuation of property, without the assent of the electors thereof at a public election in such manner as shall be provided by law; but any city, the debt of which now exceeds seven per centum of such assessed valuation, may be authorized by law to increase the same three per centum, in the aggregate, at any one time, upon such valuation, except that any debt or debts hereinafter incurred by the city and county of Philadelphia for the construction and development of subways for transit purposes, or for the construction of wharves and docks, or the reclamation of land to be used in the construction of a system of wharves and docks, as public improvements, owned or to be owned by said city and county of Philadelphia, and which shall yield to the city and county of Philadelphia current net revenue in excess of the interest on said debt or debts and of the annual installments necessary for the cancellation of said debt or debts, may be excluded in ascertaining the power of the city and county of Philadelphia to become otherwise indebted. Provided, That a sinking fund for their cancellation shall be established and maintained.
