The Orbisoma Dispatch says that Orbisoma has more widows than any other town of its size in the County. The Fulton County News does not suspect that the aforesaid widows had anything to do with this advertisement.

Running up and down stairs, sweeping and bending over making beds will not make a woman healthy or beautiful. She must get out of doors, walk a mile or two every day and take Chamberlain's Tablets to improve her digestion and regulate her bowels. For sale by all dealers.

On their trip to the eastern cities this fall to buy their fall stock of millinery goods, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Miss Correll has been employed in the Little store for several years and is an artist in her line.

An article that has real merit should in time become popular. That such is the case with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been attested by many dealers. Here is one of them. E. W. Hendrickson, Ohio Falls, Ind., writes, "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best for coughs, colds and croup, and is my best seller." For sale by all dealers.

The Robertsdale and Woodvale collieries are doing fine work at their fullest capacity steady time. The output of coal is large and the rolling stock is kept busy almost day and night in transporting the product to Mt. Union. The prospects seem bright for a busy and prosperous winter which is certainly gratifying to the employes and people in general. We hope that the coal trade may still continue to grow greater and boom all winter. The railroad traffic is good and has been all summer which means employment for additional men. Long may the industries prosper in the wish of everybody.—Orbisoma Dispatch.

A STRANGE BUG.

Motorist Finds One At Stroudsburg and Gets Advice From State Zoologist.

One of the Chambersburg Motor club while recently touring through the northeastern part of Pennsylvania stopped for lunch at the Indian Queen hotel at Stroudsburg. There was much remark made there of an insect which none present could identify.

The bug was much the general shape of a wasp, but nearly twice as long, with very long, rather coarse antennae and long black legs. The specimen observed was busily engaged in laying eggs under the bark of a dead tree stump which was preserved for purely ornamental purposes.

To the writer not being an entomologist, the species was quite strange and he determined to collect the specimen and send it to Dr. Surface, for identification.

In his usual illuminating manner the doctor sends the following information:

Dear Sir:—We have received the insect which you sent to us, and which you supposed was a borer in the bark of a dead tree. I hasten to inform you that it is called the Long-tailed Ichneumon, and the scientific name is Megarhyssa lanator. The important fact about it is that it is not a borer injurious to trees, but it is a parasite laying its eggs in the holes of the bark, where they hatch, and attack the real predators and destroy them. It is thus a beneficial insect, and where it is abundant, as you say, it will make its good services manifest by preserving the tree which are evidently very badly infested by a destroying borer.

Every effort possible should be made to have these insects preserved rather than destroyed. They insert their long, knife-like tails or ovipositors into the tree and guide their eggs to the desired place by this means. When they are fastened upon a tree they cannot readily escape, if seen, many persons ignorantly crush them, with the belief that they were destroying insects which were boring into and destroying the tree. By all means preserve the Ichneumon Flies, as they are among the most beneficial insects and contribute greatly toward suppressing the devastating hordes of insect pests.
