THERE WITH A REPUTATION

Doubtful and Humiliated Hubby Now Probably Believes Wife Can Keep a Secret.

"The late William Rotch Wister, the father of American cricket, might also be said to have been a godfather of the feminist movement," said a woman writer at the Acorn club in Philadelphia.

"Mr. Wister," she continued, "abominated that type of husband who treats his wife like a child, refusing to take her into his confidence. I once heard Mr. Wister tell a story about a German man of that sort.

"The man came back from a business meeting wherein the future welfare of himself and his family was vitally involved, but he declined to tell his wife what had been the meeting's outcome.

"Oh, no," he sneered, "I can't tell you anything. You'd repeat it if I did. You, being a woman, are constitutionally unable to keep a secret."

"But the wife, with a quiet smile, retorted: 'George, did I ever tell the secret of how you were led astray that summer the church conference met in Chicago and got arrested in a saloon for biting off the bartender's ear?'"

In a parish in Wales where very little English was spoken a general meeting was held to consider the desirability of putting a chandelier into the schoolroom. Every one seemed in favor of the idea.

"Do you think we ought to have one, Mr. Davis?" said the schoolmaster to a venerable parishioner.

"I agree to it," was the reply; "but there is one thing I wish to know. If we have a—"

"Chandelier," said the schoolmaster, helping him out.

"If we have a chandelier," the old man continued, "who is going to pay it?"

A Change of Opinion.

"Talk is cheap," chuckled the politician with the telephone frank in his pocket.

THE TEA PENALTY.

A Strong Man's Experience.

Writing from a busy railroad town the wife of an employe of one of the Great roads says:

"My husband is a railroad man who has been so much benefited by the use of Postum that he wishes me to express his thanks to you for the good it has done him. His waking hours are taken up with his work, and he has no time to write himself.

"He has been a great tea drinker all his life and has always liked it strong.

"Tea has, of late years, acted on him like morphine does upon most people. At first it soothed him, but only for an hour or so, then it began to affect his nerves to such an extent that he could not sleep at night, and he would go to his work in the morning wretched and miserable from the loss of rest. This condition grew constantly worse, until his friends persuaded him, some four months ago, to quit tea and use Postum.

"At first he used Postum only for breakfast, but as he liked the taste of it, and it somehow seemed to do him good, he added it to his evening meal. Then, as he grew better, he began to drink it with his noon meal, and now he will drink nothing else at table.

"His condition is so wonderfully improved that he could not be hired to give up Postum and go back to tea. His nerves have become steady and reliable, once more, and his sleep is easy, natural and refreshing.

"He owes all this to Postum, for he has taken no medicine and made no other change in his diet.

"His brother, who was very nervous from coffee-drinking, was persuaded by me to give up the coffee and use Postum and he also has recovered his health and strength." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

INTERESTING PRACTICE ON YALE FIELD

Holladay Philbin and Walter Camp, Jr.

The Yale football coaches are gradually succeeding in their efforts to change the team's style of attack from the simple to the complex. Yale's attack is clearly to rest on the key-stone of the shift formation this season, and the curtain has been rung down on the straight plunge.

The opinion among the coaches is that the back field is the weak point in the Yale team. The backs do not work well together, and Dr. "Billy" Bull, "Blink" Thorne and Fred Murphy, three of Yale's most famous former backs, will devote all their time from now on to developing the back field.

Place kicking, in which the three coaches were masters, will also be the subject of drills in off hours.

GREAT RACERS AT SAVANNAH

Flat Drivers for Vanderbilt Race Announced—Teddy Tetzlaff Is Among Quinets.

The Flat drivers for the Vanderbilt race to take place in Savannah on November 27, have been announced. David Bruce-Brown, who will drive one of the Flat cars in the Grand Prize Race on November 30th, will lead the Vanderbilt Cup team. The other drivers will be E. H. Parker and Teddy Tetzlaff.

These with Felice Nazzaro, who has been definitely engaged to drive a Flat in the Grand Prize, and Caleb S.

Teddy Tetzlaff.

BRASS, the other Flat Grand Prize driver, make up one of the greatest racing teams ever seen at a race meet on this continent.

Tetzlaff is a product of California, having leaped into fame through his winning of the 151.5 miles race for the Ferris Cup at Los Angeles last fall with an average speed of 73.27 miles an hour. He began racing at Los Angeles in 1909 when he won a place in the Santa Monica races. In 1910 he won both the Santa Monica races, free-for-all, and stock, in one day, making the free-for-all in 71.22 miles an hour, and the Stock Classics in 73.27.

He followed up these victories by beating Ralph de Palma in a hundred miles match race on the Los Angeles Motordrome track, averaging over 50 miles an hour for the 100 miles, and winning from DePalma by six miles.

QUEAL IS GREATEST RUNNER

So Declares Alfred Shrubbs, Little English Sprinter—Marathon Races Not Good.

Alfred Shrubbs, the little English runner, has probably run more long distance races than any man in the world. To date he has completed in 2,002 races. Of this number he was defeated only ten times.

"I have been running for fourteen years," he said recently, "and feel as strong now as the first day I donned a racing shoe. Of course, I haven't got the speed and stamina I possessed while I was an amateur and hung up my world's records, but I believe that I can beat most of the young champions yet."

Shrubbs then said that he did not believe that Marathon races were good for runners. "The distance is too far. It saps the strength of the athlete, and in a short time cripples him so that he is out of competition in three or four years. Races at from ten to fifteen miles is the proper distance." He said he considered Billy Queal the greatest runner of the day and predicted that he would develop into the greatest runner the world ever saw.

While an amateur Shrubbs established new world marks from two to ten miles, and the one-hour record. He is thirty-four years old and now lives in Toronto.

The Swedes have made a rule that Swedish athletes who were born among the fords cannot compete for their adopted country.

WOMEN TO ADOPT AEROPLANE

Helene Dutrieu of France Comes to Fly in America—Never Injured in an Accident, She Says.

At last, after much heralding, the United States is visited by the world's greatest "lady-bird," Mlle. Helene Dutrieu, champion woman aviator of France, who she holds the best records for high and long-distance flying. She arrived on the Le Provence.

"I am so glad to be here for a visit and to do some flying," Mlle. Dutrieu said. "I feel certain that women as well as men will use flying machines to travel from town to town."

Mlle. Dutrieu in 1910 flew 160 kilometers in two hours and forty-five minutes. This year she beat her own record by flying, on September 27, 230 kilometers in two hours and thirty-two minutes. Her highest flight was 800 meters or about 2,640 feet. Before she became an aviator she held the women's bicycle records for time and distance.

Asked if she had ever been hurt, Mlle. Dutrieu said:

"Never! Never! I have had three accidents, once falling from a height of 200 feet with a passenger and landing in a ditch. At Odessa, Russia, I fell into a house, but escaped injury."

She believes that married people should not fly singly. "If the wife flies, her husband should fly with her, or in another machine. 'And the man who wants me must catch me in the air. Ha! ha!'" she added.

Mlle. Dutrieu will compete with Mathilde Moisant and Harriet Quimby, American flyers.

ATHLETES IN A BIBLE CLASS

Minnesota Coach Believes He Can Turn Out Winning Team at the University of Minnesota.

Dick Grant, coach of track athletics at the University of Minnesota, will form a Bible class study among his feet-footed proteges. Grant believes that by combining the precepts of the testaments with the scientific principles of physical training, he can turn out a winning team at the university.

Social reform also will be taught the track stars by their coach, who has announced his intention of resuming the all-university dances that were inaugurated at the university last year as a counter attraction to the public dance halls of Minneapolis. The Bible classes will meet once a week during the luncheon hour, and another hour each week will be taken up with a lecture by the coach on training and personal hygiene.

"A man who has led a pure, clean, Christian life will be the best able," said Coach Grant. "The study of highest themes individual life gives a great fraternal spirit and this is absolutely necessary in a winning team."

ADMISSION TOO HIGH

Price of Tickets Keeps Crowds at Football Games Small.

Collegians Just Starting Work Cannot Afford to Patronize Games at $3 Each—Eastern Stadiums Are Crowded.

The way to popularize football is to popularize the price of admission. From the comparatively small crowds that have climbed the bleachers at Marshall field to watch the Maroons during the last season, football appears to have lost its vital appeal to those who used to follow the game, says a writer in the Chicago Journal in the east, however, 30,000 spectators jam into the stadiums to watch two colleges play and there is as much riot and joy in the stands as there was in the "good old days of the mass play."

For the privilege of witnessing one of the games, the eastern college charges $1.50. In the west, particularly at the University of Chicago, $2 and $3 are demanded as an admission fee from each spectator. The game is now a snappier, faster exhibition than it ever was, but aside from the student body who are given 50-cent rates, not many go out to see it.

There are thousands of college graduates in Chicago to whom the game is still the only game. Many of these swam out and could not be barred from witnessing the familiar men in moleskin hammer away at each other up and down the field by the most exorbitant of prices. But the others, those to whom an expenditure of $3 to $5 for two tickets is an item of note and importance, confine their interest to the perusal of the plays as set forth in the newspapers the day after the game. The part of the public that crowds the ball parks in the summer are accustomed to observing the national heroes in the national pastime at an "outlay" of 75 cents. It is purely the arithmetical difference between 75 cents and $3 that keeps this same part of the public from being to the football fields.

To those who overcome their scruples and dig up the necessary funds required by the gridiron ticket offices, football still furnishes the thrills and spirit that it did in its palmy days. People, influenced if not awed by the price of admission, restrain themselves from populating the college bleachers and in justice to their sportsmanlike natures circulate the sentiment that football isn't any good any more and hardly worth going to see.

The new rules are quoted as having raised havoc with the game and in this manner those who would have gone are deterred. All of which is to intimate that the same ones who led the new rules and other so-called detrimental features of football would swarm out and enjoy the pastime were the football tickets labeled $1 instead of $3.

Should the university powers lower the admission fee, football would come to the front and inspire the same jubilation and intensity it did five years ago. It might be said for the sake of argument that the general public, ultimate consumer and representative of public opinion, would attend the games, become impressed by the university and when he acquired off-springs send them thither for education. Many other things of this helpful nature might occur, and undoubtedly would.

In the university there is still the same manifestations on the part of the students regarding the game.

LITTLE RUSE DIDN'T SUCCEED

Youngster's Scheme Was All Right, But Economical Father Was a Match for Him.

The proprietor of the most prominent hotel in the town of S—, Ky., is a man of a very economical nature, in fact he is an extremist in this feature. He has a six-year-old, red-headed son that didn't inherit his father's economical disposition. Recently the son was very much in need of a five-cent piece for soda water purposes. He went into the dining-room, where he was free from observation, and removed his shoe strings and placed them in his hip pocket for future reference. Returning to the office he approached his father and said:

"Pa, give me a nickel to get me a pair of shoe strings."

His father glanced down at his son's shoes, then turning around approached the office safe and opened it in silence. He took out the cash box and raising the lid extracted a pair of new shoe strings which he handed to his son without a word. "The youngster took the strings with a crestfallen air and then to the amusement of the onlookers exclaimed: "Stung again, by granny."

BABY'S TERRIBLE CONDITION

"When my baby boy was six months old, his body was completely covered with large sores that seemed to itch and burn, and cause terrible suffering. The eruption began in pimples which would open and run, making large sores. His hair came out and finger nails fell off, and the sores were over the entire body, causing little or no sleep for baby or myself. Great scabs would come off when I removed his shirt.

"We tried a great many remedies, but nothing would help him, till a friend induced me to try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment but a short time before I could see that he was improving, and in six weeks' time he was entirely cured. He had suffered about six weeks before we tried the Cuticura Soap and Ointment although we had tried several other things, and doctors too. I think the Cuticura Remedies will do all that is claimed for them, and a great deal more." (Signed) Mrs. Noble Tubman, Dodson, Mont., Jan. 28, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 18 K, Boston.

Astonished the "Cop."

Police Lieutenant "Barney" Keleher always has a new story to tell.

"Two of our 'finest' were walking along Broadway not so long ago," began the lieutenant, unfolding his latest offering, "and their attention was attracted to the bronze figure of an ape standing upright in the window of a large jewelry store.

"What kind of an animal is that supposed to be?" asked one of the other.

"You surprise me with your thickness," returned the second cop. "That's a gorilla. Never hear of them before?"

"Sure, and I read about them in the histories," he answered. "My, what a lot of damage they did during the Civil war! How did a general ever make those things mind him?"—New York Sun.

Literary Criticism.

They were discussing a certain author at dinner, and a well-known critic raised a laugh by remarking: "Well, her hair's red, even if her books are not."

The mild young man in the corner made a mental note of the sally for future use, and at another party shortly afterward he carefully guided the conversation into literary channels. Tibbits informs his readers. Fortunately, some one mentioned the desired name, and he triumphantly cried out: "Well, she's got red hair, even if her books haven't!"

Toasting the Teachers.

There was a meeting of the new teachers and the old. It was a sort of love feast, reception or whatever you call it. Anyhow, all the teachers got together and pretended they didn't have a care in the world. After the eats were at the symposium proposed a toast:

"Long Live Our Teachers!"

It was drunk enthusiastically. One of the new teachers was called on to respond. He modestly accepted. His answer was:

"What on?"

Loss of Appetite

It is not only the half million bricks of Tattershall that have been numbered for trans-shipment across the Atlantic. Ruskin, when he was a boy, pined the Americans for being so unhappy as to live in a country that has no castles. They will have a castle now, and no nation likes to be pined. But the other importation, made by Mrs. Gardner as an addition to her Italian villa near Boston, was that of an entire chapel as it stands, with all its interior furnishings, even to the half-burned candles in the altar.

The monks who served the chapel had been scattered by the strong hand of the law, and the building was to be devoted to the pick ax. The courageous American lady had it packed up in a Venetian bill country, where it stood, and carried down piecemeal and embarked.—London Chronicle.

Weak Heart

Many people suffer from weak hearts. They may experience shortness of breath on exertion, pain over the heart, or dizzy feelings, oppressed breathing after meals or their eyes become blurred, their heart is not sufficiently strong to pump blood to the extremities, and they have cold hands and feet, or poor appetite because of weakened blood supply to the stomach. A heart tonic and alterative should be taken which has no bad after-effect. Such is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which contains no dangerous narcotics nor alcohol.

The ingredients, as attested under oath, are Stone root (Caulophanes Canadensis), Bloodroot (Sanguinaria Canadensis), Golden Seal root (Hydrastis Canadensis), Queen's root (Squilla Silyvestris), Black Cherry bark (Prunus Virginiana), and Tribulus terrestris (Tribulus terrestris), with triple refined glycerine, prepared in a scientific laboratory in a way that no drug could imitate.

This tonic contains no alcohol to shrink up the red blood corpuscles; but, on the other hand, it increases their number and they become round and healthy. It helps the human system in the constant manufacture of rich, red blood. It helps the stomach to assimilate or take up the proper elements from the food, thereby helping digestion and curing dyspepsia, heart-burn and many uncomfortable symptoms, stops excessive tissue waste in convalescence from fevers; for the run-down, anemic, thin-blooded people, the "Discovery" is refreshing and vitalizing. Stick to this safe and sane remedy, and refuse all "just as good" medicines offered by the druggist who is looking for a larger profit. Nothing but Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will do you half as much good.
