ARE THE STARS FADING?

The opening of the present theatrical season is accompanied by the proclamation of a new principle. For 20 years or more the star has been the idol of the public and the god of managers. Mighty was the wage of this divinity. The star system seemed permanent. But last season was one of the most trying that theater managers have ever weathered. Scarcely one has not curtailed his enterprises, says the New York Sun. Theatrical investment is on a much less extensive scale than it was 12 months ago. Extreme conservatism marks the bushness this fall. Managers are searching for suggestions as to the best means of putting their affairs on a solid basis. One result of this investigation is the assertion that it would probably he much better for the the English newspaper correspondents aters if there were fewer stars or none at all. The reasons for this de Tripoll, received fresh impetus cision seem sound, at all events sound- through a telegram received by a er to reasonable laymen than the causes of the sudden promotion of of a star. Grindell Matthews, a young English engineer, is believed by his friends to be on the verge of giving to the world a wireless telephone with which conversations may be carried on across the Atlantic. It may not become public, as the British government may seek to acquire the sole right to it, preserving the secret, and retaining it for use in war. All that is known concerning the apparatus is that it is in a box so small that one may easily carry it about. Instruments may be tuned so that they will transmit only to others tuned in the same key. A man might telephone to his wife while she is out shopping Tests have been made in which the interposition of brick and iron walls was shown to be no barrier. Nothing seems too wonderful in the way of invention-especially where electricity is concerned; so nobody will be greatly surprised if Matthews' invention fulfills its promise.

The New York populace is apt to smile with pitying superiority when it hears a Cockney drop his "h's." "It forgets that it is equally culpable in regard to another letter of the alphabet, "r." How it does shy at "r." When the letter is not dropped entirely it becomes "oi," as in "goil" for girl, or "woild" for world. What is being done in our public schools. to correct this bad habit and others equally bad? The Cockney language is not a thing of beauty or a delight to the ear, but positively we are developing an argot here that is much worse; a monstrous, hybrid form of speech, devoid at once of grace and music. Let our school commissioners look to it!
