WORKS WITHOUT FAITH
Faith Came After the Works Had Laid the Foundation.

A Bay State belle talks thus about coffee:
"While a coffee drinker I was a sufferer from indigestion and intensely painful nervous headaches, from childhood.

"Seven years ago my health gave out entirely. I grew so weak that the exertion of walking, if only a few feet, made it necessary for me to lie down. My friends thought I was marked for consumption—weak, thin and pale.

"I realized the danger I was in and tried faithfully to get relief from medicines, till, at last, after having employed all kinds of drugs, the doctor acknowledged that he did not believe it was in his power to cure me.

"While in this condition a friend induced me to quit coffee and try Postum, and I did so without the least hope that it would do me any good. I did not like it at first, but when it was properly made I found it was a most delicious and refreshing beverage. I am especially fond of it served at dinner—ice-cold, with cream.

"In a month's time I began to improve, and in a few weeks my indigestion ceased to trouble me, and my headache stopped entirely. I am so perfectly well now that I do not look like the same person, and I have so gained in flesh that I am 15 pounds heavier than ever before.

"This is what Postum has done for me. I still use it and shall always do so." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in plgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

The Light of The World

By Rev. Stephen Paulson

TEXT—And the Lord went before them by day in a pillar of cloud to lead them the way; and by night in a pillar of fire to give them light.—Exodus 13:12.

First I want you to see the connection between these two widely separated texts. The one is from the account of the journey of Israel through the trackless wilderness; the second, Jesus spoke centuries later, as he was present at the feast of tabernacles in Jerusalem. The first verse describes the customary way in olden times, of leading large bodies of men on the march, whether caravans or armies. A tall pole was erected at the head of the marching column, on which was hung a basket of fire. The glare of the fire was visible from every part of the camp at night, and in the daytime the column or pillar of smoke guided the movements of the host. The only difference in the case of the Israelites was that the Lord was in the fire, and that he controlled and guided the movements of the people. In the time of Jesus the Jews were wont to commemorate at the feast of the tabernacles, the time when they were wanderers in the desert, and God made provision for their sustenance and safety. They lit large lamps or torches around the temple to symbolize the pillar of fire, and then gave themselves up to dancing and revelry.

As Jesus stood in the temple area and looked over the people, he saw that they needed guidance even more than they did in the desert, and that they needed light now just as much as they needed the pillar of fire of old. These lights about the temple were merely reminders of past mercy, and possibly many of the people had even forgotten their significance; but here was he, the Guide of all lives. Here was he, the Light of all ages. So he speaks, "I am the Light of the world." These words come down to us out of the old Hebrew temple, and they pierce the center of our modern life.

"I am the 'Light of the world.'" When the sun rose this morning, it found the world here in darkness. It was torpid, heavy with sleep, its powers were all wrapped up in sluggishness. The sun found the great world sleeping and woke it. It called to the dull birds and they sang their matins; it sent its light over the fields and painted them in colors beyond the power of any artist to imitate; it touched the flowers, and they opened their petals to the glory of a new morning; its rays entered the houses, and men awoke and began to move about their daily duties. It was an awakening, an energizing, a renewal of life, this morning's sunrise.

Even so it was when the Light of the world rose upon mankind. It meant an awakening, new energy, a renewal of life. No one can tell all that it meant when Jesus came into the world, for his coming had a thousand meanings, it had ten thousand influences which we are too dull to appreciate and too short-sighted to observe. But we know that when the Light of the world came it meant a new era in history, and we know that when Jesus comes into the human heart it means a new era in that man's life. Let us note one or two applications which these texts point out to us:

God's people of old were not led by a road already mapped out. The route was not chosen before they started. But step by step and day by day they were led, and God chose the route. Is not Jesus the great Leader of his people, and we have learnt a chief article of human wisdom if we have learnt to leave tomorrow to him. Step by step he leads us. The way may be dark and hidden from us, but it is all light and plain to him, for he is the Light.

As the pillar of fire was given to guide the host of Israel of old, so is Jesus the pillar of light which guides the church today. Yes, he stands today in the midst of the host, majestic, dominating the centuries, leading the church as the great army of God.

One evidence that the Light of the world is directing the movements is that the whole church is becoming awake to its duties and opportunities. The light of the morning wakes not only one class of men, but all far and near. So the Light of the world is sending his rays today into all hearts. Great movements are sweeping over America today among the men of the churches. They are realizing the folly of their own lethargy and indifference, and are waking to the new morning and a new day's work. The housewives have been astir long since. Woman's devotion to her Lord, and her self-sacrificing labors, have been one of the glories of the Christian church from the beginning. And now the Master is marshaling the men to the front.

Love and Marriage.
Whatever destroys the love faculty, which is the most divine part of our being, ought to be corrected as soon as possible. It is better to enter into life single or divorced than to be destroyed by the married state. It is better for the child life to be without parental influence than to have its morals and love destroyed by parents. Important and sacred as marriage is, the moral and love nature of man are more sacred, as they are the eternal qualities. The marriage institution like the moral commandments, is subjected to the condition and judgment of men.—Rev. W. P. Brush, Episcopalian, Jersey City, Mo.

Facial Beauty.
One in every two women we see in New York paints her cheeks to get face beauty. This is not so generally true in other sections of the country, but New York sets the pace for the whole country. Once the painted cheek was rare and did not mark respectability.—Rev. C. F. Kelsner.

NEHEMIAH AND HIS ENEMIES

Sunday School Lesson for Dec. 10, 1911
Specially Arranged for This Paper

LESSON TEXT—Nehemiah 4.
MEMORY VERSE—11.
GOLDEN TEXT—"The Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?"—Ps. 124.
The wall was finished in 52 days in August and September.
PLACE—Jerusalem and vicinity.

There were enemies within the Jewish church. Some of the nobles and richer men had been oppressing their poorer brethren who were working at great sacrifice in rebuilding the walls. No wages were paid for this work, so that many were thus reduced to the direst straits to support themselves and their families, and pay the taxes exacted by the Persian government. Their misfortunes were brought to a climax by the condition of hostilities, which put an end to trade, and threatened town and country with ruin. It was impossible to obtain regular employment, and prices had gone up. Those who had a little property mortgaged their homes; and in this way a considerable portion of the property of the poorer classes, their grain-fields vineyards, and dwellings, passed into the hands of wealthy money-lenders, who demanded high usury. Some, having no means to pay their creditors, sold their children as slaves. The hungry ones were threatening, if the grain was not given to keep them from starvation, they would take it by violence, or surrender the city to its enemies. The taxes for the Persian government were very heavy and exacting. The chief officers farmed out the collection of the taxes, both in money and in the fruits of the land. These under officers were the same as those called publicans in the New Testament. They were required to pay over to their superiors the exorbitant sum fixed by law, and depended for their profit on what they could make by fraud and extortion. They overcharged, brought false charges of smuggling to extort hush-money, seized upon property in case of dispute and held it until their levy was paid, forbade the farmer to reap his standing crops until they had wrung from him all that his penury could produce. They were universally feared, hated, and despised. No money known to have come from them was received for religious uses.

Now these, who professed religion and lived heathenism, were the greatest injury to the Cause for which Nehemiah had come. It was against such as these that Jesus launched the sharpest lightning of his "Woe unto you, hypocrites." They are traitors to their country, their church and their God. The church stands for the highest expression of man's life. A church represents the permanent spiritual life. It embodies the loftiest human aspirations; a nation's best expression of its religious sentiment represents that nation at its best. No whosoever in the name of the church, as a member of it, does actions contrary to its whole spirit, is the greatest enemy of the kingdom of God.

Nehemiah overcame these enemies. He changed them from enemies to friends. He rebuked them with burning indignation. He told them that their face the wrong they were doing. He persuaded them to repent and undo the wrongs they had done: "I pray you, let us leave off this usury. Restore, I pray you, to them, even this day, their lands, their vineyards, their oliveyards, and their houses, also the hundredth part of the money, and of the corn, the wine, and the oil, that ye exact of them." Then said they, "We will restore them, and will require nothing of them; so will we do as thou sayest." He set them a good example. He refused to take the usual salary of the governor. He bore all the expenses of his retinue. His noble conduct made the names of these oppressors show black as the smoke of the pit.

One of the greatest powers for reforming abuses is publicity. Let every man's name be on his deed, on the work he does, on everything he says, on all that he owns. Let the saloon keeper's name be on the drunkard he made. On all the adulterated food, the dishonest work, the sweat-shop ruins of health, the unhealthy tenements—let the name of the doers of these evils be written in blazing letters, like the Bery letters that flamed from the barrels of rum on which the demons had written the evils it would cost, and few would dare face this publicity cure. Nehemiah, shamed these false-hearted leaders into repentance and virtue.

There is a continual temptation today for Christian workers to give up their time and strength to discussing the many theories and unsettled questions which are continually confronting them. All sorts of men say all sorts of things till it seems as if these clouds were obscuring the whole content of Truth. This is true of many other things besides religion. Now the way to escape from these snares is to attend to our duties, to go to work for the Cause of Christ with all our hearts, to give ourselves to helping save our fellow men, both body and soul. For then we will use the essential things by which our work is accomplished. We thus test the working theories by using them. Those principles that bring results are the ones we want. We find out what they are worth through testing them by what they will do. Working for Christ and for his children is our safeguard.

Nehemiah was asked to leave his work for personal safety. This was too base an appeal. Nehemiah indignantly exclaimed, "Should such a man as I flee?"

The very baseness of the appeal opened Nehemiah's eyes to the fact that Shemai had bribed to ensnare him. That any one could imagine that he could be influenced by fear, touched Nehemiah's heart to the quick. It was an insult that the governor could only put into the hands of God to wipe out. But in the end the wall was built.

STATE CAPITAL NEWS

Standard Oil Fights Tax.
Subsidiary companies of the Standard Oil Company are not taking kindly to the new assessments of State tax on capital stock made against them. Ten days ago it was announced that three had objected to claims of about $350,000 as capital stock tax for 1909, and Wednesday three more appealed to court from the settlement of the Auditor General against them. The sums claimed by the State, which must be passed on by the court, are: National Transit Company, $507,132.57; Southern Pipe Line Company, $121,433.79, and Southwestern Pennsylvania Pipe Line Company, $48,230. The cases will be heard this week.

Commission to Erect Meade Statue.
The Governor appointed the following to be members of the General George Gordon Meade Statue Commission: N. P. Kinsley, commander, Grand Army of the Republic, Department of Pennsylvania, Franklin; Senator William C. Sprout, Chester; Representative James A. Dale, York; John W. Frazier, chairman of the committee, Philadelphia brigade, Philadelphia. The bill creating this commission provides for the erection of a statue to the memory of George Gordon Meade, in the city of Washington, and makes an appropriation of $20,000.

Shake-up in Insurance Department.
Charles Johnson, of Norristown, the State's new insurance commissioner, took the oath of office and assumed his duties as head of the department. The new commissioner was sworn in by Secretary of the Commonwealth Robert McAfee in the presence of a few friends. He stated that within a few days he would announce his plans for the conduct of the department. A general shake-up and reorganization will be made and the new force picked from scores of applicants. Mr. Johnson has forwarded his resignation as resident clerk of the House, which he has held for ten years.

Deer Season a Success.
State Game Commission reports indicate that the deer season, which ended on Thanksgiving night, was fully up to the average in most of the good hunting grounds of the State and in a number of counties will go ahead of last year. Dr. Joseph Kalbfus, of the State Game Commission, has been in a dozen counties where there is good deer hunting and says the number of bucks killed will not run behind last year's record.

Accused of Fraud.
Attorneys for the Raymond Manufacturing Company, of Middletown, which is largely owned by Robert Balfour, of Philadelphia, have brought suit against C. W. Raymond, of Middletown, on charges of falsification of records. Raymond was president of the wrecked Middletown Bank and served a sentence for his share in that affair. Attempts to find Raymond are being made by officers.

New Dam for Harrisburg.
The State Supply Commission authorized the city of Harrisburg to construct a dam of about five feet in height in the Susquehanna river as a project to better sanitary conditions. The dam was authorized by a popular loan of $65,000 ratified at the election in February, 1902. When constructed the dam will cover mouths of existing sewers and numerous small islands in the stream in front of the city.

Private Bankers Heed New Law.
Nearly two hundred private banking firms have notified State Banking Commissioner William H. Smith of intention to comply with the terms of the new private banking supervision law, which went into effect on December 1. Many of these firms have already filed their applications for state licenses, and others have given assurance that they will either claim exemption, as they are entitled to do if in the same location for more than seven years, or register and deposit bonds.

Licenses for Midwives.
Examinations will be conducted in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Scranton, Johnston and other cities of the State by the State Department of Health within a short time for licensing of persons who desire to become registered midwives under the act of 1911. Numerous applications have been received here in the last six weeks and although the council will be in existence only until January 1, it has decided to indorse the act to the limit.

Cattle Food Law.
Pennsylvania's law regulating the sale of commercial feeding stuffs, which was formerly bitterly assailed by manufacturers and dealers, is now regarded by writers of letters to the State Department of Agriculture as one of the safeguards of the business. This change of front, which has surprised Secretary N. B. Critchfield, is due to the fact that the law was enforced until patent cattle feeds that did not contain nutritious substances were driven out.

Investigate Wheat Pest.
Harrisburg.—State Zoologist Surface has started an investigation of reports of a troublesome pest that has appeared among new wheat in Southern counties. The pest is a worm that eats out the heart of the stalk as soon as it appears above ground. "I do not know if the pest is a new one or an old friend, but it acts like a 'borer' and I have sent for some samples of infected stalks," said he. "The appearance of this pest is unfortunate as a large acreage of wheat has been sowed this fall."

WHO WANTS "SISSY" MAN

Since Bishop Hendrix Would Drive Him from the Church Whither Will He Flee?

Bishop E. R. Hendrix, in a church council at Kansas City, asked why the church was not reaching more men. "Is it because we are adapting our work more to the women?" he demanded.

Another prominent clergyman, Rev. S. M. Neel, M. D., opined that there was somewhere near the reason. "We want no more sissy men in the pulpit," he declared. A "sissy" man, in this definition, is one who adapts his preaching and his teaching and his general conduct of parish affairs more to the women—bless them—than to the men.

Dr. Neel is heartily applauded by a large number of his pulpit brethren and the spirit of the times in the church, as manifested in such enterprises as the "Men and Religion Forward Movement," seems to emphasize what he says—the call and need for the strong, virile man in the pulpit who appeals to the man in the pew and in the street, for making the gospel a man's appeal, not, of course, deprecating the indispensable value of the women.

That is all very well, but where, may we ask, is the typically "sissy" man wanted? What calling or business needs him? Business and other professions besides the ministry can use him no better than can the church.—Omaha Bee.

"WHY SHOULD I USE CUTICURA SOAP?"

"There is nothing the matter with my skin, and I thought Cuticura Soap was only for skin troubles." True, it is for skin troubles, but its great mission is to prevent skin troubles. For more than a generation its delicate emollient and prophylactic properties have rendered it the standard for this purpose, while its extreme purity and refreshing fragrance give to it all the advantages of the best of toilet soaps. It is also invaluable in keeping the hands soft and white, the hair lustrous and glossy, and the scalp free from dandruff and irritation.

While its first cost is a few cents more than that of ordinary toilet soaps, it is prepared with such care and of such materials, that it wears to a water, often outlasting several cakes of other soap, and making its use, in practice, most economical. Cuticura Soap is sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, but the truth of these claims may be demonstrated without cost by sending to "Cuticura," Dept. 23 L, Boston, for a liberal sample cake, together with thirty-two-page book on the skin and hair.

Naive Optimists.
"Six months ago there was another outbreak of optimism as naive as though the world were still living in the sentimental era of glass exhibitions. Since then there has opened another era of political earthquakes and confagurations, and the area of disturbance continues to extend. Before the Tripoli problem has been safely liquidated or the peace of the Balkans is assured, we have the outbreak in China of an insurrection which may change the face of the far east and give an incalculable increase of force to all the impulses set moving by the triumph of Japan. All we can be certain of in the region of world politics is that nothing is certain. Do we need further lessons to convince us that the peace of civilization is founded upon the crust of a volcano?" asks the London Observer.

No Insomnia Here.
Mrs. Eastside—Now that you've got so rich I should think you'd be afraid of burglars.

Mrs. McSwinn—Sure, I'm not afraid at all, at all. I've 15 alarm clocks set so that one will go off every half-hour during the night. When a burglar hears one of them he never stops to take anything with him.

Mrs. Eastside—But don't they keep you awake?
Mrs. McSwinn—No, indeed. It's not us that would be waked up by a little thing like that. Before John got the pipe contract I used to be a kitchen laddy, and John was a policeman in Philadelphia.—New York Weekly.

No Soap There.
It was a modern version of that ancient saw that shoemakers' children go barefoot. A ten-year-old boy had presented himself at the settlement playground coated with many layers of city soil. The teacher lost no time in administering a reproof.
"Gee, how can I help it," sniffled the boy, "when me mother's a washwoman and takes all the soap away wid 'er?"

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is the best of all medicines for the cure of disease, disorders and weaknesses peculiar to women. It is the only preparation of its kind devised by a regularly graduated physician—an experienced and skilled specialist in the diseases of women.

It is a safe medicine in any condition of the system. THE ONE REMEDY which contains no alcohol and no injurious habit-forming drugs and which creates no craving for such stimulants.

THE ONE REMEDY so good that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient on each outside bottle-wrapper and attest to the truthfulness of the same under oath.

It is sold by medicine dealers everywhere, and any dealer who hasn't it can get it. Don't take a substitute of unknown composition for this medicine of known composition. No counterfeits as good as the genuine and the druggist who says something else is "just as good as Dr. Pierce's" is either mistaken or is trying to deceive you for his own selfish benefit. Such a man is not to be trusted. He is trifling with your most priceless possession—your health—may be your life itself. See that you get what you ask for.
