It is being freely predicted, by those who are watching the trend of affairs, that eggs will sell for a dollar a dozen, inside of three years. They reached 85 cents in New York this winter.

HIDES.—Frank B. Sipes pays the highest market price for beef hides at their butcher shop in McConnellsburg, also highest price paid for calf skins sheepskins and tallow.

Mrs. John Burke had a nice little dinner for her grandchildren on New Year's day, namely: Wilmer, Wallace, Willis, Charles, Olive, and Morse. They were much pleased and went home happy with their presents.

In giving the market price of apples, Philadelphia papers nearly always name the varieties in the following order, the first being highest in price, and prices grading down to the last named: Jonathan, Grimes Golden, Baldwin, Greening, Pippin, Twenty-ounce.

Among those who spent last Friday evening at William E. Ott's, were his son Daniel and wife, his son Russell and brother, Daniel T. Ott, Cora and Edith Knable, and Edgar and Ursa Tritle. The Knable sisters are visiting among their Fulton county friends.

W. H. Nesbit informs us that during his term of five years as burgess, he turned $62.75 into the Borough treasury as fines and that the highest record for any predecessor was $7.00, and running as low as $1.50 for the whole term. The Burgess is not permitted to retain any part of these fines as a commission, under penalty of the law.

The metallic filing cases for the new vault in the Courthouse arrived last week and will be put in place very soon. Nearly thirty large shipping cases were required to hold them. They will be a great convenience to the County officials, and will be much safer from fire than wooden shelving. The old vault was much too small to hold the records and papers of the County's increased business.

Reports made to Dr. Joseph Kalbfus of the State Game Commission, indicate that close to one thousand bucks were shot during the fortnight of the deer season in Pennsylvania. The reports in hand cover many districts not ordinarily heard from at this early date, and Dr. Kalbfus says that his original estimate of 800 bucks was too small. He also says that fewer does were shot than last year. Besides the number of bucks, rabbits, squirrels, etc., killed during the hunting season, fifteen hunters lost their lives and fifty were badly injured.

The famous story of "Ten Nights in a Barroom" as illustrated last Saturday evening by Mr. M. F. Black by means of moving pictures, in the Court House was well attended, considering the inclemency of the weather that evening. The only unfortunate occurrence was the mixing of the reels. As the intention of the entertainment was to illustrate the antics of an intoxicated person, these "reels" of the reel were no more than the real reels of the subjects; anyhow, it was not the fault of the management that the reels were not numbered properly, and that the sorrowful story of the drunkard's family was not brought home more forcibly to the audience.

FORGING AHEAD.

Fulton County Bank Pays Second Dividend and Adds a Handsome Sum To Its Surplus.

At the close of the second year's business, January 5, 1914, a cash dividend of $3,000.00 was declared by the officers of the Fulton County Bank, and it is now being paid to the Stockholders. This is 6 per cent, on the Capital Stock. In addition to this, the sum of $5,000.00 was set over to the Surplus fund. This is a splendid showing for the second year, most gratifying to the friends of this institution, and a proof of a careful, conservative management.

Buildings Crushed by Snow.

The recent heavy fall of snow played havoc with many buildings in the northern part of the county. The bank barn belonging to Wm. Naugle, in Tod township, was crushed. A large, frame stable owned by Bert Kerlin, Knobsville, met same fate. An unoccupied dwelling belonging to John A. Long, and the large bank barn belonging to Scott Hershey, both in Dublin township, were completely demolished. The wagonshed on the King Mellott farm, above Harrisonville, was also crushed. The snow on Sideling Hill was fully two feet deep, and mail was delayed for one day.

Pruning Dormant Trees.

State Zoologist, H. A. Surface, receives many requests for information concerning pruning, and gives the following advice:

Trees can be pruned at any time of year, but severe pruning should be done when the trees are dormant. A rule that can be taken as fundamental is to prune when the trees are in leaf to check further growth, and prune when they are leafless to promote more growth.

In pruning, all dead and decaying limbs should be cut away, and those limbs which are interfering or overlapping and intertwining should be cut out. Those which are diseased with canker knots, black knot and similar pests should be cut out and promptly burned; while those which have died by blight should especially be gathered and burned. It is not necessary to gather and burn branches which are infested with San Jose scale or other scale insects, as these pests will die soon after the limbs are cut off, and will not spread to the trees from fallen limbs.

The operator should not hesitate to cut out the tops of tall trees and bring them down. The pruning should be directed toward opening the centre of the tree top. Trees should be pruned now to make them low-headed and spreading. Central upright stems that seem to rise like the trunk of a pine tree should be cut out of fruit trees, to get them as low as possible.

When it comes to a choice between low branches and higher branches, the lower ones should be saved. The short twigs or fruit spurs on the branches, and many of the water sprouts should be saved to bear fruit instead of cleaning them all off, and thus ridding the tree of much of its fruit-bearing area.

Persons interested in pruning should attend the demonstrations being given in all of the counties of Pennsylvania by the demonstrators of the Division of Zoology, of the Department of Agriculture. There the work is done correctly. The demonstrators show how to prune limbs without splitting them, and how to paint stubs to prevent decay which would result in holes in the trees.

Why the Difference?

Mexico is as old, in point of settlement, as the United States. In the United States we find very few who cannot read and write, or who are so ignorant that they are a menace to constitutional government. Of Mexico it is said that but one in ten of the population can read, or is sufficiently civilized to be trusted with the protection of other men's lives and property. Why this difference on American soil. Both nations have virtually the same form of government. Both nations, had they chosen, were open at their birth, to equally good advantages. The intellects of the founders were, no doubt, of equal calibre. What, then, made one of them the most intelligent nation on earth, and the other, with few exceptions, the lowest? We cannot lay the blame on the climate, for Mexico, to any great extent, is not, a torrid land. The high altitude of most of it gives it a fine climate. The two nations differ only in religion. This country was founded on the principle that every man should be permitted to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience, and he chose Protestantism. Although priest-ridden peoples did most of the early exploring and missionary work among the Indian natives, their power to hold the country was soon wrested from them by the superiority of the Protestant faith. On the other hand Mexico chose to remain under the sway of a religion that cannot succeed except by keeping the masses in ignorance and bondage to the priests.

To the Protestant Churches of the United States, and their offspring, the free school system, is due all the credit for making the difference between the civilization of the United States and Mexico. All power to the hands that are upholding that religion, and may its remaining foe, the rum traffic, speedily receive its death blow.

Mrs. E. R. McClain entertained a few friends at a social, Monday evening.

FACTS AND FICTION.

Experiences of McConnellsburg Citizens Are Easily Proven to be Facts.

The most superficial investigation will prove that the following statement from a resident of McConnellsburg is true. Read it and compare evidence from McConnellsburg people with testimony of strangers living so far away you cannot investigate the facts of the case. Many more citizens of McConnellsburg endorse Doan's Kidney Pills.

Riley Peck, shoemaker, Pleasant St., McConnellsburg, Pa., says: "Some years ago I was troubled with my kidneys and soreness in my back. I was dizzy at times and it affected my eyes. I had to get up often at night on account of the kidney secretions. I was tired out when I got up, and I didn't feel like doing any work. I had a doctor at the time, but he only gave me a little relief. A friend insisted upon me taking Doan's Kidney Pills, as he was cured by them. I got two boxes at Trout's Drug Store, and found great relief at once. I have never had any severe symptoms of kidney trouble since."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Peck had. Foster Milburn Co., Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y.

Thanks.

With the New Year comes the recollection that during the past year, many have passed to the Great Beyond—some of whom were our intimate associates; but through the mercies of a loving Heavenly Father we are spared to enter upon another year. To that unknown friend, who never fails to send me a dollar on Christmas Day, I extend grateful thanks. To the good old friend at Pleasant Grove, who personally handed me a dollar with which to "buy candy" I am thankful, but hope he does not wish me to buy and eat a whole dollar's worth. To all the many kind friends who so liberally remembered me during the recent holidays, I return sincere thanks.

"Where Nature Slips a Cog."

"Why should one man be a grotesque dwarf and another an Apollo, one a midget and another a giant, one an idiot and another a Darwin; in short, why should different men, sometimes brothers, raised in the same environments from birth, be opposites, in a physical, mental, and even moral sense? It is because of a half a dozen insignificant appearing little glands, from the thickness and length of a thumb to the size of the head of a pin." This is the way Dr. Bowers begins his next medical article, "Where Nature Slips a Cog," in "The Philadelphia Press" of Sunday, January 11.

Local Institute.

The fifth local institute of Union township was held at Center last Friday evening, January 2nd. The following questions were discussed: 1. School Hygiene; 2. Geography, How taught? Teachers present from Union were: Jessie Hoopengardner, Mary McKibbin, Gilbert B. Mellott, and O. H. Lashley; Ada Lehman of Bedford county, and Jessie Geinger, of Hopewell, N. J. An excellent programme was rendered in such a manner that speaks well for both teacher and pupils. Next institute to be held at Fairview.—O. H. Lashley, Acting Secretary.

Warning.

The department of Agriculture at Washington sends warning to all who have occasion to buy or handle sacks that contained potatoes shipped to this country from foreign countries.

Careful investigation has proven that several potato diseases, new to this country, may be carried by bags or sacks that have come in contact with foreign potatoes. If, for any reason, these sacks must be bought or used, you are cautioned to insist that the dealer guarantee that the sacks have been sterilized. This can be done by boiling them for several hours. There seems to be considerable trade in these foreign sacks.
