FOUR NEW ANTI-TRUST BILLS OUT

Measures Based on Wilson Policies Define Sherman Act and Allied Laws.

FULL PUBLICITY IS SOUGHT

Trade Commission Instead of Corporation Bureau Would Report Violations of the Statutes—Rigid Inquiries Are Ordered.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Embodying the program laid down by the president in his recent message, the administration's trust bills were presented to congress.

The bills have received the approval of Mr. Wilson and the Democratic leaders of both houses of congress. With little modification they will be enacted into law. Their purposes are:

- 1. Definition of unlawful monopoly or restraints of trade.
2. Prohibition of unfair trade practice.
3. Creation of an interstate trade commission.
4. Regulation of corporation directors and prohibition of interlocking directorates.

Unlawful Monopoly Defined. Unlawful monopoly is defined as any combination or agreement between corporations, firms, or persons designed for the following purposes:

- 1. To create or carry out restrictions in trade or to acquire a monopoly in any interstate trade, business, or commerce.
2. To limit or reduce the production or increase the price of merchandise or of any commodity.
3. To prevent competition in manufacturing, making, transporting, selling, or purchasing of merchandise, produce, or any commodity.
4. To make any agreement, enter into any arrangement, or arrive at any understanding by which they, directly or indirectly, undertake to prevent a free and unrestricted competition among themselves or among any purchasers or consumers in the sale, production, or transportation of any product, article, or commodity.

The penalty for violation of the law is fixed at not more than $5,000 or imprisonment for one year or both.

Guilt is made personal through a section that whenever a corporation shall be guilty of the violation of the law the offense shall be deemed to have been committed by the individual directors, officers, and agents of such corporation, as authorizing, ordering, or doing the prohibited acts, and they shall be punished as prescribed above.

A paragraph prohibiting holding companies is to be added to this measure.

Covers Unfair Trade Practices. The bill forbidding unfair trade practices declares that to discriminate in price, between different purchasers of commodities, with the purpose or intent to injure or destroy a competitor, either of the purchaser or of the seller, shall be deemed an attempt to monopolize interstate commerce.

It is specifically declared that the law is not intended to prevent discrimination in price between purchasers of commodities "on account of difference in the grade, quality, or quantity of the commodity sold, or that makes only due allowance for difference in the cost of transportation."

Further, it is prescribed that nothing contained in the act shall prevent persons from selecting their own customers, "but this provision shall not authorize the owner or operator of any mine engaged in selling its product in interstate or foreign commerce to refuse arbitrarily to sell the same to a responsible person, firm, or corporation, who applies to purchase."

An attempt at monopoly also is declared to exist for any person to make a sale of goods, wares, or merchandise at a price charged therefor, or discount from or rebate upon such price, on the condition or understanding that the purchaser thereof shall not deal in the goods, wares, or merchandise of a competitor or competitors of the seller.

Deals With Damage Suits. A judgment against any defendant in a suit brought under the anti-trust law the bill provides shall constitute as against such defendant, conclusive evidence of the same facts and be conclusive as to the same issues of law in favor of any other party in any other proceeding brought under and involving the provisions of the law.

For the benefit of parties injured in their business or property, by any person or corporation found guilty of violating the law the statute of limitations applicable to such cases shall be suspended.

Injunctive relief is accorded against

To Induce Sleep. To many people the drinking of half a pint or more of clear cold water on retiring brings about a cure for sleeplessness. It clears the blood, washes irritating food out of the stomach, and promotes a feeling of quietude which helps sleep.

Getting It Straight. She—"I believe you married me simply because I had money." He—"Quite the opposite, madam. I married you because I hadn't any."

Delicacy for the Buzzards. After making a large quantity of soft soap and forming it into cakes, Mrs. Lillie Adams of Laurel, Del., left it in the yard to cool. Going out later she found that it had been devoured by a flock of buzzards, some of which were still fighting over the crumbs.

Marriage Between First Cousins. In every 1,000 marriages solemnized in Great Britain 21 are between first cousins. Among the nobility the rate is much higher, amounting to 45 in 1,000.

Grip of the Demon. More derelicts roam the Bowery than any other place in New York, writes a correspondent.

WARNING BY WOOD

CHIEF OF STAFF TELLS CONGRESSMEN ABOUT SHORTAGE OF AMMUNITION.

ENOUGH FOR BUT ONE BATTLE

Supply for Field Artillery Especially Is Short—Lawmakers Spend Money for Guns but Not for Powder and Bullets.

By GEORGE CLINTON. Washington.—Gen. Leonard Wood soon will retire from his position as chief of staff of the United States army. The other day the general in what may be called perhaps a farewell message of warning, told the house committee on military affairs that it ought to appropriate $3,000,000 for field guns and ammunition for the regular army. Here in brief is the tenor of General Wood's warning note:

"If we sent out troops into war as they are now, without guns or ammunition, it would be absolute slaughter. If called into the field suddenly we should have to go with a very small allowance of ammunition even for the guns in the hands of our field artillery forces."

There is something to this testimony of General Wood to make it extremely interesting not only from the military point of view, but from what may be called a legislative point of view. It points up, for the facts are here the general has given them, the peculiarity on occasion of congressional action. There are of course many men in the United States, and they are constantly making their influence felt, who, hoping for peace between all the nations of the world, think that disarmament is the way to bring about concord among the peoples.

Guns But No Ammunition. As long as congress continues to vote money for the support of the army and navy it naturally would seem that the money should be well applied and well expended. Here is where one of the peculiarities of congressional thought and action shows itself. Every year the lawmakers appropriate a good deal more than $100,000,000 each for the army and the navy.

Take the army case of which General Wood speaks. Men here, and they are not all military men either, are asking what possible use it is for congress to vote large sums of money for field guns, which the uninitiated should know are the light artillery pieces of the service, and also appropriate money for the pay of six regiments of field artillery, and yet withhold money for the purchase of the ammunition which would make the batteries serviceable.

In other words, the curious thing, from a legislative as well as from a military point of view, is why the lawmakers should ask the tax payers to expend large sums of money for guns, for which there is no possible use, for it does not take a brain of the size of that of Daniel Webster to make a man appreciate that a gun without powder and projectiles to fill it is a pretty useless sort of a weapon.

Enough for Only One Battle. It is known to be a fact, for the records show it, that if we were to have a war today with any country worthy the name of a power, our field artillery could not engage in more than one battle with its present supply of powder and shot. It takes a long while to manufacture field artillery ammunition and to get it to the front.

General Wood has said also that there is a very small allowance of ammunition "even for the guns in the hands of the troops." These guns, of course, are the rifles of the infantry and the carbines of the cavalry, and also the small arms of the coast artillery, for the heavy gun men must serve on occasion as infantrymen.

It is understood that the condition so far as our infantry forces are concerned, is absolutely nothing like so bad as that with which the field artillery is confronted. The foot soldier with his modern Springfield probably would have cartridges enough to give a good account of himself in many a battle, but the cannoner of the field forces after a few rounds would be obliged to stand at his caisson or at the mouth of the piece as a mark for the enemy's riflemen without any chance to return shot for shot.

About Canal Zone Rule. It is believed that President Wilson is about to give expression to his views as to the best means to govern the Panama canal zone after the isthmian canal commission passes out of existence. Secretary of War Garrison already has communicated to the president his ideas as to what ought to constitute a proper system of government for the canal strip. It worth of the old third rail," he said. "Congratulate me, boys. I have four dollars and a six weeks' thirst."
