BULL FIGHTS REVIVED IN PANAMA

Bull fighting has been revived in Panama after a lapse of several years, and 5,000 persons thronged the great amphitheater at Vista Alegre the other day and rose en masse to greet the returned toreros. In the upper galleries were many American men and women.

BIGGEST OF BRITISH-BUILT STEAMSHIPS

The White Star line's new 50,000 ton triple screw steamer Britannic was launched a few days ago at Belfast. It is the largest steamer ever built in a British yard, being 900 feet long and having accommodations for 2,500 passengers and a crew of 950. In the construction safety has had the first consideration, and in point of comfort and luxury the Britannic will offer all the most exacting could demand.

PRESIDENT OF BRAZIL AND BRIDE

Specially posed photographs of Marshal Hermes da Fonseca, president of Brazil, whose rule is threatened by revolutionists, and his beautiful bride, the former Senorita Nair de Tefte, who is but twenty-seven years old, while her husband is sixty-three. Brazilian society was somewhat shocked by the marriage, as the president had been widowed only a few months.

LIEUT. J. C. PORTE

Lieut. J. C. Porte of the British navy, who is now in this country, has been selected as one of the two pilots for the attempted crossing of the Atlantic in the Rodman Wanamaker hydro-aeroplane. He has gained fame as an aviator.

MISS CHARLOTTE HERMAN

Miss Herman is the beautiful girl from Rutherford, N. J., who was arrested in Sweden with "Affinity" Earl, the eccentric American painter, both of them being charged with kidnaping Earl's son from a French school.

TITLED COUPLE TOURING IN AMERICA

The earl and countess of Dunmore are making a month's tour of the United States, including the West. They posed for this photograph on their arrival in New York. The earl has had a distinguished military career, winning the Victoria Cross in the Afghanistan campaign of 1897.

NEW GUNBOAT SACRAMENTO LAUNCHED

The United States gunboat Sacramento, which was launched recently at the Cramp shipyard in Philadelphia. It will be one of the largest and best-equipped vessels of its type in the navy. The complement of officers and crew is 150.

WITTY SAYINGS OF CHILDREN

Little Daughter of Clergyman Causes Her Aunt Embarrassment by Outburst in Church.

One of the most embarrassing situations in which I was ever placed was caused by a niece of mine, whose father was a clergyman, and whom I took to church for the first time. She did not in the least know what her father did, and for a long time did not observe him. But, after sitting quietly beside me for some time, hardly daring to raise her eyes, because I told her she must be quiet or she would not go to church again, she suddenly, in the middle of the sermon, looked up and saw him and screamed: "Auntie, look! There's daddy up there! And whatever is he yelling about?"

surroundings on them, said: "You know, Jack and Fred, it is only the body that lies here. Now, what part of him goes to heaven?" "His head, I suppose."

There are probably many mothers who have had cause to smile at the quaint additions which their children at times have made to their prayers. A little girl friend of mine was once taken to a ventriloquist entertainment, which impressed her very much. While saying her prayers that night she asked God to look after all her brothers and sisters and make her a good girl. Then there was a pause, and one heard, sotto voce: "All right."

—London Strand.

Lack of Sympathy.
"Of course you said that you would leave public office poorer than when you entered it."
"Yes. And the opinion seemed to prevail that a man as thrifless as all that didn't deserve office in the first place."

MME. PAQUIN

Every woman knows who Mme. Paquin is, but the face of the famous Parisian costume designer, here presented, is not so familiar as her name. She is about to hold her annual exhibition of spring models in America and says she will show this country some really good styles.

SIR SYDNEY BUXTON

Sir Sydney Charles Buxton has been selected to succeed Lord Gladstone as governor-general of South Africa, and is likely to be raised to the peerage before taking his new position. He has been a member of parliament for many years and has held the places of postmaster general, president of the board of trade and under secretary for the colonies.

UNCLE SAM GETS WONDERFUL BUTTERFLIES

William Schaus of New York has presented to the National museum at Washington one of the finest and most complete collections of butterflies and moths in the world, to the making of which he has devoted many years. In the illustration, Mrs. J. C. Crawford, wife of the assistant curator, is seen arranging some of the 200,000 specimens, and behind her is one of the butterflies which measures 11 inches from tip to tip of his wings.

ORIGIN OF NURSERY RHYMES

Jack Horner Stole a Title Deed—"Little Bo-Peep" Was a Holy Friar and Not a Maiden.

"Jack and Jill" is supposed to refer to the complete amalgamation between Saxons and Normans, while "Humpty Dumpty" is said to have been a bold, bad baron in the time of King John.

The "Babes in the Wood" had their origin in an actual crime committed in the fifteenth century, and the story may be seen carved on a mantelpiece of an ancient house in Norfolk.

"Little Bo-Peep" was not a maiden, but a holy friar who in Anglo-Saxon days went round collecting for the monasteries. The "sheep" referred to the congregation, and their "talis" to the contributions they would bring in with them.

"The House That Jack Built" was an adaptation of a Chaldee hymn, symbolizing events in the history of the Hebrew nation; while, according to the London Observer, a romantic history attaches to "Little Jack Horner," who was steward to the abbot of Glastonbury.

The latter wished to appease King Henry VIII, who was indignant because the monks had built a kitchen which he could not burn down. The abbot accordingly dispatched Jack Horner with a specially tempting looking pie, which was filled inside with the title deeds of twelve monasteries as a present to the king.

Jack Horner slyly abstracted one deed, which was that referring to the manor of Wells, and on his return to Glastonbury he informed the abbot that the deed had been given to him by the king. The rhyme was founded on this incident, the "plum" which he abstracted being the title deed of Wells.

Usual Result.
Johnson—I read in the papers that an undertaker in Texarkana has closed his establishment for lack of business.
Wilson—Guess he didn't advertise.

CANNOT DODGE AN INCOME TAX

No Haven for the Unhappy Possessor of Millions.

NOTHING GAINED BY FLIGHT

Views of Various Members of Congress Who Have Been Instrumental in Having the Law Put On the Books.

Washington, D. C.—Framers of the American Income Tax Law are not worried by the capitalist fugitives who are expatriating themselves to escape the tax.

Leaders said: Representative Underwood: If it be true that American millionaires are seeking asylum in England to escape the American income tax, they will be hurt more than they now know. I think there must be another reason why they should seek the sovereignty of Great Britain, and it might be in their love for a monarchy over their love for a republic.

Representative Hull, Tennessee (framer of the Income Tax Law): The American tax on small incomes is less than England's tax. It is less, in fact, than the income tax levy by any European country, and the American who vents his resentment on this country because of its new income tax law will have to flee to some uncivilized country to escape payment of this tax. I have no sympathy with any one who has made his money in this country and who seeks to evade payment of just taxation.

Representative Rainey, Illinois: We can better afford to lose than to hold those of our rich who are fleeing to foreign countries to escape taxation. We have their property and their agents will pay this country's levies. It is a good riddance.

Representative Sabath, Illinois: No American who has lived and knows conditions in foreign countries where income taxes are levied will flee the income tax of the United States. If he does the protection of this country should be withdrawn, because we do not want him.

Representative Palmer, Pennsylvania: The income tax has come to stay in this country. Our millionaires will learn to conform to its requirements. Those Americans who are living abroad will find they will have to pay an income tax and they will learn its burden is heavier than the tax imposed by this country.

THE BENTON INQUIRY HALTS.

Washington Understands Anglo-American Probe Is Ended.

Washington, D. C.—Secretary Bryan said that the Anglo-American commission appointed to examine the body of William S. Benton, the British subject, still was in "status quo." In official circles it was understood the commission will make no further effort to accomplish the task for which it was appointed. Secretary Bryan also said that nothing had been received concerning the investigations being made in the Benton and Bauch cases by the Mexican Constitutional commission. The Secretary expects to receive the commission's findings in the Bauch case. General Carranza already had declared that any information in the Benton case must be delivered to the British authorities.
