The Bible— What It Is

By REV WILLIAM EVANS, D.D. Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

600000000000000000000000

The Bible is not only the book of God it is also the book from God. At least this is the way in which it gives its own account of its origin: "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God"-that is to say, is "God breathed" (II Timothy 3:16). Again, in II Peter 1:20, 21, we read: Knowing this first, that no prophecy of the Scripture is of any private interpretation [or origin, for it seems clear that it is to the source rather than to the exposition of the Scripture that reference is here made.] For the prophecy came not in old time by the will of man, but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost.' Here are some very clear and definite statements concerning the source of the Scripture. It is this "God-breathed" element that differentiates this book from all other writings. The Rible is quite often referred to nowadays as splendid "literature." Well, the Bible is that, but it is more than that-it is Scripture. Literature is the letter; Scripture is the letter inbreathed by the holy spirit. Just as in the creation of man we learn that man became a living soul when that frame of dust, as it lay on the ground, became inbreathed by the spirit of life from God. Man is dust inbreathed by deity, and if you take away the spirit of life from man he returns to dust. So is it with the Bible; it is the letter, but it is the letter inbreathed by God's spirit that makes that letter Scripture. And when you rob the Bible of its inspiration you bave nothing but mere literature left -you have no Scripture.

The Bible the Authority in Matters of Faith and Practice.

Where is the seat of authority in matters of religion? This is always the problem of the day. Various replies are given to the question.

Reason, says one, is the seat of final authority. May not the intellect with its various functions be relied upon to render sure judgments? One has only to recall the grotesque fancies that have from time to time taken hold of the finest and brainlest men and led them into the grossest delusions to satisfy himself that the seat of authority does not lie in the reason. Not that we are to throw reason away in matters of religion; for while faith is offtimes above reason, Sydney. The majority of the crew of it is by no means contrary to it. The voice of reason, however, is not to be considered final and authoritative.

Can we not depend upon conscience. that organ as delicate and sensitive as the balance turned by a speck of dust, to admonish us of evil, to praise us for the good, and settle for us "Even efficiency can be carried too in the East end of London earning their the right and wrong of matters rer. > There are people who claim that the church is the ultimate authority in matters of faith and practice. This is the position of the Roman church-Cailed of God, divinely founded, with perpetual witnesses to the truth, with bishops and councils-surely the church is a sufficient guide. Yet what enormities have flourished under the banner of the church! So long as she is composed of fallible human beings the church can never be final and authoritative in matters of faith and practice.

> On every hand we hear the cry, "Back to Christ," he and he alone. is the final and ultimate authority in all these matters. We certainly have no desire to take any glory away from the church's Lord and Master In order to give it to so sacred a book even as the Bible. We are willing to go "back to Christ." But where shall we find him? With the excention of a reference in Josephus and a line or two in Tacitus where, outside of the Bible, shall we find Christ? So we see that in order to "get back to Christ" we are in duty bound to fall back upon the Scriptures.

For our master himself the Scriptures were considered sufficient authority in matters of faith and practice. It would repay anyone to look up all the passages in which these words of the master occur, "Is it not written?" "Have ye not read?" "What saith the Scriptures?" "It is written." A careful study of such Scripture references will reveal the fact that Christ referred to the Scriptures as the authority which settled matters of faith and practice for him. Should the Bible be less to the church than it was to the church's master? cream, soft boiled eggs, toast, a cup of We think not.

More than half a century of existence has taught me that most of the wrong and folly which darken earth is due to those who cannot possess their souls in quiet; that most of the good which saves mankind from destruction comes of life that is led in thoughtful stillness. LESSON FOR MARCH 29

JESUS THE GREAT TEACHER.

(Review.) READING LESSON-Matt. 7:21-29. GOLDEN TEXT-"He hath showed hee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God."-Micah 6:8.

There is no chronological order to the lessons for the past quarter, though they have all been selected from the period of the Perean ministry of our Lord. The thought of the Golden Text, rather than the reading lesson, will serve to give us a connected review

The lessons have chiefly concerned Jesus as the great Teacher, thus we notice the inclusive note of the first clause of the Golden Text, "He hath showed thee, O man, what is good." As an exposition of that note we have presented God's plan of action, outward, "to do justly, aid to love mercy." and inwardly "to walk humbly with thy God." With this thought in mind let us divide lessons of the quarters into two sections: (1) The first seven lessons which have to do with man's relation to the kingdom in its outward manifestation, and (2) the remaining humbly with thy God."

As Children-

I. The first section. In order to keep this two-fold thought before us. we must observe carefully the several golden texts. In the first lesson we have set before us the manner whereby we are to enter into this new kingdom. We must enter as children and the Golden Text, "Likewise, ye younger, be subject unto the for God resisteth the proud, but giveth grace to the humple," illustrates the humility of children and the necessity of our right relationship to them. The second lesson deals with the possibility of cooperation with him in service, as when the 70 went before his face. Great privileges, however, when abused, bring condemnation and degradation. "It is not you that speak, speaketh in you." The third lesson-'The Good Samaritan"-is another expression of the outward walk of life, can, serve. It always manifests it- pened." self in sacrifice and in service-"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." The story of service actually rendered to our Lord in the days of his flesh is the subject of the fourth lesson. All other interests and ties must the denouncements of the traffic by he secondary to our allegiance and temperance speakers and writers. did it unto one of these, my brethren, So do all who are seriously considereven these least, ye did it unto me." The fifth lesson concerns prayer. The | ward a solution of this national probparable of the unfriendly neighbor and lem. We want the truth concerning relations is revealed in the Golden verted from its natural and legitimate Text which is the heart of that les- use- and its life-giving elements conson. "Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it ing poisons-to the hour when, sparkshall be opened unto you." The sixth lesson still continues to treat this outward aspect and reveals to us the fact that great as Satan is, our Lord Jesus has far greater power.

Must Walk Humbly.

II. The second section. We now come to a group of lessons that seem to emphasize the second part of God's requirements, as expressed in the Golden Text for today, viz., "and to walk humbly with thy God." This is the inward, personal, relation with God, as against our outward, righteous relations with men. These remaining lessons deal with the abiding principles of discipleship which, Jesus gave to his followers. The eighth lesson reveals the principle of a true confession of Christ to be that of the faith which makes fear impossible. We are to fear God alone. In the ninth lesson we see that the true fulfillment of life is that of having the heart set upon the true treasure, which is apiritual, rather than upon the false treasure which is material. for, "Where your treasure is, there will be your heart also." In lesson ten we have set before us the principle of faithful service which is that of watchfulness for the returning King, and which expresses itself in perpetual service in his interest and on behalf of his household. "Blessed are those servants whom the Lord. when he cometh, shall find watching." The principle of the religion of Christ is that of compassion (lesson 11), and the true sanction of the Sabbath is fulfilled in such service as makes the Sabbath possible to those who are in need. It is, therefore, lawful to do good on the Sabbath.

Lesson 12 deals with the vital issue of this second section, viz., that it is of far more importance that we be in the kingdom than any other issue. We must put forth strenuous efforts that we may enter the narrow door. The kingdom of God is doing the will of God, rather than calling him Lord! Lord! "Not everyone that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven."

Thus as we hastily look over these tessons from these two viewpoints, we are led to conclude with the first declaration of the Golden Text for

All Work for Man's Advancement. The long quest for the source of the Nile, for the northwest passage, for the north and south poles; yes, and the ancient search for the "elixir of life," "perpetual motion" and the "secret of life," have for us this grand significance—they all point to the fact that in the mind of man there is a deathless ambition to know and do-to fathom the depths of the unknown, to conquer the unconquered, to add more and still more to the sum of its knowledge and achievement

WHO WAS TO BLAME?

In the little story with the above title Josiah Allen's wife (pen name of Marietta Holley) tells Josiah that: "It wuz the law and its working pardner, the saloon, that caused young Tom Nugent, while crazy with drink, to kill his honored father, Judge Nugent." In an agony of remorse Tom drowned himself in the lake near the home of his happy boyhood. In the following excerpt Samantha and Josiah thus discuss the license

"Could a woman make a more unreasonable, inconsistent law than apple tree this? If you pay a dog tax your dog is protected by law; if your sheep gits killed by wolves or any other destroyer you have a right to kill that destroyer at sight, and the law pays you for your loss. But duz the law that protects your dog and your sheep protect your boy? No! It protects the wolves that destroys the boy, and worse than that it helps the wolves to destroy him, makes it possible and profitable, and worse yet, it goes into pardnership with the wolves, and takes part of the blood money. Can the law that protects sheep and dogs pay the mother for the loss of her boy after it has destroyed him? You told me Tom's father wuz in favor of license."

"Yes," sez Josiah. "He felt that it wuz for the advantage of the city, and a help to bizness, and Deacon Bobbett five that have to do with "walking and I have felt so and voted for it, and most of the smartest of us male lawmakers have."

Agin I grouned and sithed, and Josiah didn't like it, and sez: "You needn't groan over that, Samantha. I tell you you must do the best you can with what you've got to do with. You can't stop liquor from bein' sold and you'd better let it be drinked openly protected by law than to sneak it into the back doors and take it on the sly; folks will have it, you can't stop it, it has always been so."

"The first man born into the world murdered, and there has always been murderers, but that don't make it right to license it. Or make it lawful to sell the stuff that made a good boy like Tom Nugent into a fiend capable of committing such a crime as this, and the thousands and thousands of crimes equally black and monstrous but the Spirit of your Father that that are committed by this cause all over our broad land every day. You admit that it wuz liquor that did it, if Tom hadn't gone into that saloon that of loving mercy. True love never | and drank himself crazy drunk this asks who it may, but rather who it turrible thing wouldn't have hap-

We want the truth concerning the relation of strong drink to social and economic conditions. We want nothing but the truth concerning the liquor question in any of its aspects physical, moral, financial, political. Men, women and children are learning the truth today as never before. The public is being shown the real nature of alcohol-and there can be but one result.

REVENUE VERSUS WELFARE

"Any revenue which is derived by any government from sources which tend to degenerate and degrade any portion of the people is bad. Every source of information, medical, sociological and economical, tends to prove that the consumption of liquor is dangerous and that it depreciates the physical vitality of the consumer, his mental capacity and his economic efficiency. This being true, it follows that our governmental revenue from the liquor traffic should be cut off."-Prof. Franklin Hickborn of the University of California.

The latest reports of the Royal Army Temperance association give a membership of 66,384-40,209 in India and 26,175 at home and in the colonies. HAD NO NEED OF THE BIBLE

Students Very Much in Error When They Thought They Could Embarrass Henry Ward Beecher.

A good story is told about the late Honry Ward Beecher, who was accustomed to find his inspiration wherever he might open the Bible. He was preaching once before the Harvard students. One of the students in a spirit of deviltry removed the Bible from the altar and substituted Webster's dictionary. The word was passed around, and as the noted divine ascended the pulpit the collegians leaned back to enjoy the fun.

Doctor Beecher adjusted his glasses and opened the book.

"My text this morning," he began, 'is taken from the Song of Solomon.' Then, as casually as if nothing had happened, he went on: "I am the rose of Sharon and the lily of the valleys. As the lily among thorns, so is my love among the daughters. As the

An extraordinary situation has been created in Nice by the decision of the local tribunal in a case brought against one of the finest and newest hotels in the town by a hairdresser and wigmaker carrying on business in a street at the side of the hotel. The hairdresser, says the Standard, sued the proprietor of the hotel on the ground that his light had been spoilt by the height of the building that had been nut up so near him, that his wig-making required a strong light, and was in reality a work of art of great value. He merely asked that the hotel should be pulled down. The extraordinary thing is that judgment has been given in the hairdresser's favor, and the hotel proprietor has been ordered to take down a building representing a vast

Those of Middle Age Especially.

When you have found no remedy for the horrors that oppress you during change of life, when through the long hours of the day it seems as though your back would break, when your head aches constantly, you are nervous, depressed and suffer from those dreadful bearing down pains, don't forget that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the safest and surest remedy, and has carried hundreds of women safely through this critical period.

Read what these three women say:

From Mrs. Hornung, Buffalo, N. Y.

Buffalo, N. Y.-"I am writing to let you know how much your medicine has done for me. I failed terribly during the last winter and summer and every one remarked about my appearance. I suffered from a female trouble and always had pains in my back, no appetite and at times was very weak.

I was visiting at a friend's house one day and she thought I needed Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it and have gained eight pounds, have a good appetite and am feeling better every day. Everybody is asking me what I am doing and I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. You may publish this letter if you wish and I hope others who have the same complaint will see it and get health from your medicine as I did."—Mrs. A. Hornung, 91 Stanton St., Buffalo, N. Y.
