Associate Judge and Mrs. W. B. Stigers, and their daughter Miss Marguerite of Warfordsburg, went to Bedford in the Judge's new Reo last Saturday and spent the time until Monday in the home of Mrs. Stigers' brother, Dr. A. C. Daniels. They came over to McConnellsburg Monday afternoon in time to be on hand for court Tuesday. While in town they were guests in the home of Druggist and Mrs. Leslie W. Seylar.

Charles Tedrow, 52 years of age and married, was instantly killed between Rockwood and New Centerville last Friday afternoon when a tree under which he sought protection from a heavy rain was struck by lightning. The tree was a big locust and was split from top to bottom. Mr. Tedrow was dead when picked up by men who were standing under other trees and saw him fall following a blinding flash and a deafening report.

The annual cry from Kansas and Oklahoma for harvest hands has gone up; Kansas calls 40,000, and Oklahoma for half that many. Other western states are calling for hands to gather the wheat. The trouble is, it costs college men and others who would be glad to work during the summer, as much to go there, and return, as they would earn in the few weeks of harvest. Seems to us that this is a question that railroads might solve.

Emory A. Diehl, and W. C. McKee of Whips Cove, in Emory's automobile arrived in town about nine o'clock Monday morning, accompanied by Dr. D. A. Fisher and his son Edward, and John F. Hess, of Needmore. During their stay of a few hours in town, Agent Rush M. Kline sold to Dr. Fisher a Ford runabout, and to Mr. Hess, a Ford touring car, and the party with three automobiles instead of one started for their homes in the afternoon.

Mac, the faithful watchdog in the Thomas Sloan family, followed the team to Mercersburg about two weeks ago, and somewhere on the mountain was bitten by a snake. Mac thinks it beneath his dignity to ride, and would not accept Bony's offer to do so, and by the time he reached home was a very sick doggie, his bitten leg having swollen to several times its natural size. He soon got over it, as he did once before when a poisonous reptile bit him.

Witz Mason arrived home Monday from State College for his summer vacation. Being a true American athletic, neither steam roads, trolleys, nor automobiles, had any attraction for him, as he turned his face homeward; but the covering of the distance of eighty miles afoot, was just the veriest sport. Saturday afternoon he walked from State College to Huntingdon, a distance of thirty-one miles; the second day, he walked to a point four miles south of Orbisonia—thirty-one miles, and home eighteen miles, Monday, feeling as fine as a colt.

The Greathead building, which was purchased last spring by D. E. Little, has undergone extensive repairs. A new metal ceiling of handsome design adorns the old store room, and a Gothic window in the rear dispels all darkness. Cement walks and courts in the rear add great convenience, and fresh paper and paint throughout the twelve-room dwelling part makes all look like new. The old buildings in the rear will be torn away, and the grounds made vacant will be adorned with grass plots and trees. The stream flowing through the premises will be cemented through-shaped to prevent lodgement of rubbish. When finished it will be a fine property.

AFTER PASSING YEARS.

McConnellsburg Testimony Remains Unshaken.

Time is the best test of truth. Here is a McConnellsburg story that has stood the test of time. It is a story with a point which will come straight home to many of us. John P. Conrad, deputy postmaster, Main St., McConnellsburg, Pa., says: "For about a year I had terrible pains across my back and I didn't sleep well at night. I was very nervous, and when I got up in the morning I was more tired than when I went to bed. Finally I read of Doan's Kidney Pills, and as others similarly troubled had been benefited by them, I gave them a trial. They helped me immediately. Before long my back was free from pain."

LASTING RELIEF.

On December 10, 1913, Mr. Conrad said: "I haven't needed any remedy for backache or kidney trouble since Doan's kidney Pills cured me. I know the cure is a permanent one. You can use my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills as long as you wish." Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Conrad had. WEST DUBLIN.

These are the days when the auto driver has his troubles. He starts on a trip that he thinks the auto ought to make, and suddenly finds how automobiling goes when the auto doesn't go.

Some of our people have been busy the past few days hauling phosphate from Richly Bros' siding on Sideling Hill.

Harvey Clevenger with other members of their family motored to Center church on Sunday forenoon in their Ford Touring Car.

Among other things that our editor-farmer E. H. Kirk has to be grateful for, is that he has no gutters on his farm that would be sufficient to hide tin cans and old bottles (medicine bottles, we mean.)

Prof. Harper P. Barton of Husbontown, was in this vicinity last week in the interest of the Pittsburgh Life and Trust Company. Prof. Barton evidently believes in Life Insurance.

Sheriff James J. Harris of McConnellsburg was through this vicinity last week inquiring for wood. As we do not wish to "run for the sheriff," will try to be good. However if he becomes more corpulent, we may keep ahead of him.

A number of our people attended Children's Day Services at Center on Sunday forenoon. There was a well rendered program and the church was filled to overflowing.

END.

The U. B. people held a social at the church last Saturday afternoon. Proceeds for the benefit of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. John Chamberlain, of North Point, are visiting their daughter Mrs. W. R. Foster.

Miss A. morel Cornelius, of Everett is visiting her cousin Mrs. J. M. Schenck.

Mr. and Mrs. Stant Heeter, of Three Springs, and Mrs. Maggie Fields, and children of Ft. Littleton, spent Sunday with their sister Mrs. L. Earley.

J. Dickson Berkstreser, of Saxton, spent the last of the week with relatives.

Miss Maud Foster went to Coal vale to visit relatives returning on Sunday but she now writes her name Mrs. James Shuke.

Mrs. Rebecca Edwards, of Juniata, is spending some time at her old home in the Valley.

Mr. J. Cal Foster, who has been in the Johnstown Hospital for some time, was calling on friends in the valley last week.

R. Reed Edwards left Monday morning to enter the Saxton Summer Normal.

Messrs H. M. Edwards and W. L. Cunningham visited the county capital the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Foster spent Saturday and Sunday with friends in Trough Creek recently.

Miss Dora Stevens who attended the Defiance High School is home for the summer vacation.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

A SEVEN DAYS' FISHERMAN KING.

By A. W. MACY.

In 1647, when the kingdom of Naples was under the grinding rule of Spain, a fisherman of Sorrento was stung to madness by the indignities offered his wife by Spanish officials, because she had attempted to smuggle a few handfuls of flour. So furious was he that he tore down an edict that had just been posted by the authorities. The whole population, including women and children, rallied around him. Forty years of Spanish oppression had made them frantic. They terrified the viceroys, resisted the soldiers successfully, and killed many of the Spanish residents. They secured a revocation of many obnoxious edicts, the abolishment of oppressive taxes, and full pardon for all who engaged in the insurrection. The fisherman, whose name was Masaniello, was the leader in all this, and became the idol of the people. He ruled Naples for seven days, but his success seems to have turned his head. He became dictatorial and oppressive, and was put to death by the populace. Hence he is called the Seven Days' King.

Four Chicago business men clubbed together and bought a Holstein bull calf for $20,000, last week. The calf is a descendant of one of the most productive dairy herds of that breed.

Miss Eleanor Sipes, of Saxton, who has been in North Dakota for the last three years visiting her sisters, Mrs. Nicholls, of Oaks and Mrs. J. B. Spangler of Bismarck, that state, came home recently, and spent last Saturday and Sunday with her cousins, Miss Myrtle Sipes and Miss Sally Hoop, in this place.

Mr. N. H. Peck, of Needmore, spent Sunday night in the home of his nephew, Grover C. Peck, near Knobsville and stayed in town a few hours on Monday on his way home. Jonathan P. Peck and foster-child Emma, of Franklin county, spent the time at Grover's from Sunday evening until Tuesday morning.

A recent letter to Joseph Covalt, Esq., of this place, from his son Cyrus, located in Oakland, near Springfield, Ill., states that the man who passed through this place on April 10th, on stilts, reached that place on May 30th. Mr. Covalt calculated that the stilt-man made an average of twenty miles a day between this place and central Illinois.

Mr. Thomas T. Cromer, Fort Littleton, was in town yesterday. He is canvassing the County taking orders for fruit and ornamental trees, and is meeting with gratifying success. Tommy is all right, the nursery people he represents are all right, and we feel sure that orders given him will be filled to the entire satisfaction of all concerned.

Heard About the "XV." Furniture. In the window of one of the large furniture stores last week was exhibited a magnificent Louis XV. bedroom set. Two women stopped and looked at it admiringly and one of them—she may have been Mrs. Wood B. Highbrow—exclaimed: "Oh, there is some of that 'ex-vee' furniture I've read so much about!"—Kansas City Star.

Popped Corn a Good Food. A government bulletin says that popped corn is superior to many breakfast foods now on the market. Sometimes it is eaten with milk and sugar. In many farm houses popcorn is considered a necessary adjunct to Christmas festivities, and the ears of the little Tom Thumb variety are particularly popular for Christmas tree decorations.

Not Just What She Meant. One of our best-known novelists, the most sentimentally courteous of men, arriving very late at a dinner party, was overcome with confusion—"I am truly sorry to be so shockingly late," the genial hostess, only meaning to assure him that he was not the last, emphatically replied, "O, Mr. , you can't come too late."

Cemetery Advertisement. Advertising a cemetery is something not generally encountered, but this recently has occurred at Sydney, N. S. Wales, Australia. A newspaper advertised a local cemetery as "commanding so beautiful a view of the bay that people who have tried it cannot be persuaded to go elsewhere."

Order is the sanity of the mind, the measure of man, so is order to the microcosm of the house, as the bones to the security of the state. As the health of the body, the peace of the Order is the sanity of the mind, the measure of man, so is order to the microcosm of the house, as the bones to the security of the state.

DEMOCRATS SEEK BROAD REFORMS

Demand End of Penrose Regime in Pennsylvania.

SOUND PROGRESSIVE KEYNOTE

Platform Vigorously Upholds Wilson, Pledges Party to Constructive Program—Great Confidence Shown at Meeting.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 7. "Progress in every plank" was the watchword of the Democratic state candidates and committee that framed the platform announced following the meeting of the state committee here. Promises of sweeping reforms in the state government in order to destroy Penroseism, to eliminate waste, graft, corruption and inefficiency in all departments are supported by a proud reference to the achievements of the Wilson administration in the same field and the fulfillment by the national Democratic party of its every promise to the people in the last campaign.

The statement of principles on national issues follows closely the original platform upon which Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer announced his candidacy for the United States senate. On state issues the broad and progressive platform of Vance C. McCormick, Democratic candidate for governor, is incorporated in the platform, while on other subjects it includes all the progressive demands of the time in Pennsylvania.

The platform follows: National Issues. In a single year the present national administration has written a record of achievement which commands the admiration and support of a vast majority of the people of the country. We commend and approve the whole of that record.

It has passed a tariff law which has stricken out the iniquitous taxes imposed for the exclusive benefit of trusts, relieved the shortage of food stuff, and by the general policy of putting raw materials on the free list enabled American manufacturers to compete in the markets of the world. It has done this without injury to any legitimate industry, without lessening the employment of labor and in a way which will lower the prices of commodities, whose cost to the consumer has inordinately increased under a high protective tariff.

It has written into the fiscal system of the nation an income tax law which equalizes the burdens of taxation by compelling the rich to pay the share which they had abated under the indirect system of tariff taxes upon consumption.

It has eliminated the lobby from the halls of congress and the seat of government as the result of its exposure by President Wilson and has left the congress free to write laws in the public interest without the baneful influence of the highly paid agents of special privilege.

In the passage of a new currency law it has broken the power of a few capitalists who controlled the instruments of credit and exchange; it has banished the spectre of panic; it has assured to every legitimate enterprise access to capital and credit on fair and equal terms.

Existing laws are being enforced to do justice between railroads and shippers and to prevent the continuance of private monopolies; pending legislation, the passage of which is assured, will prevent the further creation of such monopolies, secure fair business methods, give publicity to the operations of dangerously great business combinations and assure to labor the free and untrammelled right to organize and by co-operation demand a fair living wage.

The Mexican policy of the president gives every promise of resulting in the establishment of a stable government in Mexico, founded on principle and justice and adapted to the needs and wishes of the Mexican people, an outcome thoroughly in accord with the highest principles of Christian civilization.

President Wilson has maintained the honor and integrity of the nation by demanding strict compliance with its contracts with foreign powers; by the repeal of the law exempting American coastwise shipping from the payment of tolls through the Panama canal; by the withdrawal of troops from the Philippines; by the denunciation of the house of representatives gave to the president and which will be given also in the senate; by the denunciation of our party's continued opposition to the principle of subsidy to monopolies.

The enactment of the Lever law providing for farm extension work carries directly to the farm all the scientific discoveries made by the department of agriculture and the state agricultural colleges and which will add much to the productivity of American farms and the consequent increased prosperity of those engaged in agriculture; the action of the president in bringing together representatives of capital and labor and the prompt passage by the congress of the industrial employees arbitration act, under which many distressing industrial disturbances have already been composed; the negotiation of treaties with thirty or more countries providing for the enlargement and investigation of international disputes before declarations of war; the deposit of fifty millions of government funds in the banks of the south and west, and the inauguration of partial self-government in the Philippine Islands in pursuance of the often declared Democratic policy of enlargement and development of the great parent part system, which has created new markets for farm and factory products and cheapened the cost of living away from the large centers of population;

That slipper that Mr. Wm. Secrist has been wearing for several days does not mean that he is trying to save his shoe; but last week he was on a wagon holding on to a barrel of spraying solution when the wheel struck an obstruction causing the barrel to tilt, and when it regained its equilibrium, the chime was on Mr. Secrist's foot. Of course, it hurt.

the extension of the pure food law to the inspection of meats; the establishment by the department of agriculture of a system of markets in the interest of producers and distributors; and a further extension to the interest of the home life of the farmer; the passage by the house of representatives of the last law in the history of the country to give government aid in the building of highways; these are some of the accomplishments of the present administration in congress and in the executive departments which give ample evidence of the intent and ability of the Democratic party to do constructive work along both legislative and executive lines in the true interest of popular government.

State Issues. The Democratic party of Pennsylvania demands the absolute destruction of the entire system which is so thoroughly identified with the Republican organization and its acknowledged leader, that it is known throughout the length and breadth of the country as "Penroseism." This system has made Pennsylvania the most conspicuous example of mis-government in all the Union. Any number of particulars and examples might be given. The following should suffice: Taxation. The state collects an unnecessary amount of revenue, by diverting to state purposes sources of revenue that should be left to the cities and counties. If entrusted with power, we shall revise the system of state taxation so that various taxes, properly local in their nature, may be left to the cities and counties, which shall be given a larger measure of home rule with respect to all matters of taxation. The laws should be plainly stated and liberally enforced, and the whole system should be so administered that not only will there be equality, but that every citizen may know that this equality is being maintained. The extravagance and inefficiency of present and past state administrations, and the evasions and discriminations now practiced in collecting, economy and proper management, the expenses of the state government may be so reduced that without abandoning any of its present usefulness, the burdens of taxation may be both equalized and reduced.

Appropriations. The legislature has for many years made appropriations greatly in excess of the estimates received, leaving it to the governor to perform legislative duties by cutting down these appropriations. These appropriations are made by the legislature solely for the purpose of paying the salaries and with the full knowledge that the promises cannot be fulfilled. No system could be more unscientific or more productive of corruption and coercion.

Every appropriation bill is used as an instrument of either bribery or retaliation, and the whole machinery of appropriations is made to serve the purpose of creating an artificial political citizenship of the commonwealth. The poison of political corruption has entered even into the appropriations for charities, and the endeavor is persistently made to use these appropriations as a reward for political service, or to force the worthy citizens who are managers of these charities into submission to any invidious political machine. Legislative appropriations should not exceed the estimated revenues; they should be primarily for the benefit of the people, and where they are used to aid worthy charities, the claims of the charities should be honestly and fairly determined by a non-political board or allowed under a general law prescribing the standard which shall entitle the institutions to state aid.

HIGH SPOTS OF DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

- Endorsement of National Administration. Equal Taxation. Reform of Appropriation System. Increased Funds for the Public Schools. State Pensions for Civil War Veterans. Liberalization of Legislative Rules. Reorganization of State Highway Department. Good Roads, including Plan of Maintenance. Special Attention to Dirt Roads. Local Option. Abolition of Minority Representation. Eight-Hour Day for Children. Municipal Home Rule. Employers' Liability Law. Workmen's Compensation Act. State Civil Service Law. Initiative and Referendum. Woman Suffrage. Conservation of Natural Resources, especially the soil. Constitutional Convention.

We pledge ourselves to an increased appropriation for the public schools of the state. Pensions. We also favor a just system of state pensions to Pennsylvania's soldiers of the Civil War. Legislative Procedure. Under the system of committee appointments in this state, practiced there have always been what are popularly known as "graveyard" committees, to which are referred measures which the Republican machine does not intend shall be passed, but which it is unwilling to take the responsibility of publicly defeating. The advantage of this system is that it keeps children of protection to workmen, of better government for cities, and of all other progressive measures, are sadly familiar with these committees. In the interest of popular government we demand the change of the rules of the legislature, so as to require that all committee members shall be elected by the people, of the house and senate respectively.

Local Option. The wishes of communities in regard to the sale of liquor within their borders have been disregarded. Liquor licenses have been arbitrarily granted or refused, and issues have been created which have tended to impair the confidence of various communities in their leaders. We declare for the passage of a local option law placing the sale of liquor in every county within the control of the people of that county as expressed by their votes at the polls. It is a cardinal principle of the Democratic faith that local self-government and home rule are essential to the preservation of the real liberties of the people.

Nature's Kindness. Nature is very kind to a man. By the time he is shelled socially he is glad of it.—Aitchison Globe.

Some logs, cut at least one hundred years ago, and used in the building recently razed on the corner of Water and Second streets, were found to be in perfect condition, and are being used in the new bank building now being erected. The logs are so sound that they ring when struck by workmen's tools, are free of knots and would cost considerable money if purchased now.

WELLS TANNERY. The many friends of Miss Alice Wishart, who recently returned from India, where she had resided several years as a missionary, will be pleased to learn that the surgical operation to which she submitted in Philadelphia, was a success, and that she is improving rapidly. Three x-ray tests were made, which convinced the surgeons that nothing short of a surgical operation would bring satisfactory results. Alice's mother, who had accompanied her to the city, returned home last Saturday. John Truax, who graduated from the Bliss Electrical College, Washington, D. C., and Frank Guillard, who graduated from the Medico chi College in Philadelphia, are home receiving congratulations from a host of friends. The young men will leave in a few days to enter upon the practice of their respective professions elsewhere.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Foreman, of Philadelphia, spent last week with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Foreman, after which they started for Washington state, where they will locate. Miss Ella Sipes, who has been in Illinois and Dakota for several years is visiting her sister, Mrs. N. S. Edwards and other friends. Rene and Louis Guillard attended commencement at the Medico chi, Philadelphia, last week. Roy Earley visited one of the students who is attending McConnellsburg Normal Saturday and Sunday.

Dickson Berkstreser, of Saxton, is visiting friends in Wells. Mr. and Mrs. John Stafer and son Frank, of Roaring Spring, were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hays Bivans, during part of last week.

My, oh my! You should see the smiles all over Edward Bany's face and ears—all because the stork brought him and his good wife a nice little daughter. Mrs. Lydia Minick, aged 89, of Harrisville, visited Mrs. Watson Cessna, and Mrs. Charles Fluke, last week.

DUBLIN MILLS. Bush meeting at Walnut Grove has some attraction for the people of this place. There will be no children's service at Center which was fine, showing the fine training and patience the people of that community had in preparation.

Bushmeeting starts in the grove at Dublin Mills, June 19 continues over two Sundays.

Lois Huston has returned to Three Springs.

Grace Miller who is at Mount Clemets, for treatment is improving slowly.

Alfalfa, waist high, cut on the Brookside farm, Ayr township, should be encouragement to others to try it. Good alfalfa hay contains almost as much food value as bran. To be exact, when bran is worth $25 per ton, alfalfa hay would be worth $22.50.
