At Chambersburg they had their foot gear overhauled in a repair shop.

Prof. W. F. Hughes, of Philadelphia, is spending this week in town, renewing old acquaintances, and incidentally conducting a field class in botany. The professor is a native of McConnellsburg, and taught his first term of school in Belfast township in 1866-7. It was the Philip Morgret school. While forty-eight years have elapsed since that time, Mr. Hughes has vivid recollections of the parents and pupils of that district that winter, and he had the usual experiences attending a teacher in his "first school."

An enormous storage dam is being built at Roxbury, Franklin county, for power purposes of generating electricity. To make the storage area larger, a channel was cut from the creek to a field which was surrounded by a concrete wall. We print this item for the occasion it offers us to remind ourselves of how Licking Creek is running on to the sea without playing its part in the production of cheap power to light the homes and turn the grindstones in that thickly populated valley.

Sunday at Green Hill.

One of the editors of the NEWS had the pleasure of attending the children's services in the Green Hill churches last Sunday. The Methodists held their meeting in the morning, and the Presbyterians, theirs in the afternoon. Both churches were crowded to the fullest capacity. Three or four families did not go home for dinner, but camped on the church green and had dinner, picnic style. The horses were fed too and finished on bluegrass, after which the campers attended services at the Presbyterian church. Both churches were tastefully decorated with great masses of rhododendron, ferns, and other wild flowers and foliage. It would be out of the question for us to publish the programs, but we must say they were fine, and must have cost the superintendents, teachers, and workers, much time and patience. The little folks did well, and we are sure that the end for which these days are set apart was accomplished, namely, the awakening and retaining of the interest of the rising generation in the great work of the Sunday Schools.

L. W. FUNK

High Grade Plain Pianos, Player Pianos, Organs, Victrolas, Records, and Professional Tuner, McConnellsburg,

Nothing adds more to the refinements of home than good music. To have good music you must have a good instrument. There are good bad and indifferent instruments, and to the unskilled eye they look much alike. The unprincipled dealer is likely to make you pay a first-class price for a fourth-class instrument. I have lived in this county since my birth, I am a taxpayer and in a position to make good any business transactions. Buy your piano, organ, or victrola from me and if it is not all right you can come back at me.

There are families in every part of this county that have purchased instruments from me. Ask them about me.

Perhaps you want to trade your organ for a Piano, or Player Piano; or your Plain Piano, for a Player. See me. Let's talk it over.
