Harrisburg .-- The State capital is facing a battle over Sunday closing of barber shops, cigar stands, soda fountains and other things which the Law Observance Committee of the Civio Council of Churches has said are not necessary to the well being of the people of Harrisburg.

The council recently issued an appeal to the people conducting such places on Sunday to line up with the movement which has resulted in the lid being put down and kept down on the disorderly houses, gambling dens and other places. Yesterday it was found that only a few owners had complied with the request and steps are now being taken to enforce the law.

While the committee was arranging for a conference with council today a committee of barbers and others sought lawyers to find out whether they could not stop the operation of could be found within the purview of the old "blue laws." The events at Norristown have stirred up some of the barbers here and they are talking about making a battle.

The Academy, which is maintained by the State, is located in the midst of forests owned by the Commonwealth, and the students take a three-year course, giving bond to remain that length of time. The course will begin on September 1.

The students get the best of practical instruction and are required to furnish and look after their own horses, the State furnishing stable and feed.

Auto Licenses Now at Half Regular Rate.

The State Highway Department gave notice that, all automobile registration fees, except for motor-cycles and dealers, will be issued at one-half the yearly rate. This is in accordance with the provision of the new automo bile law, which specifies the half rate from July 1 to December 31. The total registrations for the first half of this year, were 154,776, including 87,455 pneumatic-tired vehicles, 5,461 solid-tired vehicles, 12.381 motorcycles, 23,929 drivers, 17,966 operators and 3,300 dealers. The fees aggregated the schools. Miss Minnie Shaeffer $1.067.295.

Car Spotting Charges Postponed.

The Public Service Commission has granted permission to trunk line carriers to postpone until October 29 the tariffs previously issued by them providing for charges for "spotting" service performed by such carriers. The tariffs were originally issued to become effective May 27, but by permission of the commission were postponed until July 1, and are by this later action again postponed until October 29, to which date such issues were postponed by the Interstate Commerce Commission. This has the result of delaying until October 29 any attempt on the part of the carriers to enforce charges for "spotting" of cars on either interstate or intrastate traffic.
