FIGHTING THE NICARAGUAN TREATY

Owing to the financial condition of Nicaragua, the fact that the senate foreign relations committee cannot make quite sure who will get the money, and the charge by Senator William Alden Smith that of the 25,000,000 pesos just issued by the Nicaraguan government nearly all this amount has been paid to favorites of the Diaz government, it is predicted in Washington that the Nicaraguan treaty calling for a payment of $3,000,000 for a canal route, now before the senate for ratification, will be defeated. Emiliano Chamorro, the present Nicaraguan minister at Washington, and members of his family, are charged by Senator Smith with having received great sums from the treasury. He and Rafael Cuadra, the Nicaraguan minister of finance, who is now in Washington, have indignantly denied having received any of this money. WILSON URGES HIGH IDEALS

His Oration Delivered on Historic Ground.

THE U. S. IS FOR HUMANITY

Speaking From the Table On Which the Declaration Of Independence Was Written, He Takes That Instrument As His Theme.

Philadelphia, Pa.—President Wilson arrived here at 10.35 o'clock to attend the big national Independence Day celebration, arranged by Philadelphia to commemorate the one hundred and thirty-eighth anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

The trip from Washington was uneventful. After breakfast Mr. Wilson and his secretary, Mr. Tumulty, and Dr. C. T. Grayson, his naval aid, took a nap.

There were no crowds at any of the stations along the way.

President Wilson was greeted by a shrill chorus of factory whistles from all parts of Philadelphia as he entered the square in front of historic Independence Hall.

In attendance at the great celebration were members of Congress and governors or representatives of the governors of the original 13 States and delegates from nearly every patriotic organization in the country.

The President occupied a chair used by John Hancock, and before him was the table on which the Declaration of Independence was signed. A pitcher once used by George Washington contained his ice water.

On the President's arrival at the Broad Street Station he was welcomed by a delegation of citizens and by the First City Troop of Philadelphia, which acted as his guard of honor during the ride to Independence Square a mile distant.

Wilson At His Best.

Advocating the modernizing of the Declaration of Independence by applying its principles to the business, the politics and the foreign policies of America, the President thrilled a huge crowd assembled in Independence Square within a few feet of where the original declaration was signed.

The President touched on Mexico, the Panama Tolls repeal controversy, his anti-trust program, business conditions and his ideas of modern patriotism. Pounding his fist on the table on which the Declaration of Independence was signed, he declared Americans today must manage their affairs in a way to do honor to the founders of the nation. There are men in Washington today, he declared, whose patriotism is not showy, but who accomplish great patriotic things. "They are staying in hot Washington, doing their duty, keeping a quorum in each house of Congress to do business. "And I am mighty glad to stay there and stick by them," he added.

Touching on business conditions of the country, President Wilson said a great many allegations of facts were being made, but that a great many of these facts do not tally with each other. "Are these men trying to serve their country or something smaller than their country," the President asked. "If they love America and there is anything wrong it is their business to put their hands to the task and set it right."

CHILD BITES DYNAMITE CAP.

He and His Little Sister Probably Fatally Injured.

Dayton, Pa.—An explosion of dynamite here killed William Clever, aged 2, and so seriously injured Fred Clever, aged 6, and his sister Grace, aged 4, that physicians said they could not live. John Wargney lost his right hand. A friend had taken four sticks of dynamite to the Clever home to celebrate the Fourth, and while he was preparing the charge little William picked up one of the caps and bit it. The explosion that followed instantly killed him and set off the dynamite.

Macon, Ga.—Six persons were seriously injured and more than a score of others hurt when a Fourth of July excursion train on the Georgia Southern and Florida railroad collided head-on with a Macon and Birmingham Railroad local passenger train seven miles south of here. Neither of the trains was running more than 20 miles an hour, according to witnesses, and it is believed this prevented the wreck from being more serious.
