Gallant Mayor.

From a small provincial town in the north of Italy comes an amusing little story. Queen Helena was visiting the town, to attend the unveiling of a statue of Victor Emanuel.

After the mayor of the town had made an elaborate speech of welcome, he handed the queen a glass of champagne, and asked to be allowed to drink her health. As their glasses clinked, a drop of champagne fell upon the queen's gown. She opened her pocketbook to take out her handkerchief, but the gallant mayor was not to be caught on any point of etiquette. "You majesty," he exclaimed, grandly, "there is no need of that! Everything is already paid for."-Youth's Companion.

(2) It is marvelous in its nature, expressed not merely or primarily, in giving to man life, and the means to enjoy it, but when man had turned his back upon his Creator and rebelled against him, in freely and undeservingly forgiving him, and this at the sacrifice of "His only begotten son that whosoever believeth on him should not perish but have everlasting life."

(3) It is marvelous in its unchangeableness. Wonderful is it that God should have loved us while we were sinners, and continue to love us even while we continue to be sinners. The new man within us who have believed on Christ does not sin, but the old man is still a sinner. But God loves us notwithstanding all. It seems impossible to wear out his love. "Can a woman forget her sucking cleansed the temple from its pollution child?" he asks, "Yea, she may forget.

but I will not forget thee." (4) It is marvelous in its work. Passing from the thought of what God's loving kindness has accomplished and will yet accomplish in Christ on our behalf, consider what it accomplishes within ourselves through Christ, our sanctification and spiritual up-building. Listen to David, as with the snows of seventy winters on his head he exclaims to God. "They gentleness hath made me great." Or, transfer the thought to Paul, as in the stress of his apostleship he declares, "If we be beside ourselves it is to God, if we be sober it tree and it was withered. The disciis for your sake. For the love of ples marveled at the swift execution Christ constraineth us"-the love of his curse and Peter calls attention which Christ hath manifested toward to it, v. 21, Matt. 21:12, 20. The Need of This Prayer.

(1) We need to see God's loving kindness to remove our ignorance. It is a dreadful thing to be ignorant of the God who made and who redeemed us. (2) We need to see it to awaken gratitude and enable us to love him who first loved us. (3) We need it to strengthen faith and to deliver us from fear. This was the reason David prayed this prayer: "Show thy marvelous loving kindness, O thou that savest by thy right hand all them that put their trust in thee from them that rises up against them." It is such a motive also that moves Paul to say, "He that spared not his son, but freely delivered him up for us all, shall he not with him also freely give us all things? Who shall lay anything to the charge of God's elect? It is God that justifieth! Who is he that condemneth? It is Christ that died!"

In other words, the greater includes the less, and if God hath loved us enough to do this on our behalf, he loves us well enough to do anything we need. Dry your tears; deepen your trust; give room to hope; be of good courage and he shall strengthen thine heart. Ask him to show you his loving kindness.

An Illustration. Some years ago I visited the White Mountain Notch, and facing Mt. Willard-is it called?-I overheard my companions asking one another if they had seen the old witch of the mountain. "The old witch of the mountain" designates the outline of a woman apparently robed in white, which nature's chisel has cut in the face of the bald, bare rock. Some had seen her and some had not. I was among the latter, and my friends did everything they could to assist my vision, adjusting a powerful magnifying glass, etc., but it was all in vain. At length one in a few well-chosen words, described the figure so accurately in its relation to its surroundings, that I saw it in a moment, and was able to join in the laugh at my neighbors who had not yet been so fortunate.

It is much the same in the region of spiritual truth. The loving kindness of God stands out before men in creation, in his word, in the transformed lives of his people, and men have eyes but they do not see. If they but saw, how they would rejoice and praise his name.

LESSON FOR AUGUST 9

THE BARREN FIG TREE AND THE DEFILED TEMPLE.

(Temperance)
LESSON TEXT-Mark 11:12-33.
GOLDEN TEXT-"By their fruits ye shall know them." Matt. 7:20.

Event crowds fast upon the heels of event during the days of this most tragic week in all the history of the world. Temperance means restraint and a constrainingly proper use of God given appetites and privileges, hence the significance of this lesson as emvelous in its ori- phasizing the principles of temperance. I. Sealing, vv. 12-14. The day following his triumphal entry into Jerusalem Jesus and his disciples journeyed from Bethany, his abiding place, each night, into the city. Seeing leaves upon the fig trees, he had a right to look for fruit, for the fruit of that tree comes before the foliage. But none is found, and Jesus seals its in action, Hosea 10:1. Profession had superseded possession, and Israel is therefore to be judged, set aside, until the day when they shall look upon him whom they have plerced.

Cleansed the Temple.

11. Cleansing, vv. 15-19. Entering the familiar scenes of the city and temple, whence the hosannas had schoed so loudly the day previous, Jesus saw its desecration and degradation. Outwardly a delight, it was inwardly deceitful, "a den of robbers," and his anger waxed hot. Everything he saw and banished was in some way connected with the temple worship. Even so the most holy things created by the wisdom of a loving God may become the instruments of the most despicable degradation. Ostensibly in the name of religion these temple merchants were in reality ministering to self and private gain. As at the beginning of his ministry so again Jesus exercised his authority and and for a time (v. 16) guarded it from further desecration.

The temperance application at this point is very clear. Appetite, mental or physical, is a God given faculty, but must be kept within control. Properly used they are a delight, a blessing to the man and his friends. Allowed to rule and appetites are terrific task masters. Purify the fountain of a man's heart, govern his motive and the stream of his acts will bless all, himself included. III. Forgiving, vv. 20-25. The next day on the way from Bethany to Jerusalem they again passed the fig Jesus again emphasizes the lesson, "Have faith in God." This does not mean that this is an explanation of how he withered the tree, but rather why it had died. Israel was placing its trust elsewhere than in God, and therefore withers from the "roots upward." Notice that the root is not blasted, and a beautiful tree will again blessom forth from the living root, So Israel shall once again spring up into a new and fruitful nation, Isa. 27:6. Jesus' teaching by this tree is an Illustration of wherein Israel had failed. They had not faith in God. Faith can remove mountains, and no difficulty can hinder those who have faith in God, Mark 9:23. Faith grows upon the word. Rom. 10:7, yet love is greater, I Cor. 13:2. If we really desire the things we pray for, we "shall have them." We not only expect but go beyond in our petition and count lack of a forgiving spirit will effectually shut us out from God. Authority Challenged. IV. Challenged, vv. 27-33. Upon again entering the city and the temple, there came to Jesus the chief priests, scribes and elders who challenged the authority by which he wrought these things, undoubtedly referring to his triumphal entry and to his cleansing of the temple. His ceply is a counter challenge concerning the baptism of John. For at least two years John had been dead and his voice Ellent with a probable forgetfulness on the part of these men, and a decreasing influence of his message upon their lives. Yet the question of Jesus had projected power as he brought John back to them with this question as to his authority, "was it from heaven, or of men?" there was keen sarcasm and cold logic embodied in his question is revealed by the recorded dilemma of his ene-

as ours the things asked for. The mles, vv. 31, 32. This entire passage deals with the responsibility of privilege. Particularly is this epitomized in the parable of the fig tree. Privilege is emphasized in that the tree was planted in the vineyard of its owner, it lived off of his possessions. Its simple responsibility was to bear fruit. In spite of the patience of the owner and the privilege of its surroundings it perished. The advantage of Godly parents, of Christian society and the heritage of the noble martyrs and saints of the church will not save that the desire for coffee. man or woman who "has a name to live but is dead."
