Do "ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich?"

It was customary for the Roman soldiers, who officiated at an execution, to take the garments of their victim as a fee. But, though a Roman custom, unknown in David's time, it was written by him in the XXII Psalm, "They part my garments among them, and cast lots upon my vesture," and in the words following the text it is explained that what the soldiers did was "that this scripture might be fulfilled." So the spirit of God writes it down

LESSON FOR AUGUST 23

THE WEDDING FEAST.

LESSON TEXT-Matt. 22:1-14. GOLDEN TEXT-"O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, that killeth the prophets, and ston-est them that are sent unto her how often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her own brood under wings, and ye would not." Luke 12:34 R. V.

To catch the full significance of this parable which is alone recorded by Matthew we need to be more or less familiar with the Jewish pride of race and their feeling of superiority over all "heathen" or outsiders, and the history of their treatment of God's repesentatives, the prophets.

Following upon the parable referred to in our last lesson the Pharisees perceived that Jesus spake of them and they sought to arrest him (ch. 21:46), though restrained for fear of the people.

In this lesson the figure of the kingdom is changed from a vineyard to a feast. There is no suggestion of toil or responsibility, and every thought is that of joy and festivity. There is, however, the suggestion of responsibility to the messengers of the king.

Relation to His People.

I. The King's Invitation Rejected, vv. 1.7. The change of figure just referred to suggests not alone an occasion of festal joy (Luke 14:16), but also Christ's relation to his people, which is that of a husband to his wife the being the son referred to, see I Cor. 11:12; Eph. 5:24-32; John 3:29). These Jewish leaders and their nation were first to be invited to the mar riage. This had been done by the prophets of old and later by John the Baptizer. Under this figure of a marriage our Lord speaks of three different invitations. The first one was received with indifference, but indifference never removes responsibility The second invitation was received with hostility. Nothing more fully reveals the foolishness and hardness of the human heart than the way in which men treat the gracious invitations of God's love. Notice they shut out themselves, the king was in no way to be blamed. Jesus' reference to all things being "now ready" points to the period of his rejection and to the hour of the destruction of Jerusalem. The third invitation is that in which those outside the bounds of the He brew national life would be called to the privilege of grace in the kingdom of God, our day of grace.

Wonderful indeed is the forbearance of God. The sin of rejecting the cross, God's offer of grace, is immeasurably greater than that incurred by those Jews who rejected the "Man of Galilee." Verse five suggests who these men were so indifferent, viz., business. It is our business to work most certainly, but "this is the work of God believe on him whom he hath that y

A LIQUOR EXHIBIT. Neither the liquor industry nor its partner, the government, nor the people, who by their votes support and protect the traffic, ever ask for space in which to exploit its products at state or national or international expositions. The saloon has no window display of its workmanship and no inspection of its processes is invited. On the contrary, wherever permitted, it puts up screens in an endeavor to hide its work and the manner of it from the public eye.

Apropos of this point is the followng story told of the noted reformer, John B. Gough:

As Mr. Gough hastened along the street of a great English city he found a drunken man lying on the sidewalk outside a saloon door. Going across the street he obtained a piece of paper and with a colored pencll wrote on it the words, "SPECI-MEN of the work done inside." He then pinned the paper to the drunken man's coat and stood aside to watch the effect produced on-the passeraby. The attention of the saloon keeper was attracted by the crowd, which soon gathered, and when he observed the cause of the interest, he angrily asked: "Who did it?" "Which?" asked Mr. Gough. "If you mean what is on the paper, I did that. If you mean the man, you did that. This morning when he started for his work, he was a sober man; when he went into your saloon, he was a sober man; when he came out he was like that, and he is what you made him. If he is not a specimen of the work done inside, what is he?"

POPE EXPRESSES HIMSELF.

Under the direction of the international Catholic League Against Alcobolism, 200 leading Catholics, representing various total abstinence socleties throughout the world, recently journeyed to Rome to ask the blessing of the pope on their work for temperance. Pope Plus assured them, through Cardinal Merry Del Val, of his approval and sympathy. "How useful it is," he said, "to show the scourge of alcoholism in its economic, moral and physical effects, putting it in correlation with the decay of individuals, whose health, intelligence, conscience and liberty it ruins; with the ruln of familles, in whose bosom it engenders confusion and disorder; with the ruin of society, whose greatest interests it menaces! And among vears. social endeavors there are none more urgent." He especially expressed the desire that "the clergy everywhere take part in this work of education and of social preservation, by teaching and by example, in the very heart of the strife against an evil which sows so much opprobrium among the faithful, especially in certain countries."
