Maxims for German Soldiers. According to Harry Hansen, correspondent of the Chicago News, these ten maxims have been laid down for the German soldiers: No soldier can lead who has not first learned to obey. The character of the discipline in an army augments or weakens its numerical strength. A soldier insufficiently fed may be overcome without recourse to the sword. Courage is worth more than cohorts. The bravery and resourcefulness of an officer inoculates a thousand men. A soldier should wish to teach the enemy, not learn from him. A good soldier defeats rather than reviles the enemy. The soldier's worst enemies are prosumptuousness and pride.

WAR TO COST TEN BILLIONS

French Authority Thinks It Will Last Seven Months and Check Economic Progress.

Paris.—Paul Leroy-Beaulieu, the economist, estimates that each of the greater belligerents is spending an average equivalent to $200,000,000 monthly.

In presenting these figures to the Academy of Moral and Political Sciences he said that he considered it probable that the war would continue seven months from August 1.

Accordingly the five greater powers engaged were committed to an expenditure of $7,000,000,000. Each of the smaller states, including Japan, will have expenses of $600,000,000 to $800,000,000 to meet.

M. Leroy-Beaulieu continued: "One might say that the war will cost the fighting powers roughly $9,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000.

"These figures, which do not take into account the losses of revenue during hostilities, will be met, first, by the issuance of notes against the accumulated gold in the government banks; second, by the issuance of short term treasury bonds to which all governments are having recourse during the war, and third, by delaying payments for military necessities.

"The larger part of the savings of the world will be absorbed by the taking up of national loans and economic progress will be seriously checked."
