Entered at the Postoffice at McConnellsburg Pa., as second-class mail matter.

Mr. John W. Shimer, of McKees Rocks, Pa., who has a nice position with the Lake Erie railroad people, is spending his annual vacation in the home of his mother, Mrs. James Shimer. That is, John is at the home of his mother when he is not out in the woods hunting squirrels.

Mrs. William Tauscher (Daisy Polk) writes us to send her copy of THE FULTON COUNTY NEWS to Cash Depot, S. C., as she and her husband are there to spend the winter. Daisy says there is no use to try to keep house without THE FULTON COUNTY NEWS to keep her in touch with "dear old Fulton."

Taking advantage of the nice weather, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stoner took a drive last Sunday, and kept going until they reached Greenhill, when they returned to town. Mrs. Stoner has been practically confined to her home for a long time as the result of rheumatism, and seldom risks a trip out from home.

Visitors in the home of William Ott and family on the 25th ult. were his son Russell, his son Daniel and wife and little daughter Drucilla—all of Edenville, Pa Howard Swope, of Shippensburg; John W. Ott, wife, daughter Rella, and sons George and Howard; Ursa Tritle; Esther, Joseph and Edgar Thomas, and Luther Crouse.

Since the advent of the automobile affording speedy and safe transportation, many hunters from western Pennsylvania are finding their way into this county. The Greenhill House has been taxed to its limit during the last few days in accommodating hunters of both sexes, who find much pleasure in exploring the beautiful ravines along the eastern slope of Sideling Hill.

Mr. C. A. Henry, who is very successfully engaged in the mercantile business at Robertsdale, spent a few hours in town Monday, while his father John A. Henry was attending a meeting of the directors of the First National Bank. Mr. Henry says the mines at Robertsdale are running at their full capacity and large shipments of the black diamonds are made from that point every day.

The western Pennsylvania party of ladies and gentlemen who were with the local editor on a hunting trip to Taylor township a few days ago, were enthusiastic over the kindness and liberality of Mr. J. F. Johnson, who heaped the auto with luscious fall pears and nearly a bushel of nuts. We feel almost certain that the little French Canadian lassie will be back in that neighborhood next fall for more pears.

After having spent thirteen years in Wisconsin, Mr. and Mrs. Newton Summers and their family with the exception of one daughter who is teaching in the public schools, returned to this county last week, and expect to stay in the East, at least until next spring—perhaps longer, if he strikes a farm that suits him. Newt, however, says the stones on Fulton county farms do not look as good to him as they once did.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Vernon Skipper, of Tyrone, are visiting the latter's sister, Mrs. W. E. Bair at Greenhill, and the former's sister, Mrs. Thomas S. Metzler at Harrisonville. They are accompanied by Mrs. Thomas Vittitow (Ella Mann) of Burlington, Colo. Mr. Skipper just recently returned from a trip to California, Colorado, and other points in the far west. This is Mrs. Vittitow's first visit to her native home since she went away nine years ago.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

A MINNESOTA REGIMENT AT GETTYSBURG.

By A. W. MACY.

At a critical juncture during the battle of Gettysburg, when the Confederates were pressing hard at a certain point, General Hancock rode up to a body of soldiers and inquired "What regiment is this?" "The First Minnesota," was the response. "Charge that line," commanded Hancock. Not all the regiment was there, only eight companies, 262 men; while the foe against whom they were to hurl themselves were many times that number. But it was theirs not to make reply or reason why, and not for one moment did they think Hancock had blundered. Into that gate of death they plunged, while artillery and musketry raked them with shot and shell. Straight to the mark they went, and they accomplished what they were sent to do: they checked the enemy's advance and held the ground till reinforcements came up. But at the end of that awful fifteen minutes fifty of the 262 lay dead, one hundred and seventy-five were wounded, and thirty-seven held the line of battle.

NATURE'S WARNING.

McConnellsburg People Must Recognize and Heed It.

Kidney ills come mysteriously. But nature generally warns you.

Notice the kidney secretions. See if the color is unhealthy—If there are settlements and sediment, Passages frequent, scanty, painful.

It's time to fear serious kidney trouble. It's time to use Doan's Kidney Pills.

Doan's have done great work in McConnellsburg. L. A. Youse, retired butcher, of E. Water St., McConnellsburg, says: "About three years ago my back ached badly and it hurt me to stoop or lift. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Trout's Drug Store, soon gave me relief. I gladly endorse them."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Youse had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

NEEDMORE.

Listen for wedding bells.

Those who attended the love-feast at Greencastle were: Jacob Hill and wife, Irvine Garland and wife and daughter Virginia, and Rev. William R. Truax and wife.

The school at Maple Grove is progressing very nicely under the care of Orben Hebner.

Miss Lula Mellott of Needmore has gone to Chambersburg where she will study to be a trained nurse.

We congratulate the men who made the road, and the ones who use it, on the improved condition of the pike across the county. Ruts are just beginning to show, however, and a hard rain will wash some of the hills unless these ruts are scraped full from the sides. Do not let the work spoil on our hands, Messrs. Road Builders.

The Mayor of San Francisco, who was once an anti-suffragist, says the women there have put "polite" in politics; that they have refused graft; and that since they have voted, a better standard of morals in all politics has become an established fact.

Instead of the local institute being held at Jugtown school-house on Friday evening the 6th of November, it will be held at Webster Mills on Friday evening the 13th. The topics for discussion will be the same as these named for Jugtown.

The Greencastle evaporator has shipped 50 tons of dried apples to Chicago and expects to ship another 50 tons. It requires 5 1/2 pounds of green fruit to make one pound of the evaporated article.

Proved an Unsafe "Bank." After securing his gold and silver in sacks of corn in his barn, a wealthy landowner at Angleur-Sous-Dun, Saone-et-Loire, France, forgotful of his savings, recently sent the corn to the village mill to be ground into flour. The result was that all his treasure was ground to a powder. The man had a profound mistrust of banks.

SURELY FOR HIMSELF ALONE

Could Be Little Doubt as to Where the Sweet Girl's Love Was Centered.

The pork-packer's daughter was won. Amid the sumptuous trappings of wealth and luxury she plighted her troth with the sutor who had crossed the seas to besiege her heart.

"Are you sure, my darling," he murmured, as they stood together beneath the gorgeous chandelier, "that you love me for myself alone?"

"Charles James Edward," she answered, "I am sure."

"Then listen." With courtly grace he led her to a seat.

"My beloved," he said, tenderly, "I have purposely refrained from telling you about my family, in order that you might be governed in forming your estimate of me by considerations of personal worth."

"Charles James Edward!"

A world of love and trust spake she in those simple words.

"Of course, sweet girl, you know I am of noble lineage?"

A warm glance and a gentle pressure of the hand formed her reply.

"And you are aware that my people are among the proudest of the proud. But are you prepared to know—" He bent low and whispered—"that the blood of a king courses in my veins?"

"Yes—" She smiled engagingly.

"I am not surprised. I am informed that there is some dreadful scandal about every one of these aristocratic families. And did it get into the courts, dearest?"

Yes, it was for himself alone that she loved him.—Puck.

FAMOUS WALNUTS ARE GOING

Woodmen Cutting Illinois Tract of 400 Acres That Has Never Before Been Touched.

Woodmen entered the Makemson tract of timber four miles east of Danville, October 1, and began cutting the world's largest forest of virgin walnut timber. For the first time in the memory of the oldest inhabitant woodmen were allowed to enter the 400-acre tract, which was closed to the inspection of all save the close friends of Hiram Makemson during his life.

The forest land came into the possession of the Makemson family by means of a government land patent. By both Hiram and his son it was held sacred. All about the tract were well-tiled acres, but not even stock was permitted in the wooded park until after the death of its jealous guardian, some months ago. In settling up the estate a sale was ordered by the court. An Indiana firm of lumber buyers purchased the tract, paying $95,000 for the timber just as it stands. The ash timber brought $20,000 more, while the hickory, elm, and oak and smaller timber brought the total price for the standing timber close to $150,000.—Bloomington (Ill.) Postgraph.

Martha's Vineyard in 1602.

Here is what Bartholomew Gosnold wrote of his voyage to Martha's Vineyard in 1602, the Christian Science Monitor remarks:

"We stood awhile like men ravished at the beautiful and delicate of this sweet soil; for beside divers clear lakes of fresh water (whereof we saw no end), meadows very large and full of green grass and such an incredible number of vines that we could not do for treading on them. This is the goodliest land ever we saw; for it is replenished with faire fields and in them fragrant flowers; also meadows and hedged with stately groves."

Martha's Vineyard is still covered with the wild grapevines, which gave it its name, and the farms have often a high standing for productiveness. Indeed, one of these farms once boasted the largest corn crop ever produced on an acre. The yield was 125 bushels of shelled corn.

Stonewall Jackson.

Stonewall Jackson was in his thirty-ninth year when he was stricken down in the midst of his brilliant work at Chancellorsville. He was born January 21, 1824, and received (from his own lines, by accident) the wound that killed him on May 2, 1863. He died May 10. He was defeated but once, at Kernstown, when he was greatly outnumbered. He was a member of the Presbyterian church, and was noted for his rigidity of religious belief and practice; but when it came to winning battles he was a progressive of the progressives. He is buried at Lexington, Va.

Cost of Longevity Rising.

The rise in the price of sauerkraut is specially to be regretted because Professor Metchnikoff has been recommending it warmly as an antidote for old age. Now that garlic is being brought forward by Rumanian hygienists as a rival remedy, that, too, may be expected to soar beyond the reach of an ordinary purse. Luckily, the light diet so highly commended as a recipe for longevity is within the reach of all.—Springfield Republican.

Home, Sweet Home.

A well known player was talking about a brilliant but unsuccessful disciple of Blackstone.

"His habits are to blame for his failure," said he. "One of his remarks illustrates his habits well. He said to me in the Union club:

"There's no place like home—especially at 2 or 3 a. m., when you've exhausted the pleasures of all the other places, and you're tired, and everything shut up anyway."

Fearful to Lose Sawdust.

One day small Oscar was playing with a doll and some of the sawdust leaked out the floor. Soon after Oscar's mother called him to her to trim his finger nails and Oscar said: "Don't trim so short, for all the sawdust will come out."

Daily Thought.

Knowledge is the antidote to fear. Knowledge, Wise and Reason, with its highest aids.—Emerson.

LEARN SECRETS OF NATURE

Form of Enjoyment That Has Not Been Appreciated as it Ought to Be.

To a recent newspaper symposium on the importance of the study of natural history Ernest Harold Baynes of Meriden makes an interesting and valuable contribution.

His experience as a traveler and lecturer convinces him that very few people, comparatively speaking, enjoy nature as they might and as they would like to do, the bar in their way being their ignorance of our common birds, our common quadrupeds, our wild flowers, trees and shrubs.

As he points out: "Most forms of amusement cost money, but to the man, woman or child who has been given a real interest in minerals, wild flowers, insects, reptiles, birds or mammals, a five-cent carfare to the great wonder hall whose roof is the blue sky and whose caretakers are rain and the wind and the sunlight. And by their association with the dwellers of the forest and the moor they not only derive personal happiness but become better citizens.

In the first place they will become more healthy, physically, because they will practice walking, the sanest and more useful form of exercise known to man, under conditions of air and light most conducive to health and body; mentally, because association with nature means association with the sweeter things of life; those things of all others most conducive to health and purity of mind."—Concord Evening Monitor.

SOMETHING WRONG WITH 'EM

Alfalfa Sage Is Lost in Wonderment at the Antics of Those Yaw Boys.

"My profoundest sympathy goes out to the Yaw boys in their terrible affliction," vouchsafed the Alfalfa Sage. "They came of a large and sumptuous family, every member of which is noted for his persistence in hunting trouble and his uniform success in finding it. They invariably stand in the path of on-rushing motor cars when looking aloft to see if the geese are flying southward. They delight in arising in the wee sma' hours to drink cough medicine out of a bottle of poison so thoroughly hidden that a map and a bloodhound are necessary to find it. As soon as the hearing of one of them becomes impaired he will go miles out of his way in order to promenade on the railroad track three minutes before the fast mail is due. A few days ago I read with pity of one of the Yaw boys who came clear to Kansas City from Nebraska for the sole purpose of giving a young man of engaging manners change for a $40 bill. Of course this particular Yaw knew that there never was a $40 bill, but still he cheerily forked over the change and then gazed in amaze when the engaging young man grabbed it and fled as the crow flies. What is the matter with those Yaw boys, anyhow? Have they no brains at all, or are what few they possess hopelessly petrified?"—Kansas City Star.

Playing Safe.

A prominent Baltimore politician is being chaffed by his friends over an incident of the recent primaries in that city. A certain voter, who happens to be a rabid anti-organization man, had been out of town for some time just preceding the election, and accordingly was not quite sure which candidates had been put up by the organization and which were against it. As he approached the polls in this doubtful state of mind, he encountered the aforementioned politician.

"Now, you're going to be a good fellow, ain't you," was the politician's greeting to the voter, whom he did not know, "and vote for every one on this sample ballot?" They are all good or ganglion men?" "Sure," was the voter's prompt reply as he took the proffered paper and entered the booth.

"The rest was easy," he says, in relating the occurrence. "I just voted for every one who wasn't on the ballot Riggan gave me."—New York Evening Post.

Dialikes Foreign Phrases.

While the use of forcible words is steadily increasing among Germans, the government of Saxony has taken measures to stamp out, as far as possible, all words of alien origin. In an education bill passed by the Saxon Landtag last year it was enacted that purely German substitutes are to be used in schools for the "Fremdenwort" (foreign words) which have hitherto been officially recognized.

Instead of "geographie" the children are to learn "Erdkunde" (literally, earth knowledge), while "Kurzschreibkunst" (art of short writing) and "Raumlehre" (teaching of space) are to figure in the curriculum in the place of "stenographie" and "geometrie." Henceforth a delinquent official will no longer undergo "suspension," but "vorläufige Amtsenthebung."

Never Say Tip.

A member of the Anti-Tipping society dined in a popular restaurant the other evening, and when he paid his check there was 15 cents change coming to him. The waiter, thinking to make it easy for the customer to extract a tip of any size desired, brought back three quarters, a dime and two nickels.

The anti-tipper counted it over carefully, then took another nickel out of his pocket and added it to the change in the tray, saying:

"Here, take this chicken-feed to the cashier and get me a dollar bill for it."

Another "Limit."

The stingiest man in Jamestown, the Optimist says, loafs around the drug store in the hope that the odor of the drugs will cure his cold.—Kansas City Times.

Carrying it to Excess.

Quizzo—"I understand that your friend Bronson is a vegetarian." Quizzed—"Yes. He has such pronounced views on the subject that he married a grass widow."

The Law Against Trespassing.

Just now during the hunting season, hunters and landowners alike are interested in the law against trespassing on private property. As a rule, hunters have no desire to hunt on lands where the owner does not wish it; and owners want to know just what to do, to protect themselves. The law is very plain. Unless trespass notices are posted, the land is supposed to be open, and suit can not be brought for trespassing. If posters are put up, hunters must stay off or take the consequences. Here is the act; read it for yourselves:

Making it unlawful to trespass upon land posted as private property, providing the penalty therefor.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted, &c., That from and after the passage of this Act, it shall be unlawful for any person willfully to enter upon any land within the limits of this Commonwealth, where the owner or owners of said land has caused to be prominently posted upon said land printed notices that the said land is private property, and warning all persons from trespassing thereon, under the penalties provided in this act.

SECTION 2. Every person violating the provisions of this act shall be liable to a penalty of not exceeding ten dollars, together with the costs of prosecution, to be recovered before any magistrate or justice of the peace, as fines and penalties are by law recoverable; and, in default of payment of said fine and costs, the party convicted shall be committed to the county jail of the proper county, for one day for each dollar of fine imposed.

SECTION 3. All penalties recovered under this act shall be paid to the school fund of the district in which the trespass was committed.
