Paul when a prisoner at Rome. He was a Jew, addressing Gentile Christians at Philippi. What an evidence of the change Christ has made that a Jaw can write thus to a Gentile: "My brethren, dearly beloved and lenged for, my joy and erown,"

Indeed, Paul was

These words

imprisoned as a result of his service to Gentiles.

An Appeal. "We stand fast in the Lord." These words imply several things.

(1) They had enemies; otherwise they had not needed an exhortation to steadfastness. Many seem unaware that we wrestle "against principalltles and powers in the heavenly places." Even modern spiritualism. so far as it is not fraudulent, suggests a great, shuddering world of evil spirits about us. While we slumber they restlessly oppose us and we need to take the whole armor of God if we would stand. How befiting this appeal in a day when many are slipping from their moorings of faith in the Word of God.

(2) They would need to progress if they were to stand fast. We gather this from the use of the word "so." This seems to send us back to the previous chapter where we see Paul. forgetting the things behind, pressing toward the mark for the prize: "so we are to stand fast. In other words, we may not stand still if we are to stand fast; as in riding a bicycle, the only way to stand is to keep mov-

(3) They had a secure position; they were to stand fast "in the Lord." Reader, are you not in the church merely, but "in the Lord?" Maintaining our position there, we are secure. Charles Simeon, the Cambridge scholar and saint, exerted a marvelous influence in his day. In the early hours of the morning, he would be heard walking in his study or on the roof above it, and they knew he was having communion with God. Maintaining thus our position "in the Lord," we shall be steadfast.

The Argument,

Our text begins with "therefore This leads us back to the verses preceding, and we find in them high encouragement to steadfastness.

"Our conversation (cit ship, R. V.) is in heaven." Philippi done, Matt. 6:13; Ps. 1:1. was a Roman colony, and many of its inhabitants were citizens of Rome. This honor was highly appreciated, and they would have endured much for sake of it. To have our names in the Lamb's book, in the city of God, is worth any price which stead-fastness may cost us. (2) "From whence also we look for the Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ." The word "look" indicates expectancy, like a garrison looking out for re-enforcements or a mother watching for her boy. Such an attitude toward the coming of the Savior was common in apostolic days, but is not so now. Perhaps this is partly explained by the fact that many think much of Christ coming as a judge and they are filled with terror. But the emphasis here is quite otherwise; we look for "the Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ," and should not Christians desire his appearing? There have been star-gazers who neglected practical duties, but they are no more unscriptural than those who attend to other duties, but do not look for the Lord. "He gave to every man his work and commanded the porter to watch;" working and watching make the full program. Since Christ is coming we should stand fast.

(3) "Who shall change our vite body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body?" When Archbishop Whateley was dying his chaplain read this passage to him: "Stop," said the archbishop, "not 'vile' body, but 'body of humiliation." Our bodies are not vile, but they do humble us. The transfiguration and the 40 days after the resurrection hint the glory that awaits us. Surely, we should stand fast! (4) "He is able even to subdue all things unto himself." Voices shall be heard at least saying, "Alleluja; for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth." With such a helper we need not surrender. "So stand fast in the Lord."

"Hold the fort, for I am coming." Jesus signals still; Wave the answer back to heaven,

"By thy grace we will!"

Questions We Should Ask. "Am I really what I ought to be? Am I what, in the bottom of my heart, I honestly wish to be? Am I living a life at all like what I myself approve? My secret nature, the true complexion of my character, is hidden from all men, and only I know it. Is it such as I should be willing to show? Is my soul at all like what my kindest and most intimate friends believe? Is my heart at all such as I should wish the Searcher of Hearts to judge me by? Is every year adding to my devotion, to my unselfishness, to my conscientiousness, to my freedom from the hypocrisy of seeming so much better than I am? When I compare myself with last year, am I more ready to surrender myself at the call of duty? am I more alive to the commands of the conscience? have I shaken off my besetting sins?" These are the questions we ought to be putting fairly and honestly to our hearts -- Frederick Temple

JESUS AND PETER.

LESSON TEXT-Mark 14:27-21, 23, 54, 66-GOLDEN TEXT-Let him that thinketh he standeth take beed lest be fall.-I Cor.

The record of Peter's failure is a sad story. Mark, who received his Gospel from Peter, gives it in clear outline. This suggests that Peter did not spare himself.

1. After Passover Feast, vv. 27-31. On the way to Olivet Jesus warns the disciples that all would be "offended" (caused to stumble) because of what was about to occur. Not one escaped, Matt. 26:56, Zech. 13.7. Peter, assured in his own mind, denies that this should be true of him, so confident was he of himself and of his devotion. Over against this warning Jesus sounds the note of his resurrection, and it was chiefly in their inability to catch, or comprehend this note, that they stumbled. Particularly is this true of Peter. That Jesus could found a church on the vulgar tragedy of a criminal's death was beyond the range of his understanding. This self-confidence was the beginning of his fall, Prov. 16:18. It is pride like this which men have in their own strength, that is the chief reason why they are not saved. If they are able to care for themselves, why do they need the help of another?

Peter's Denials.

Peter trusted his own heart. A man is a fool who will trust such a deceitful member, Jer. 17:9, Prov. 28:26. Peter's loud profession is answered by a definite prophecy of his utter failure, v. 30. "Before the cock shall crow twice, thou shall deny me Again Peter contradicts the Lord, "I will not deny thee." Peter's later denial of the person of Jesus in the judgment hall is prefaced by a denial of his master's assertions on the way thither. He had to learn wisdom and humility in the bitter school of experience. Peter is quite like us all, but he did learn and profited thereby (I Peter 5:5), which cannot be said of all of us.

II. Following Afar Off, vv. 53, 54. Peter "followed afar" into the court ing of the saloons. of the high priest's palace. We have suggested (Lesson of Nov. 1st) that zeal and affection prompted Peter, yet he was expressly forbidden and forewarned, John 13:36-38. Some one has said that the development of Peter's weakness began in the garden when and its brazier of coals was a dangerous place for any disciple of the Lord. The servants and soldiers of the powers against Christ were congregated

III. "I Know Not This Man," vv. 66-72. While at the fire, a serving maid looking at Peter said, "Thou also wast with the Nazarne, even Jesus." Immediately and without any seeming hesitancy Peter denied, and declared his ignorance both of the man and of understanding what she sald. Peter did not sympathize with what was being done to Jesus, but at heart he was not brave enough to separate himself from the enemies of Jesus thereby to draw upon himself some sort of censure or condemnation. Thus conforming to the world about him made it easy for Peter to utter his first note of denial. Having done so he passed on into the porch and heard the first crowing of the cock. The apparent contradiction between Mark and the other writers over the question of the number of maids seems to be solved by John 18:25, where reference is made to several who spoke at the same time. Doubtless the words of the first maid are reenforced by those of another on the second occasion; they both brought an accusation against him.

Speech Betrayed Peter.

This second maid addressing the onlooking spectators said, "This is one of them," and again Peter denies the accusation. He had escaped one predicament only to be plunged into anone. To deny afresh seemed to be Cor. 15:32 R. V. A few words of a serving maid filled Peter with dismay but a second denial did not deliver him from his predicament. After a little those standing with him de clared he must be one of the followers of Jesus, for his speech betrayed him to be a Galilean. Then Peter touched the bottom, for he accompanies his denial with curses and oaths. One of the principal uses of profanity is to emphasize a lie and the larger the lie the more profuse the profanity. Again he hears the cock crow. Mark says nothing about the look of the master and seems to associate Peter's weeping chiefly with the effect produced up his memory by what the master had said. The memory of those words banished Peter's disloyalty and cowardice, filled him with remorse and shame and turned him to tears of bitterness and repentance. The memory of his own act and the evident dashing of his Messinnic hopes of Jesus, plunged him into the depths of dispair.

From his high and exalted state of mind, his high hopes as to Jesus, he sees himself a traitor and Jesus about to be crushed by the hand of man. Peter was passionately devoted to Jesus and had felt that he could go with him to the limit. Once before at Caesarea-Philippi Peter had been warned. He had been mystifled by what Jesus said about the cross and had protested. He had high and noble aspirations but they carried him beyoud the limits of his permission into danger and defeat.

LICENSE AS A SOPORIFIC.

Purely as an educational measure, the temperance organizations of Massachusetts introduced into the legisla-LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 15 ture a bill asking that the ice for a first-class liquor license be reduced from its present minimum of $1,000 to the minimum of $50. It afforded an opportunity to puncture anew the high license fallacy and to show how the very amount of the fee served as a bribe to the several towns for the licensing of the traffic. Viewed on its merits and considering the liquor traffic from the standpoint of any other legitimate business. it would seem self-evident that the men who pay the license would approve of so wholesale a reduction, and we might have been excused for expectin, the wholesalers, retailers, brewers and distillers to be present in large numbers to endorse the measure. They were present, through their paid representative, but not to endorse. On the contrary Mr. Weld spoke with his accustomed ability against the suggested change. Why Because the large fee acts as a bribe, a soporific to the municipal conscience, a narcotle to the body politic. The "trade" is wise enough to stand

"A HORRIBLE EXAMPLE."

During a recent election in Huron county. Ohio, the liquor interests took the town of Findlay, a city of 15,006 population, as a horrible example of what no saloons will do for a city Hon. Lincoln Groves, mayor of Find lay, produced evidence to show that Findlay has the lowest tax rate of any municipality in Obio and that the town is better morally, financially and industrially than it had ever been during "wet" period.

As to the effect upon business, the Business Men's association is quoted prepared medicines of America. as saying:

"The 'wet' towns around have drawn clothing.

The city council said, "Lower taxes, less disorder and fewer paupers."

The Bankers' association stated that for the three years immediately following the voting out of the saloons from this county, there was an average local banks than during the three years immediately preceding the clos-

WHY HE VOTED DRY. "The other day a man who has lived in this town a long time, and has employment here, came to me to borrow $3," said a leading business man in an Illinois town. "It was pay he ceased to pray. That courtyard night, I asked him why. He said that when he went to the saloon where he frequently spends too much of his hard-earned wages, he was told that he owed $1.50 more than about that first. It is never safe to the amount of the check he handed in warm oneself at the enemies' fire to be cashed. 'I know there isn't a though we see it constantly being thing to eat in the house at home, some groceries.' I loaned him the money. He's good, and I have no fear that he will not repay me.

"I've seen too much of that sort of thing in recent years, but it was never brought home to me so strongly before how the wives and children have to bear the brunt of this drink Yes, sir, I'm 'dry' from now evil.

FROM BEHIND THE BAR.

An ex-saloonkeeper, writing recently in the Oregon Daily Journal, says: "I know many thousands of saloonkeepers in the United States, but I have yet to hear one express an opinion favorable to his own calling. He will say, 'Well I'm in it for the money, and just as soon as I get enough of that I'll oult the business.' Only recently a down town saloonkeeper said to me. 'Just one day and night spent in a saloon would make a temperance advocate of anyone."

"I'm not a churchman, but I will say that my tongue and pen while life lasts will be used in favor of temperance, to make some small amends for the worse than wasted years I spent behind the saloon bar.

TAXES IN LICENSE AND NO.LI CENSE TOWNS.

Mayor Bennett of Rockford, Ill., a city of about 50,000, has this to say concerning taxes in license and noother and perhaps more dangerous license cities: "I have looked up the records and I find that out of 15 the only way of escape, James 4:4; I cities of its class Rockford has the lowest tax rate for the last year of any. This includes all taxes. A man who owns a $3,000 home in Rockford paid $45.56 in taxes last year. The tax on the same home in Freeport was $55.55, and in East St. Louis, the most heavily burdened with saloons of any city in the state of Illinois, the taxes at the same time on a $3,000 home were $76.20."

HOW IT WORKS.

When a saloonkeeper puts a man out of a job, he disgraces the man and makes him unfit for another job, and he disgraces his whole family. When no-license puts a saloonkeeper out of a job, he becomes a more honor able citizen, his family becomes more honorable, and the community secures a wealth-producing workman instead of a wealth-destroying workman.

WHAT SALOONS ARE. I know what these saloons are, have visited them at all hours of the night and on all nights of the week. and there is not an extenuating word that deserves to be spoken in behalf of them. They are foul, beastly and swinish, the prolific hotbeds of vile politics, profane ribaldry, and un speakable sensuality. -- Charles H Parkhurst, D. D.

PROTECTION FOR BOYS. Ask the mothers where they desire protection for their boys and they re ply, "We want it in the cities as well as in the towns; we want it wherever our boys are, and our boys are is every part of the state."

Put That Pain to Use

The network of nerves in your body, There Pietare like the network of wires in a burgiar Telle a Storp alarm system, gives quick warning when anything is going wrong inside. Looking at it in this way a pain is a useful alarm. Now, kidney weak-ness is a dangerous thing—a condition not to be, neglected-and it is wise to know and pay attention to the early alarm signals of sick kidneys.

Backache is a common warning of congestion or inflammation in the kidneys. It may be dull, nagging pain, or a sharp twinge when stooping or lifting. There are likely to be disorders of urination, dizziness, headaches, and drowsy, despondent, tired feelings. It is very hard to strengthen weak kidneys at first, but neglect invites rheumatic or neuralgic attacks, gravel, dropsy, and fatal Bright's disease.

As a special medicine for weak kidneys Doan's Kidney Pills have been used for years all over the civilized world, and surely are considered reliable. The patient can always help the medicine immensely, however, by diet-ing lightly, using little or no liquor, tea or coffee, keeping regular hours and drinking lots of pure water.

for large sums paid into the public treasuries, that therefore their deadly work may be protected.

That an organized attempt has been made to blacken the reputation of the popular family remedies of this country, and to mislead the newspaper publishers into rejecting the advertlsing of such medicines, was the charge made by Carl J. Balliett, of Buffalo, N. Y., at the convention of the Advertising Affiliation at Detroit.

prictary Association of America, which includes in its membership two hundred firms which make the popular

Mr. Balliett pointed out that it is the duty of the newspaper publisher Baltimore American. nothing away from Findlay but booze to refuse the advertising of any fake and bums, and neither pay for food or or fraudulent medicine, just as it is his duty to refuse any fake or fraudulent advertising, but it is not right to shut down on all medical advertising because there have been some fakers. any more than it would be right to refuse to publish all department store advertising because certain stores of over $230,000 more on deposit in have made a practice of lying about hargain sales.

Disease and death are mysteries. People who are perfectly well are skeptical. They laugh at the timeworn patent medicine joke, just as they laugh again and again over the many variations of the operation joke -"The operation was a success but the patient died." This so-called humor has perhaps hurt the medicine business with well people, but when the hitherto healthy man feels a severe pain or illness, he immediately wants medicine, and will bless the cure whether it be at the hands of a regular doctor, a homeopath, an osteopath, a Christian Scientist or patent medicine. There is nothing more deadly than disease; nothing more honorable than to cure it.

Mr. Balliett refuted the idea sought to be spread about that patent medicines are unpopular by showing that from 1990 to 1912 the amount of prepared medicines consumed in America increased from $100,000,000 to $160,-000,000 annually. He showed that, although the American Medical Association is trying as an organization to exterminate so-called patent medicines, the family doctor, individually, is not fighting them but prescribing them. He estimated that 40% of the prescriptions written by doctors today include proprietary medicines.

The writings of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, he said, have also aimed to destroy confidence in proprietary medicines; but that Dr. Wiley's ideas are not infallible is shown by cases where his analyses were entirely wrong. Mr. Balliett mentioned a case where, with all the power of the Government, he fought a preparation as being dangerous to health, and was ingloriously

There has been spread the idea that a clever faker can mix a few useless ingredients and by smart advertising, sell tons of it and win sudden wealth; whereas, as a matter of fact, the medicine business is notoriously difficult. and, where there has been one success at it, there have been a hundred failures. Any medicine which has no merit cannot live, because persons who are duped into buying it once will not buy it again, and the profit from advertising a medicine can only come from repeat sales to the same, satisfied people. Therefore, any medicine which has been on the market for a number of years, and is still advertised, must have merit behind it to account for its success.

In conclusion Mr. Balliett declared that no newspaper is doing justice to its readers in the matter of medical or other advertising, unless it investigates, not only the wording of the advertisement offered for publication, but the merits of the article advertised. He pointed out that the few newspapers who have been deluded into the policy of barring out medical advertising have adopted this general policy, rather than to form an investigation bureau of this kind which could, in a constructive and useful effort, investigate and decide what is a good product and what is a fraud, in not only the medicine business, but in every other business which advertises its wares to the public.

The audience seemed to agree with Mr. Balliett's ideas on the subject and the chairman decided the question at Issue in his favor.

West Virginia Man's Story of Remarkable Recovery

Remarkable Recovery

D. R. Westbrook, Willow, West Virginia, says: "Kidney trouble came on me slowly and before I realized it I was in its grasp. The first symptom was pain in the small of my back with a tired, all-gone feeling. I couldn't do much work and my life was becoming one round of suffering. The kidney secretions burned like fire and my bladder was badly inflamed. The secretions were scant and there was settlings in them that looked like line. The pain in my back was awful and my right kidney became misplaced. Then came swelling, together with an awful ache and the swelling grew until he was as large as my fist. My left kidney also got sore and inflamed and I knew something must be done. The doctor said my only salvation was an operation. One of my friends knew how I was suffering and told me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. They acted as a Godsend. The first box cased the pain and the swelling and soreness left. My kidneys were fixed up in good shape, and my right kidney seemed to same back into place. Pills made me a well min and epared me an epieration, I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on since then and they have kept my kidneys in line working order."
