Hon, D. H. Patterson suffered from a severe attack of lumbago last week, but he did not permit that to interfere seriously with his active work for the proposed trolley road from this place to Fort Loudon. Here's hoping that the road will go on to Webster Mills; and we will not get jealous of that village if it do.

Calvin H. McLaughlin, of St. Thomas, Franklin county, was found dead in his automobile not far from his home about half past three o'clock last Saturday afternoon. Several men saw the auto swerve from the road into a hedge. When they reached the auto Mr. McLaughlin was dead, heart failure being probably the cause of his death.

The Evidence IS At Your Door.

McConnellsburg proof is what you want and the statement of this highly respected resident will banish all doubt:

Riley Peck, Shoemaker, Pleasant St., McConneilsbug, says: Some years ago 1 was troubled with my kidneys and soreness in ginated in Africa, and it means my back. I was dizzy at times and it affected my eyes. I had to get up often at night on account of the kidney secretions. I was tired out when I got up in the morning and I didn't feel like doing my work. I had a doctor day at their home in Fairfield, at the time, but he only gave me Adams, county, the Doctor's a little relief. A friend insisted mother, Mrs. Matilda B. Suicide in Mercersburg.

Last week there returned to Mercersburg Elliott Pensinger, aged 20 years. He was an orphan and had come from Ohio, back to his native town. Hard times had caused him to lose his job in Ohio and he was despondent as he took up his residence with his only living relative, a sister, Mrs. Fred Brandt,

"I won't be here long," he told a friend on Saturday.

What he meant was revealed Tuesday evening about 7:30 when he went to the home of his sister's mother-in-law, Mrs. Fofler lot of splinters in his face with Brant. Without saying anything so much force that, for a time, he he went to the second story room thought he bad been hit by small and when Mrs. Brant heard a shot. TEACH THE CHILD SUCCESS

Experienced School Teacher Makes Suggestion to the Mothers of Her Pupils.

Every mother knows how easy & is for a child to become discouraged during the first weeks of school. "I wish," said a most successful teacher to a mother one "first" day, "that I had all the mothers here instead of the children this morning. "Yes, I mean that-the forty mothers, I would like to tell them just one thing-the difference between success and failure. "In the school room as well as elsewhere the difference is just a difference of attitude

"No general ever won a victory who did not go on the battlefield determined to win. "In the home is where we form our habits," she continued, "and the habit of success is not a difficult one to "The most important thing for the mother to do is to believe in her child, see that his tasks are such that he can do, and then openly recognize his "No child who has had such home training ever makes many failures in his life. To teach this idea of success necessitates continuous individual work in many cases, and a thorough comradeship with the child. "At the end of the month," she said, smiling hopefully over the roomful of workers, "I will know them all, but until then-yes, I wish I had the mothers here this morning."-Pitteburgh Dispatch.

AMUSEMENT FOR THE TOTS

Game That Will Keep Them Interested During the Long Evenings of the Winter.

Now that the evenings are drawing in, the children will want some new game to play after supper is over. They will all enjoy the "Cut-Out Family Game," which is played as follows: Get a big pile of illustrated journals, catalogues and picture papers, and give each child a blunt-pointed pair of scissors, a large sheet of newspaper or brown paper, and a pot of paste or a packet of pins.

Then read or tell them some simple little tale of every-day life-not a fairy story, but an ordinary, every-day tale of boys and girls and their fathers and mothers. As you go along, stop from time to time, and let the children hunt through the illustrated books for pictures to suit the occasion

Perhaps you will begin in this way: "Once upon a time there was a little girl called Susie. She was seven years old and she had long, curly hair. Now, look through your books and find a picture of Susie."

Then the children will spend five happy minutes in finding Susie, cutting her out, and fastening her at the top of the blank sheet. As the tale continues the sheet will become full of portraits of the different people whom Susie met, the pet animals she

It will take an hour or more to fill a sheet, and the children will be quietly and happily occupied all the time,

Club Swinger's Collapse. Tom Burrows, the champion club swinger, just failed Saturday night at Earl's court to complete 100 hours of continuous club swinging. He began his task at 7:10 Tuesday evening. Saturday morning he de veloped sprain of the right ankle. He was compelled to throw the weight of his body on his left leg, and it was the additional pain and fatigue consequent on this that led to his collapse at 8:45.

During the evening it was clear that he was near the limit of his powers of endurance. Two army doctors who were in attendance decided to allow him to fall asleep in the ordinary course of nature, rather than risk a mental shock by stopping him forci bly. Thus he was allowed to totter along until he lurched against a ta His wife caught him in her arms, and Burrows fell asleep, continuing in a deep slumber, despite the cheers of the crowd, while he was carried to a taxicab and driven home. He had swung his clubs for 97 hours

KEEP THEIR LITTLE SECRETS

Parents Mistake if They Think They Know All That is in Their Children's Minds.

There is nothing more unfathomable, or more apparently unreasonable, than the reserve of a little child. You may look back upon your own childhood and remember how little of your real inner life you ever disclosed to the people around you, and you perhaps explain this extraordinary reticence by the greater severity with which children were treated in that sterner age. You complain that it was a regime which checked confidence, and declared that from the very first you resolved to try a different method with your own children. You admit that your children are not quite as respectful to you as you were to your parents, but you say that, on the whole, you would rather have confidence than respect.

get it from your small children? It is true that the period of reserve may be shortened by judicious treatment and that as they grow older the relations between you may be all that you have hoped for; but as for your little child, overflowing with spirit and affection, running to you with all sorts of questions and confidences, disclosing itself to you, as you fancy, with absolute transparency, do you really imagine that you see to the bottom of its soul?

Do you flatter yourself that you

Put away the delusion! Just as, in later life, the most successfully secretive person is the one who appears most frank, so our babbling child fools us.—Scribner's.

Some Accompanist.

Charles Hough, a young man of youthful appearance, slight in build compared with the woman, and gray as to hair, was at the piano. He understands perfectly how best to accompany the prima donna. He knows that volume is required, what shading is desirable, how much of it, and he follows every motion of the singer to detect her next requirement in the matter of plano support. He not only knows these things, but he does them. That is why he is such an excellent accompanist, He wore evening clothes. The piano was finished in black, one of the low concert type of instrument, with a little outward turn, on the top of which the singer rested an arm occisionally .- Exchange.

Cruel Tale.

A dreadful story is in circulation about Richard Harding Davis. Mr. Davis, as everybody knows, is a wit. He was, therefore, terribly annoved the other day to hear that a brother author had spoken unfavorably of his witticisms. Coming upon his brother author he said: "My boy, I hear that in a house where other people were kind enough to consider me witty, you declared that I was not so. Is this true?" "No, not a word of truth in it," the other answered cheerfully. "I was never in a house in my life where anybody considered you witty."
