Fire Destroys Big Herd of High-Bred Animals—Berks County Society Wins Civil War Claims—Boy Fractures Skull.

Judge J. Q. Vanswearigen, in a decision handed down at Uniontown, declared that the section of State mining law requiring the maintenance of bore holes for the protection of miners against explosions, is lawful and must be observed. P. J. Walsh, inspector of the Ninth Bituminous District, instituted suit against a mine foreman of the W. J. Ratney Company for not maintaining bore holes. The defendant claimed the holes were of no practical value in preventing explosions. J. E. B. Cunningham, Deputy Attorney general, added in the prosecution.

The mysterious death of John Miller, a Hazleton whiskey agent, whose body was found on the mountains near Ashland three years ago, was solved when George Smith, of Girardville, who is dying in the State Hospital at Fountain Springs, declared that Miller, while a guest at Girardville, was murdered by William Ahrens, proprietor of the hotel at which he stayed. Ahrens has since died. Smith in his dying statement declared that Miller's body was carried to the hillside to divert suspicion after the murder.

Officials of the Agricultural and Horticultural Association of Berks county were notified that the United States Court of Claims has awarded the society the sum of $632.10 for the use of and damage to the fair grounds and buildings by the United States military forces during the Civil War. The U. S. Army occupied the ground from 1861 to 1863.

Seventy-five head of stock, valued at nearly four thousand dollars, were killed on the farm of Senator J. Donald Cameron, at Donegal, the slaughtering having been done by three inspectors. One of the latter came near losing his life when a bullet intended for a steer struck a bone and glanced off grazed the inspector's head.

Trying to stop a moving belt at the Flory flour mill, Nazareth, as a test of his strength, almost proved fatal to Paul Yotter. The young man, boasting of his strength to companions, grabbed hold of a belt attached to a line shaft and the next minute was flying through the air. He managed to land clear of a post, but in the fall broke an arm.

Declaring that while he was at work his wife placed their baby in care of a neighbor, packed her clothing and went away, Daniel Muckel, of Mohnton, started divorce proceedings in court at Reading, against Cora Muckel, of Wyomissing, a suburb of Reading. The alleged desertion took place December 1, 1909.

Despondent because his communication with relatives in the Prussian war zone had been cut off, Michael Heller, of Pottsville, aged seventy-two years, a retired cooper, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head, while his daughter, Mrs. Charles Klusch, and her husband, a local druggist, were about to sit down to dinner.

John Novick, a young miner at Kulpmont, was found near his home with his head crushed by a blunt instrument. A butcher shop close to Novick's house had been entered by burglars shortly before Novick was found, and it is thought they attacked him as they left.

While driving his automobile along the highway near St. Clair, Jefferson Crow, a prominent contractor, struck and killed Charles Pavela, who became bewildered and stepped in the way of the machine. Witnesses of the accident exonerate Crow from blame.

William A. Isenberg, aged seventy-six, and his sister, Miss Saloma Isenberg, aged eighty, were suffocated by coal gas at their home at Port Royal. Three other members of the family had narrow escapes.

A herd of twenty-two cattle and twenty hogs belonging to John S. Swoyer, of Swoyer's Crossing, near Reading, were killed by the State inspectors on account of the hoof and mouth disease.

Herbert Herbine, seven-year-old son of Edwin Herbine, is in a dying condition in St. Joseph's Hospital, Reading, from a fractured skull, suffered in a fall from the second-story porch of his home.

Leaving a note that he was impelled to kill himself from remorse over having deserted his wife, Charles Lawrence, aged forty, was found dead from poison in the Penn Hotel, Allentown.

William Melntyre, Jr., of Twedale, Chester county, committed suicide by throwing himself under the engine of a train on the Lancaster, Oxford & Southern Railroad.

The big herd of fancy and high-bred cattle of Edwin H. Binns, of near Port Kennedy, in Upper Merion Township, was destroyed by fire. Forty-two cows, eight horses and two ponies were destroyed. The fire was discovered by a farm-hand, who summoned help by telephone.

A burglar who entered the home of Stacy G. Glauser, a lumber merchant, of Chester, narrowly escaped capture when Mrs. Glauser, being awakened, came upon him. He escaped with $25 in cash and three gold watches.

BLANKETED BELGIANS TRYING TO KEEP WARM

The soldiers of Belgium are poorly equipped for winter fighting, but blankets are being distributed among them as far as possible.

AL FRESCO LUNCHEON IN THE ARGONNE

French officers of an ambulance division enjoying a wayside luncheon near the Argonne battlefield with a German Red Cross man who has fallen into their hands.

WIRELESS TORPEDO BOAT NATALIA

Wireless torpedo boat Natalia, invented by John Hays Hammond, Jr., of Gloucester, Mass. It is steered by wireless and can carry 4,000 pounds of explosives, which respond automatically to radio waves. At night the boat is steered by the use of an arc light of one million candlepower. Young Hammond has given to American navy experimental demonstration of his invention.

GERMAN DEAD ON THE BATTLEFIELD OF ARRAS

CIGARETTES FOR GERMANS

NEW SUBMARINE AND ITS CAPTAIN

Before going into the trenches the German soldiers are supplied with heavy socks and mittens and plenty of tobacco. A Red Cross nurse is here seen handing out the highly prized tobacco in the form of cigarettes.

This is the new United States submarine K-6, with its crew, and, inset, Capt. J. O. Fisher, its commander.

BRITISH GUN ON YPRES BATTLEFIELD

One of the British guns in its pit on the Ypres battlefield, screened behind an ammunition wagon.

FUNERAL OF EARL ROBERTS

Drizzle England paid her last tribute to Lord Roberts, the "hero of the Trenches," as the cortege passed through the streets from the station to St. Paul's cathedral, where the remains of the late general were laid in the tomb. The photograph shows the soldier's gun carriage which his son tried to save at Colenso at the cost of his life.

NEW BRITISH ARMORED CAR

One of the new armored light cars that the British are using to good effect on the continent. It carries eight men and a Maxim gun in a revolving top and has a speed of forty miles an hour. When in action the driver sits on the floor and guides the car with the aid of a reflex mirror.

Dishwater Routs Bear.

Dawson, Y. T.—While washing dishes in a camp on the government road, near Leota Bluff, on the Klondike river, 30 miles below Dawson, a few days ago, George Ameraux looked over his shoulder. Grinning at him was a huge black bear.

Ameraux threw a pan full of dishwater at his visitor. While Bruin was trying to rub the soap from his eyes, Ameraux rushed to his tent, returned with his rifle, and killed the bear.

HELPS FIND THE WOUNDED

One of the powerful searchlights used by the French army to enable its ambulance division to remove the wounded from the battlefield at night.

Mineral Products of Arizona. The value of the mineral products of Arizona, according to the United States geological survey, increased from $67,497,828 in 1912 to $71,429,705 in 1913.

Baby Floats Through Pipe.

Riverside, Cal.—Mary Sobbe, two years old, dropped her rag doll into an irrigation standpipe. She reached for it, lost her balance, fell in and floated along in an 18-inch main. Efforts to fish her out at two standpipes farther down failed, but at the third, an eighth of a mile away, James King, a rancher, caught her. She was uninjured.

Here's Duck-Legged Chick.

Eaton, O.—George White has produced by selective breeding the shortest legged chicken in existence after ten years of effort, during which he crossed and recrossed breeds. The result is a big white fowl that continually seems to be sitting, the impression being due solely to the shortness of its legs. When it walks it waddles like a duck.

A Muffler for Machinery.

New York.—A monster silencer made somewhat on the same principle as the silencer for guns, has been designed by Harvard professors for the noisy machinery of a New York power plant, in order to meet the protests of people living in the neighborhood and its success will give an opportunity for doing away with many of the noise nuisances of industry.

This Hog Has Eight Feet.

Owanka, S. D.—Picked pig's feet will no longer be a luxury under any high cost of living regime if Mike Banpeel, a stock raiser near here, is able to continue raising hogs with eight feet, like one he recently marketed at the local yards. The animal had an extra foot attached to each ankle and all were well developed and of ordinary size.
