LESSON TEXT-Psalm 32.

An unusual sight and one not with out special significance was that of Secretary of State Bryan signing the cards of 12,000 men who had taken the pledge of total abstinence at one of the Billy Sunday meetings, after Mr. Bryan's address against the drink curse. His attack against the liquor evil from the economic standpoint included the following statements: "It is estimated that the people of the United States spend almost $2,-500,000,000 annually on intoxicating liquors. The cost of the Panama canal, the most gigantic engineering feat in history, was about $400,000,000. Is it not appalling to think that we spend for drink every year something like six times the cost of the Panama canal?

"I have endeavored to obtain an accurate estimate of the amount of money spent on education in this country, and the figure given me is $750,000,000. We spend for drink more than three times as much as we spend for education.

The annual appropriations of the federal government are a little less than $1,250,000,000. This sum includes the salaries of all the public officials, from the president down. All of these government agencies employed in administering the federal government of this great nation are operated at an expense of less than $1,250,000,000. "Think, if the mind can comprehend a Hundredfold Since Their Employment - Quickly Become Expert, Always Careful.

AND FEW ACCIDENTS. Government Declared to Have Gained

Much of the important work at the United States government arsenal at Frankfort, Pa., is in the hands of women who are as skilled at making deadly weapons as are their sisters as nurses in army hospitals or on the fields of battle. They are regarded as more trustworthy, proficient and conscientious than men, and are in such demand in many departments that they are worked in two shifts. Even in the fuse room, where the most dangerous work is undertaken, women are employed and accidents are few and far between, due in a large measure, it is declared, to the greater care taken by the female employees.

Most of the work in the hands of the women is regarded as skilled labor, and it is strange to see such captions as "Mary Mathews, skilled laborer." Every precaution is taken to safeguard the workers and no one is overworked, but the government has gained a hundredfold since the women have entered the arsenal as workers.

Each cartridge inspector in the arsenal inspects 31,500 cartridges a day, an average that has been maintained for several years. This work is very important, for the slightest defect, one not even to be detected by the experienced eye, might mean a premature explosion and the loss of an eye, limb or life to a soldier.

It is interesting to watch the girls most of them quite young, handling the big machines, some automatic and some hand-fed, in the rooms where the cartridges are tapered and clipped. In this work eight girls are employed and each one handles 33,000 cartridges a day.

The girls employed on the gauger are especially expert, and have been in the arsenal a number of years. One girl gauges the cartridges and two inspect them. The gauger is also an expert inspector, and when the supply gets too large for the girls to handle she assists them.

The cartridge passes from the gauger to a weighing machine, and if the powder shot is the slightest degree underweight the machine throws it out. Every cartridge is weighed a second time. It is interesting to note that not an underweight cartridge has reached the Philadelphia section of the arsenal in five months.

Most Primitive Race of Men.

The North pole natives alluded to by Captain Amundsen in a recent lecture were discovered by him while he was navigating his little craft, the Gjoa, through the Northwest Passage in 1903-1907. He christened them Nechilli, and considered them to be the most primitive race on earth. No white man had ever before invaded their loy fastnesses. Consequently they were ignorant of the use of iron. Their fishing implements were long spears, fashioned out of reindeer horn. They knew no other method of procuring fire than that of rubbing two pieces of wood together. They were, in short still in the stage of civilization reached by our ancestors of the stone age. So cut off were they from others of their kind that they imagined their tribe was the only one in the world, and displayed the utmost astonishment when told of populous countries far to the south, where neither ice nor snow was. The Gjoa and her crew they thought to have dropped from the moon, and hath done marvelous things whereof hol shall be properly labeled in large the first Nechilli to come aboard felt the deck, masts, boats, oars, all the while whispering to one another in amazement: "How much wood there is in the moon-how very much!"
