so that she saw things locally; but, even in her realization that what she had a trace of weakness in, only the grace which had strength.

The two figures bent inward each other. There was a mighty straining, and the center between the two came away. A huge boulder had burst its path, and its removal let down a path, fresh air from the grove above, let down, too, a flood of dazzling light; and in the curving, undulating opening, stood the two statues, the survival of a great effort, the triumph of a great effort, the triumph of a great effort.

Old-Fashioned Weather Signs.

Here are a few weather signs which are probably older than any one living to-day. Experience has shown them to be fairly reliable, and some of them can be explained on a scientific basis:

Moonlight nights have the heaviest frosts.

The higher the clouds, the finer the weather.

The farther the sight the nearer the rain.

Dew is an indication of fine weather.

When stars flicker in a dark background rain or snow follow soon.

Expect a strong wind with stormy weather when smoke from chimneys hangs near the ground.

Here are a few in verse. They have the advantage of being easily remembered:

Clear moon, frost soon.
Year of snow, fruit will grow.
Rain before seven, fine before eleven.
If the sun set in gray, the next will be a rainy day.
When the wind's in the south the rain's in its mouth.
The wind in the west suits every one best.
If you see grass in January; lock your grain in your granary.
Evening red and morning gray help the traveler on his way;
Evening gray and morning red bring down rain upon your head.
When the clouds look like rocks and towers,
The earth's refreshed by frequent showers.
If you can get the official weather report by telephone, better count on that first. But the proverbs and jingles just given are better than a common guess.—Farm and Fireside.

One of the most pleasant features of Christmas Day in Green-castle was the early morning concert given by the Pan Pipers Glee Club. The Club sang from the town clock tower. The program consisting of all the well known Christmas carols. Quite a number of persons went to the square to hear them while others remained home and could hear quite distinctly the strains of "Holy Night" and "Joy to the World" through the still morning air. This custom of the Glee Club is a very beautiful one and greatly appreciated by the citizens of the town.

Conditions in Mexico.

A report having been published that conditions in Mexico City are good, being nearly normal and the railway trains running, a correspondent of the New York Sun has sent a communication that puts a different aspect on affairs. The correspondent says, in part: "The statements solemnly asserts that in Mexico peace is restored and suffering relieved, that business is better than at any previous time during the revolution, that the shops are well stocked and patronized, that the railroads are running on regular schedule, and that their properties have been given back to the companies which own them. These astonishing statements fail to find verification in the capital or its environs or the sections from which reports come at all. An automobile ride of twenty kilometres southeast of the national palace this morning brought one within range of the almost continuous fighting between the government and the Zapata forces. A walk in any direction from the national palace will bring one to a bread line. Even the government papers contain daily recitals of the greatest number of

We Should Smile.

The thing that goes the farthest toward making life worth while, that costs the least and does the most, is just a pleasant smile—the smile that bubbles from the heart that loves its fellow men will drive away the cloud of gloom and coax the sun again. It's full of worth and goodness, too, with manly kindness bent; it's worth a million dollars and it doesn't cost a cent. There is no room for sadness when we see a cheery smile. It always has the same good look—it's never out of style; it nervs us on to try again when failure makes us blue such dimples of encouragement are good for me and you. So smile away; folks understand what by a smile is meant—it's worth a million dollars and it doesn't cost a cent.

The Cantata.

The cantata given by the Methodist Episcopal Sunday School in the Auditorium Christmas evening was a high class entertainment and very much enjoyed by the large number of persons present. The members of the school who took the respective parts in the cantata, all did so well, that it would be invidious to make any distinction. Their teacher and manager Mrs. C. B. Stevens, is a past master, when it comes to pulling off a successful entertainment, and had it not been for a downpour of rain about the time for going to the entertainment, the room would have been filled.

WHY YOU ARE NERVOUS

The nervous system is the alarm system of the human body. In perfect health we hardly realize that we have a network of nerves, but when health is ebbing, when strength is declining, the same nervous system gives the alarm in headaches, tiredness, dreamful sleep, irritability and unless corrected, leads straight to a breakdown.

To correct nervousness, Scott's Emulsion is exactly what you should take; its rich "element gets into the blood and stimulates the tiny nerve-cells which with them responds to its refreshment. When we take it is free from alcohol and pills of soft se. Bloods, N. J. large ed ft
