Workmen are busy this week installing an acetylene light plant in Ex-Sheriff J. J. Harris's building immediately west of George W. Hays' store. Suggests Cowhide.

After hearing domestic troubles of several young couples in his court at Chambersburg last week, Judge Gillan reprimanded them for being so hasty in marriage. "If some one would take a cowhide," he said, "and apply it well on some of you young folks instead of marrying you to each other, it might do you more good. All these family splits and quarrels and divorces would not come into court if fewer boys and girls rushed off and married when the notion strikes them."

Lester Clopper and Robert Justice, mere youths, were released from jail on promising the judge that they would live with their girl wives and support them.

Recent Weddings.

MELLOTT-COOK.

On February 9, 1915, Mr. Orsian Mellott and Miss Bonnie Cook were united in marriage at the home of the officiating clergyman, Rev. E. J. Croft, Dane, Pa. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Mellott, near Harrisonville, and the bride made her home with Mr. and Mrs. James H. Mellott, near Saluvia. We wish this excellent young couple much happiness.

CLARK-CLIPPINGER.

Ernest C. Clark and Miss Edna Lee Clippinger, both of Wells township, were married in Hopewell by the Rev. W. W. Willard, January 15, 1916.

Interesting Entertainment.

The literary program rendered by the Grammar school last Friday afternoon in the Auditorium, reflects much credit upon the teacher, Miss Joan Morton and her pupils. Every one who took part in the exercises—whether in recitation, dialogues, or music did splendidly. A number of visitors were present, who greatly enjoyed the entertainment; but, after hearing the school sing "O dear, what can the matter be, parents don't visit the school" the regret was freely expressed that there are so many parents in town who do not seem to have any interest in the schools beyond "hiking" their children off in the morning trusting to Providence and the teachers to do the rest.

Badly Frightened Girl.

Judge Donald P. McPherson was called on last week to decide a novel case in Gettysburg. A young man and his prospective bride applied for a marriage license, and when the girl's time to answer came she could not answer any question—was not able to give her name—except as dictated by the young man. The clerk withheld the license until the Judge determined the girl's sanity. She seemed to be at ease in the presence of the Judge, and answered every question with out hesitation. She told him that she was so badly frightened when she appeared before the clerk that she simply could not answer. The license was promptly granted.

Chicken Dinner—25 Cents.

The members of the C. L. S. C. will serve a chicken supper in the room next to Charlie Scott's store, Tuesday, February 22, from 11 a. m. to 9 p. m., for the benefit of the School Library. The menu will comprise chicken, potato salad, coleslaw, hot biscuits and rolls, ice cream and cake, pickles, coffee—all for 25 cents. In addition to the regular supper, there will be on sale all the time, ice cream and cake, home-made candy, and a parcel post sale will be conducted. And since everybody in town should be public spirited enough to see the value of a good library, it is little as any one can do to patronize this effort—especially when you get a good 35-cent supper for a quarter.

Record Run.

Last Saturday morning about 6 o'clock a model "25" Maxwell Roadster went whizzing through town heading westward. It has since been learned that it was driven by Ray McNamara accompanied by B. F. Durham; that they had left Philadelphia at 2 o'clock that morning, and that they made the run from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh in 8 hours and 19 minutes—a good run for the condition of the roads—an average speed of about 36 miles an hour.

Parent-Teacher Meeting.

A meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association will be held in the Auditorium Friday, February 25th, when the following program will be rendered: 1. Singing. 2. Recitation by Helen Nace. 3. What Do You as Parents, Consider Your Duty to the School? by Dr. Mosser, Mr. Kirk and Mrs. Hull. 4. Solo by Dr. Bartholomew. 5. Address by Mrs. Peterman.

Attention is directed to the new advertisement of Smith Brothers, Mercersburg, the well known harness dealers. They have a well-earned reputation among Fulton county farmers for fair dealing.

False Economy.

One reason for the high cost of living is the demand for cheap goods which, of course, means poor quality. We know from experience that it now costs us three dollars a year for rubbers as against one dollar and twenty-five cents for one pair of the same kind ten years ago. The same is true of many articles of necessity in a family. In the case of rubbers, if the increased cost of crude rubber had been added to the retail price and quality kept up, so as to make them cost two dollars, we could still save a dollar a year. But the opposite took place, and the retail price has been lowered to one dollar, which is false economy. We believe that retail merchants try to protect their customers; but the customers demand the cheap grades—and there you are.

The World's Rubber Supply.

The world's production of rubber amounts to about 125,000 tons annually. South America supplies 40,000 tons of this amount; the East Indies, 60,000; Africa, 15,000; Central America 5,000, and divers other countries, 5,000. The product from the East Indies is all from cultivated trees. It is plantation grown. Most of the plantations, too, are young, with many producing now for the first time. Careful estimate has it that these cultivated trees, producing in 1908 only 2,000 tons, will produce, by the end of next year, one hundred times that amount, or 200,000 tons and, by the end of 1920 will be sending to the world's markets more than 300,000 tons. There is not, therefore, any immediate danger of exhaustion in the supply, and no good reason for an advance in the price of automobile tires.

Swearing.

Taking a business view of the matter of swearing, do you know a man of any considerable influence who is a great swearer? Will any man given to much swearing dare to admit to himself that he prefers the advice of another great swearer? Of all men who should rightly judge the calibre of swearing men, the swearer should be most proficient for, speaking for himself, down in his heart he knows that he feels the weakness of his words when he is compelled to distract attention to that weakness by the free interjection of oaths. We challenge any swearer to convince thoughtful men that the habit of swearing did not grow out of the feeling of a void—a feeling that they lacked sincerity and force, and that he did not try to make up for it by swearing. A rule by which men measure each other is language. Without even having thought of why, every man, woman, and child soon unconsciously classes the great swearer with those to whom he would not go in times of great distress—all for the foregoing reasons. Then, too, the swearer loses influence by reason of the disgust he arouses in the minds of his hearers. Everybody knows somebody who, by reason of good nature or some other attractive trait, would be a genial companion if it were not for the other fellow's swearing. But, fortunately, the loss is the greater to the offending party.

The profane man thus who seemingly has no regard for his influence on boys that are growing into manhood, should not forget that every time he utters an oath he is violating the specific law of God which says "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain." He should not forget, too, that he stands before the eyes of the world a criminal, for were it not for the charity of his friends, he would be arrested, taken before a Justice of the Peace, and be compelled to pay 67 cents and costs for every oath uttered. Quit your swearing.

Who Furnished Money.

Men rather than women financed the campaign against equal suffrage, and women rather than men contributed to the suffragists' funds, according to an analysis of campaign accounts made by the Woman's Journal. Under Massachusetts law detailed statements of receipts and expenditures have been filed with the secretary of state by both sides, and this examination showed that while more than three-fifths of the suffrage funds were raised by activities which represented gifts of time and labor as well as money, such as fairs, rummage sales and entertainments, less than a quarter of the money spent on the other side came from such sources. Most of the "anti" funds were personal contributions of money, and more than three fifths of these came from a group of men whose checks averaged $235 apiece. On the suffrage side more than four-fifths of the personal contributions were from women; on the other side less than one-fifth. Those who spoke of the "vast body of women opposed" seem to have gone elsewhere for the cold cash.—Springfield Republican.
