It worked to perfection, and now he will not have to chop wood while he rests at dinner time.

Ought to Be in Every Home.

"The Philadelphia Record" daily and Sunday, ought to be in every home. It is clean comprehensive, fair and fearless. It prints all news without sensationalism; rides no hobbies and it grinds nobody's axes; its columns cover every field of human interest and present, all the facts worth knowing about current events in concise, readable and attractive form. Its daily cartoon by DeMar is appreciated—and copied—all over the country. Its sporting page is authoritative. Farmers swear by its market reports. "The Record" was the first newspaper in Philadelphia to establish a department for women readers—and that department has led in its field ever since.

WHAT HAPPENED ONE DAY

This is what happened one day. Indeed, this is what happens every day. Telephone booths, washrooms and public conveniences in general are necessary attributes to our modern civilization.

In making use of them, however, we should be particularly careful to exercise reasonable precaution to prevent running any risk of infection from tuberculosis as might readily be possible under the conditions pictured above.

In the use of public telephones it is not necessary to place the mouth against the mouthpiece of the 'phone, as one often sees people doing.

As a result of the lengthy campaign of education which has been carried on by Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, Commissioner of Health, the last General Assembly abolished by law the public drinking cup and the common towel, two distinct menaces to the public health.

It is not uncommon to hear people say, "We used to get along without all these precautions." They forget, among other things, that our modern civilization is far more complex than formerly. The wonderful advances in transportation facilities in particular have made it possible for communicable diseases to be spread broadcast over the country if precautions are not observed.

A New County Atlas.

There has been compiled from accurate data, a new and up-to-date atlas of Fulton County. The copy is now in the engraver's hand, and it is hoped to have the atlas ready for sale by March 20th. It has been nearly fifty years since a complete map of the county was made, and our citizens are fortunate in being able to get a new one in atlas form.

The present generation has very little knowledge of the geography of their own county, and the coming book will give them this much needed and very important information. The price of the atlas will be so small that every family in the county can easily afford to have one. A more detailed description will be given next week.

Demolished Straw Stack.

The high winds last Sunday made a special drive on the big straw stack at Mrs. Keziah Johnston's barn. The top being frozen and heavy, it was hard to "get at," but, at last, the wind got a hold, lifted the whole top of straw and ice and plunged it against the barn with a crash. Then, a whirlwind just drew about two wagon loads of straw high into the air, carried it across the farm, and dropped it into the woods on the Sloan farm. When the wind subsided, the stack was entirely demolished.

Abscess Causes Loss of Arm.

About two years ago Charles Colledge, aged 26, living near Mercersburg, suffered from an abscess under the right arm. He paid but little attention to the sore and it appeared to heal; but a week or two ago, it reappeared, and became so painful that Mr. Colledge walked into Mercersburg and consulted a physician. The physician advised him to go at once to a hospital. He took the physician's advice and went to Chambersburg hospital, where he was told he had not come any too soon, for there was great danger in blood poison. The surgeons amputated the arm at the shoulder, and since the operation he is improving and will soon be able to return to his family.

Slightly Mixed.

After getting copy out, the editor of a neighboring newspaper went fishing and left the boys to make up and run off the paper. The boys were awfully scared when they pried a galley containing a wedding write-up and a public sale advertisement, but they gathered up the type the best they could, and this is the way it read when the paper was printed:

William Smith, the elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Smith was disposed of at public auction to Jennie Snow, on my farm 1 mile east of Possom Hollow in the presence of seventy guests, including the following, to wit: 2 mules, 12 head of cattle. Elder Scroggins tied the nuptial knot, averaging 1,256 pounds to the hoof. The beautiful home was tastefully decorated with 1 spade, 1 sulky plow, 1 feed grinder, 1 set of double harness, nearly new. Just before the ceremony was pronounced Meddlesome's wedding March was softly rendered by 1 milch cow, 1 Jersey cow to be fresh in August, carrying a bunch of flowers in her hand and looking charming in a gown made of light spring wagon, box of apples, 6 stacks of hay, 1 grind stone, muslin lingerie trimmed with about 100 bushels of Irish potatoes. The groom is well known and a popular young man and has always stood well in society circles of 12 Berkshire hogs, while the bride is an accomplished school teacher of a splen-did drove of Poland Chinas. Among the beautiful presents were two sets of silver-ware, 1 spring harrow, 1 wheelbarrow, 1 go-cart and other articles too numerous to mention. The bridal couple left Monday for an extended trip. Terms:—nine months time to responsible parties; others spot cash. Lunch will be served at the stable. After this Mr. and Mrs. Smith will go to house-keeping on the corner. Otto Sellwell, auctioneer.
