SALVIA SUMMARIZINGS.

The ladies of the Licking Creek valley are eager and anxious to get their gardens planted. The wet cool weather is keeping them back. It is about time the woolly worm prognostications should "let up."

We gladly note that Baitzer F. Mellott, so long prostrated with rheumatism and heart trouble, has got able to walk about some. He attended the sale of the M. E. parsonage and the household goods thereof last Friday.

It is reported that "Squire Charles W. Mellott has sold his farm—formerly the Jacob Daniels' dec'd homestead to George Samuel Mellott. We hope the Squire will next locate on the Lincoln Highway and suppress the high, dangerous speeding of illegal autoists, the hard cider and the booze traffic, the night-sneaking, the malicious trickery and mischief, and the rowdiness and bad conduct around the churches.

The wheat and rye are starting nicely and greening up—except in low ground in which it has frozen out very much.

The writer has noticed at different times since the first of January unusually large flocks of robins around and about the homes, fields and woods in this community. They are among the most beautiful of birds—fat sleek and of fine plumage. They are protected by law because they are insectivorous birds. They undoubtedly destroy millions of insects, worms, etc., which are so destructive to growing crops. The Pennsylvania State Commissioner John Philips, has sounded a warning regarding what he terms the great invasion of robins. He says they will become an expensive nuisance to fruit growers and gardeners, unless trees, such as the mulberry are planted to afford them food. As a bird lover, the writer hopes that this pessimistic view of the beautiful robin may not prove so disastrous as represented. Could it be that the wars in Mexico and Europe have led this beautiful bird to seek a more peaceful country.

Among the welcome attendants at the Palm Sunday and Holy Communion services at Greenhill Presbyterian church last Sunday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Peck, Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Yearick and Miss Netha Nesbit all of McConnellsburg; Mr. John B. Sipes and daughter Lillie, of Hustontown, and a number of persons from sister churches in the Valley. Come again, friends.

"AMERICAN CITIZENS FIRST."

Rev. Dr. W. H. Gotwald Comments Congressman Focht's Able and Courageous Speech.

When the Bill providing for restricted immigration was under discussion in the House of Representatives, Congressman Benjamin K. Focht, of the 17th Pennsylvania District, delivered one of the strongest appeals for labor ever heard in that body. This speech in folder form has been generally circulated and those who receive it should peruse the statesman-like deliverance. Of this speech Rev. Dr. W. H. Gotwald, 2918 P. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., well known throughout the Lutheran church fellowship and Christian work generally in Pennsylvania, wrote March 30th, 1916, the following concerning our Congressman's conception of immigration and its relationship to American labor.

Washington, D. C., March 30, 1916.

I am thankful for the excellent address recently delivered in the House of Representatives by Congressman Benjamin K. Focht, of Pennsylvania. I read it, not only with interest, but with decided profit. It is informing and convincing. It is comprehensive in conception, fine in diction, logical, and carries conviction in its tempered yet forceful statement of facts. Mr. Focht is certainly on the right side of this great, vital question, and I feel warranted in saying that this large constituency will give his address their earnest endorsement, and will feel proud that they have such a fearless and cultured Representative in Congress.

Cordially yours,

W. H. GOTWALD.

For eyes to last a lifetime

All the winter day you look forward to the evening, to serving supper, to seeing the family gathered in the sitting room—father reading, the young ones getting their lessons done, you yourself sewing—all surrounded by a soft flood of light from the beaming lamp on the center table.

That same lamp is important, for upon the light it casts depends the good eyesight of your family. To avoid any possibility of eye strain and the headaches and nervousness that follow, make certain that each room—sitting room, parlor, kitchen—is lighted by Rayo Lamps.

And to get the very best results, fill 'em with Rayolight Oil. Rayo Lamps are mechanically perfect—they never sputter nor smell, they do throw a flood of light, mellow light—a light that is ideal for reading, sewing or playing. And the Rayo a beautiful lamp—special designs for parlors—but every Rayo Lamp came easily and quickly cleaned.

Of course, Atlantic Rayolight Oil is best in Rayo Lamps, but it will improve the light of any lamp. Really the best for heating, lighting and domestic use. It burns without smell or smoke, and it burns economically.

As a result of our widely advertised request, thousands of careful housewives tell us that Atlantic Rayolight Oil is the very best thing they know for polishing windows and mirrors, brightening faded carpets, restoring linoleums, etc. Naturally, for this kind of work, it is important to get the very finest grade of kerosene—so be certain to ask your dealer for by name. It costs no more than the unknown, untried kind.

The large increase in deaths due to these two diseases made the death and birth rates nearer equal than they have been in months. The number of deaths was 13,150 and the number of births 18,114. Ordinarily the birth rate is about double that of the death rate.
