WELL KNOW POWER OF DRESS

Women Need No Instructions From Men as to How They Shall Attire Themselves.

Women dress the way they want to fress. They need no instructions as to modesty or propriety. From a very early age they understand perfectly their powers both of allurement and of Women who expose their bodies know that they are doing it, and they know exactly why they are doing it. So do men.

Modesty comes from within. Immodesty comes from thence, likewise. Thorough modesty in women's dress s wholly consistent with the utmost of feminine beauty and attractiveness. The sex appeal is quite another mat-

For uncounted generations women have been the chattels of men. We know what that means. The day of finer, truer companionship between men and women is but just dawning. The movement has not progressed very far, but it is going ahead every day. The distance to be traversed, however, is still great. Meanwhile, the instinct to appeal to the purely physical in man will persist, and women who know no better will dress themselves accordingly.-New York Warld.

Of Course Not.

their fatuous assumption of wisdom." "That's because you don't go about it right. The sort of conclusions they reach in the Sunday newspapers should never be taken seriously."

When some men start out to bok for the deserving poor their first stop is before a mirror.

Silent Evangelism

By REV. HOWARD W. POPE of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago

TEXT-And the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations.-Rev. 27.2

The indiscriminate use of tracts by those whose zeal exceeds their wis dom has led many good people to question their value. It is foolish, however, to allow our prejudice against poor tracts to blind as to the value of good ones, and good ones can be had. The choicost thoughta of the best writers can now be found in leastet form, and many a soul has been awakened by one of these silent messengers which God has put into the hand at just the right

A man stepped into a street car in New York, and before taking his seat gave to each passenger a little card bearing the words, "Look to Jesus when tempted, when troubled, when dying," One of the passengers carefully read the card and put it in his pocket. As he left the car he said to the giver, "Sir, when you gave me this card I was on my way to the ferry, intending to jump from the boat and drown myself. The death of my wife and son had robbed me of all desire to live, but this card has persuaded me to start life anew. Good-day, and God bless you."

There is no such thing as chance in this world, and those who seek to be led by the Spirit often find themseives messengers of mercy to some weary soul. A lady once traveled two hundred miles to tell the writer personal ly how a card which he had given her had led to her conversion. It lay in her bureau drawer, bearing its silent testimony from time to time as she read it, until finally it led her to Christ.

Some ministers make constant use of leastets in their personal work They open the way for conversation, and often they are better than words, for a soul under conviction is some times disposed to quarrel, but one cannot quarrel with a tract. It never loses its temper, never answers back, and it sticks to what it has said. Besides, you can send a leaflet into many places where you cannot go yourself. People in sorrow or sickness love to be remembered, and boys think more of a minister who occasionally gives them a bright leaflet. A man wrote me that in a town where he had used. Why a Boy Should Be a Christian." forty-five people on their examination for church membership testified that they attributed their conversion mainly to that leaflet.

Housekeepers can use tracts to good advantage. Lay them on the parlor table that callers may read they waiting. Often there is time enough for one to be converted while a lady is finishing her totlet. Give them to the milkman, the grocer, the postman; inclose them in letters, library books and packages. Business men bave fine opportunities for this kind of work. A man once said, "I cannot speak in meeting, but if you will supply me with choice reading matter, I will pay for it and inclose it in the packages which go out of my store." Recently a customer uttered an oath in a New York business house. The proprietor quietly handed him a "Little Preacher" entitled, "Why Do You Swear?" The man read it tears came to his eyes. and he said, "I beg your pardon, sir." "Never mind me," said the other, "but don't you think you had better ask God's pardon? It was his name that you profaned." "I will do it, sir," said the man, and he shook his hand warmly. It is not an easy matter to rebuke a swearer, but anyone can say, "Here is a leastet which you may find helpful," or he can mail one to every profane person whom he knows.

Teachers can make good use of leaflets. Those who cannot talk with their pupils can put into their hands the wise words of others. Old-fashloned tracts will not do for boys. They want something which sparkles with life, which rivets the attention. and which stops when it gets there.

This is a busy age, we all know. People have not time, or think that they have not, to read books on religion, but if you put into their hands something which is attractive, interesting, and which can be read in a few minutes, it is sure of attention. I am convinced that anyone can easily multiply his influence twentyfold by a wise use of printer's ink.

Never give away a tract unless you know its contents. Use all the tact you have and pray for more. An old man said to a train boy, "No, I don't want your popcorn, don't you see I haven't any teeth?" "Buy some gum drops then, nice fresh gum drops." That boy knew how to adapt himself to his customers, and so should we. A physician told me recently that three times in three different cities, and at intervals of about a year, someone put into his pocket without his knowledge a little card containing the words, "Have you a home in heaven. where the angels are, and where your mother is, etc?" The first two cards set him thinking, but the third came at a time when he had just lost his mother, and it led him to Christ. No one of the three people knew that they were supplementing each other's work, and yet they were. None of the three knew that any good came from the card which they dropped into the stranger's pocket, but he knew and God knew, and that was enough.

We shall never know all the good that comes from this kind of silent preach ing, but we know enough to make it almost criminal for us to neglect it.

LESSON FOR APRIL 30

PETER DELIVERED FROM PRISON

LESSON TEXT-Acts 12:1-19. GOLDEN TEXT. The angel of Jeboval encampeth round about them that fens him, and delivereth them. Pasins 24:7.

One day the "sons of Zebedee" de sired Jesus to grant a carte blanche petition. Pressed further as to their particular request, they petitioned for the seats of authority on the right and left hand of Jesus in glory. reply Jesus said that such a petition was not a proper one nor intelligently asked, but according to their in trepid assertions of willingness they should be baptized with his baptism of death (Mark 10:35-45), and that the greatest of his followers should be "servant of all." Today's lesson is a fulfillment of that prophecy.

1. Peter in Prison, the Church Pray ing (vs. 1-6). Persecutions had bees rosumed (9:31) after a temperary tull Some people serve Christ by living. others by yielding up their lives for his sake. James (not the one mentioned in chapter 15) was slalu and Peter's death delayed in order not to pollute the feast of the Jewish Holy week. Peter's position was perilous Sixteen soldlers guarded him in a Roman dungeon. But his enemies had left God out of their calculations and the believers had linked themselves through prayer with the source of all power. Against such a force Herod's cunning plan, whereby he might curry favor with the Jews (v. 3), is powerless. But it is now almost the hour for Peter's execution. Why the delay? The greater to demonstrate the power of God. Herod and the Jews cared not for, nor recognized, Easter, but God cared for his servant and honored the prayers of his saints. Peter's faith in the plans and purposes of God is indicated by his slumber and the need of being fully awakened by the angel. There are four things about that vigil of prayer (v. 5) offered by the church on Peter's behalf, which was so wondrously answered. (1) It was directed "unto God." Some prayers are offered to audiences or the ears of man, but not such as are answered. We have heard prayers, socalled, offered where the name of Jesus is never mentioned, and scarcoly the name of God. Literally (v. 5) this was a "stretch-out-ed-ly" prayer, and its earnestness was such as to circumvent this vile grandson of "without ceasing" ("earnestly" R. V.). There was a sincerity and an intensity of desire on Peter's behalf which language can scarcely express (See also Rom. 8:26). The same word is used of our Lord's prayer in the garden when "His sweat was as great drops of blood falling down to the ground" (Luke 22:44, Rom, 15:30, Col. 4:12, 13, R. V.) There is little such prayer gwered. (3) It was "of the church," t. e., it was a united prayer. Such prayers of definite individuals for definite purposes will produce definite re-II. Prayer Answered, Peter at Liberty (va. 7-11). The messenger of God (v. 7) brought light, yet the servant of God needed awakening, a suggestion to apply to our modern church life. His method of awaking Peter suggests that it often takes sharp blows to arouse us to our duties and privileges. The sinner has to be awakened before he can be delivered. Deliverance is more needed than sleep. Neglect is more dangerous than rebellion. Half-awake Peter nevertheless obeyed God's messenger. Mor did he seemingly stop to argue or ask for further particulars and explanations as so many sinners do. The record of this deliverance is most graphic. Peter did nothing but to follow, and as he obeyed, one after another of the seemingly unsurmountable difficulties which lay between him and freedom, melted away, even before he had time to lay so much as his finger to the task. If we obay God, what seems to man to be an absolute barrier, will be overcome, though frequently it is not removed until we are face to face with it even as Peter stood before first one gate and then another. Looking back many of us can exclaim of our deliverances that we "wist not that it was true."

III. Joy and Amazement (vs. 12-17). Peter, finding himself untrammeled and free upon the streets of the city. and no longer angel-accompanied, at once repaired to his friends. Do we seek the prayer meetings? It was startling indeed for the subject of their prayers to knock at the door; perhaps he should have been more considerate of their feelings. One, Rhoda, readily responded, and it was her persistent falth that finally overcame the lack of faith on the part of the others. While they were yet speaking God had answered (Isa, 65:24), but such a prompt and complete deliverance was not expected, and it amazed and bewildered them. Rhoda seemed to be expecting Peter, for as soon as she answered Pyter's rap at the door she recognized his voice (v. 14), and from sheer loy over the good news she was able to communicate it to those pray ing, but she neglected the important duty of opening the door for Peter. She was only a "maid" and her message was but foolishness (Luke 24: 11), which her elders sought to explain, but poor Peter still outside. 'continued knocking," which soon convinced those within, and upon opendoor they "saw him" and were

WORK FOR A DRY STATE.

A Trades Unionists' Anti-Boone League has been organized in Nobraska. It will work for the dry amendment to be voted on by the pec ple of the state next November. "Attempts to show that union labor as a whole is supporting the liquor interests will not be permitted to go unchallenged," says the president of the league, Mr. I. J. Copenharve of the Omaha Typographical union,

The league has issued the following

"The object of this league is to impress upon the general public that certain 'labor organizations' and 'Trade Union Liberty Leagues,' controlled by the liquor interests, do not voice the true sentiment of the labor organizations of Nebraska in their effort to make it appear that the laboring class is subservient to the whims of said Rouor industry.

"It shall be the aim of this organization to publicly disclaim in every way possible that union labor of Nebraska looks upon the use of liquor as an aid to its welfare and advancement, but rather that the use of intoxicating liquor is the greatest handlcap union labor has to contend with in making its fight for justice for the working class.

"The members of this league resent any effort of the liquor element to place union labor of Nebraska in the attitude of supporting an industry that never has and never can aid the workingman in his struggle for better conditions for himself and family."

WET BRAIN.

Dr. W. A. Evans conducts an "How to Keep Well" department in Chicago Tribune. The other day, under the above caption, he devoted considerable space to the drinker's brain.

"The man," he said, "who takes a social drink should know of a new danger that lies in store for him. It is wet brain. He has probably heard that drink lowers the moral tone, that it weakens resistance, that if he indulges presently he will be unable to resist, that it makes his judgment poor, and that, finally, he develops delirlum tremens. Delirium tremens was the veil beyond which nothing lay,

"Doctors Sceleth and Belfeld now come forward with the warning that beyond delirium tremens lies wet brain, that only one man in four attacked by wet brain recovers. And Doctors Sceleth and Beifeld ought to know, for the former has been physician to the bridewell for many years Herod the Great, (2) It was made and he has cared for about 2,500 drunks a year during all of that time. A great many of these drunks bave had delirlum tremens. Many of them have had wet brain. Most of the wetbrain cases have died and autopsy has been made on them. Every drink is a mixed drink. There are no other kinds. When a man takes a drink, however simple it may be, he mixes in some degeneration of his nerve cells, to be found, but once found it is an- some chance of delirium tremens, and a few other ingredients. Let him understand that he also pours into the unity is the evidence of the Spirit's glass about one finger of wet brain."

CONSUMPTION OF ALCOHOL.

That the use of beer and wines does not tend to decrease the consumption of strong liquors, is shown by Gabrielson, a Swedish statistician who has published the results of his researches. The figures are for the period 1906-1910.

France consumes more than three times as much alcohol per capita as the United States, due to its general use of wine. Italy consumes nearly three times as much, Spain twice as much, Greece twice as much, Switzerland twice as much, Portugal nearly twice as much. Belgium consumes considerably more alcohol, although it is one of the leading beer countries. In Germany 49 per cent of the total drink consumption is of spirits, while in the United States more than 55 per cent of the total drink consumption is beer, which seems to indicate that the Germans, despite their beer prejudices, use considerably more spirits per capita than the United States.

A GREAT LESSON. Among the incalculable losses resulting from this great war there stands out prominently one benefit; it has brought to all countries engaged in it-and to others-a realization such as they never had before of the relation between alcohol and efficiency. Something, and perhaps much, of that new knowledge is sure to remain after peace returns, for, of course, it is not only with success in fighting that strong drink interferes, or only in war that men need to have all their wits about them all the time.-New York

Look and Feel Clean, Sweet and Fresh Every Day

Drink a glass of real hot water before breakfast to wash out poisons.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, cat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a datsy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagpant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus c'eansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from any store that handles drugs which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.-Adv.

Wind Watches by Motor, While the winding of one's watch would seem to call for only a small amount of energy, it assumes a significant aspect when multiplied several hundred times, as in the instance of a watch-repairing concern in New York city, part of whose work it is to wind 700 or more watches each day. To facilitate the work the firm uses an electric motor, which drives a small, feltlined socket through friction drive. It is only necessary to start the motor and hold the stem of the watch against the felt-lined socket to wind the timepiece. When the watch is wound the tightened spring overcomes the prossure between the motor pulley and the fraction disk, with the result that slippage takes place. Simple as this cledtric watch-winding equipment is, it has replaced several men formerly required for the work.
