A Rainy Day Thought.

It rains on the just and on the unjust. The showers that make the desired crops grow, also make the weeds grow. There is a suggestion in this as to what constitutes right and wrong. The stronger plants outgrow the weaker, and if our farms are filled with rank weed seed, it is but natural that the better we make conditions for growing of crops, the better will the weeds grow.

Looking into the lives of men, we see a striking analogy to farm crops, the results in both instances depending on the seed. If in our lives the weed seeds are the stronger, the very civilization that favors the growth of the good will only hasten the bad, because the greater a bad man's intelligence, the greater his power for evil.

The Philadelphia Record.

Good fiction appeals to the whole family—and there are scores of other features in "The Sunday Record" that help to account for its eager reception in cultivated homes. Its departments devoted to sports, fashions, domestic science, society, music and the drama, invention, art, the school and the nursery, set the standard in their respective fields. Its varied appeals to the serious and the humorous side of life interest young and old of both sexes. The addition of its new story section makes "The Philadelphia Record" a complete Sunday newspaper.

A Modern Version.

A Long Island teacher was recounting the story of Red Riding Hood. After describing all the woods and wild animals that flourished therein, she added: "Suddenly Red Riding Hood heard a great noise. She turned about, and what do you suppose she saw standing there, grazing at her and showing all its sharp, white teeth?"

"Teddy Roosevelt!" volunteered one of the bops.—New York Times.

Out West.

Here are some clippings from the Oklahoma Farmer—John Fields, editor. Contrast them with eastern notions of farming. "Buy a cow, a sow, a dozen hens and a rooster."

The Oklahoma legislature is struggling with the question of usury. Mr. Fields says "If not a single farmer in Oklahoma during the next thirty days would agree to pay more than 10 per cent annual interest, there would be no usury question."

"George Wood and Son grew 1,800 bushels of peanuts in 1915 on 33 acres, at a total cost of 18 cents a bushel."

"Early sown oats make the best of early hog pasture."

"A new way of killing gophers and prairie dogs is to run the exhaust of your automobile in the runways for about two minutes then plug the hole."

"One hundred and fifty styles of saddles in stock" is part of a Texas dealer's advertisement in that big paper.

"Plant a patch of peanuts. They are a sure feed crop of great value where there is no alfalfa."

Eddie Did What He was Told.

"Eddie," said a mother, "I wish you would run over and see how old Mrs. Smith is. She has been quite ill."

In a few minutes Eddie came running back and reported; "She said it was none of your business."

"Why, Eddie!" said the astonished mother. "What did you ask her?"

"Just what you told me to," replied the little innocent. "I told her you wanted to know how old she was."
