Greatest Love

he gave his only begotten son that who-oever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life.-John 3:16.

What would you think if God should rite across the sky in flaming letters of fire the statement of his love for the world, would you believe it? Well, he has not written it there, but he has written It large in the Bible which is the story of his tove, Of course the Rible tells us other things; but above all, it tells us this, and nowhere better than in John 3:16. Love's Message.

There we read the statement of his love, "for God so loved the world." Note the sweep of the word world; not in this place, does it mean the universe; but mankind, and by it all are included. Nowhere is there such a love as this, a love which loves the unlovable. We love those who have that in them which draws our love. God, on the other hand, "commendeth his love toword us in that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us." Note the intensity of the statement of his love, "so loved the world." It's a little word, but what an emphatic one. It is a word of degree, expressing the measure of his love and should not be hastily passed over. "So" puts the warmth into the statement; "so" expresses the fire that burns in love, and to you and to me, who are unworthy of God's love, it has a wealth of meaning. How the statement should warm our hearts! Who is there who will not respond in love to God who first loved us? Love's Sacrifice.

But more to us than this statement, is the expression of God's love, "that he gave his only begotten son." Love is not measured by words, but by deeds. It is not what one says, but what one does that proves his love. Culvary is the great expression of the love of God for the world. There God was in Christ, reconciling the world to himself; there God broke his heart for a lost world. What matchless love! Angels and cherubim stand before it amazed, while a world wrecked by sin is stolidly indifferent. What a message Calvary volces! No condemnation, save for him who deserved it not; no upbraiding of a sinful world; just the expression of God's love in an act of grace which cared

We have here as well the purpose of God's love, "that whosoever believhurt the devil. So that "big business" eth in him should not perish but have was intensely stirred up in the city everinsting life." The statement and of Ephesus. Demetrius, their leader," the expression of God's love find their onsummation in the purpose, the sal vation of the lost. But the salvation of the lost is not universal, as we shall see, for it is "whosoever believeth shall not perish but have everlasting life." That word, "whosoever," makes the matter personal. It tells us that God, having done his part, now leaves It to us to do ours. He does not coerce or force us; he says, "whosoever believeth shall not perish." While the word "whosoever" individualizes sulvation. It makes a wide open door for all. For who is shut out, since "whosoever" will may come? It is a matter, then, of our own choice. We may or may not believe as we please, and accordingly we shall be saved or very enthusiastic religionists if they lost. Love's Purpose Realized.

LESSON FOR AUGUST 20 RIOT AT EPHESUS.

LESSON TEXT-Acts 19:23-41.

GOLDEN TEXT-The love of money is the roor of all kinds of evil -1 Tim. 6:10 Teachers ought to have good maps and keep before the minds of their classes both the ancient and modern names of the places Paul visited, Paul resided at Ephesus nearly three years. A. D. 53 to 56. The events of this lesson occurred about three years after our last lesson in Acts.

I. The Missionary Work of Paul (vy, 1-10). How long Paul remained at Antioch after his second journey we do not know, but having passed through the "upper coast" he came to this city of Ephesus, which was no important city and a great mission field. In Revelations 2 and 3 is a list of the churches which he evangelized from this center. It was a great and effectual door for him (I Cor. 6:9; read also Acts 20:17; 2:35). In this city Paul found a religious guild of 12 members (see vv. 2-7), whose religious experience needed the enrichment of the Holy Spirit; a like need is ever before the Christian church.

II. The Miracles Wrought by Paul (vv. 11-20). Ephesus was a center of magic and witcheraft, and special power was given Paul to work miracles which confounded the magicinns In this, their stronghold. The Gospel proves its power most and best by transforming the characters of men. Deeds of love and service are the best proofs of Christianity, and these are the things which awaken heathen nations to seek after the Christian religion. But such deeds are often imitated as in this case. (See v. 13.) However, only the real spirit of Christ can work the true workings of the Gospel, and thus the name of the Lord Jesus was magnified in Ephesus. Imitation is often the sincerest form of flattery. III. The Mob's Attack Upon Paul's Work (vv. 21-41). The first result of Paul's work was the burning of the books of magic (vv. 18-20). Many who had been dupes of the magleians censed their secret practices and declared their wrongdoings in this pubfic manner. Literally, book after book was thrown into the fire, much the same as in Florence Savonarola had his "bonfire of vanities." Paul's wonderful success had to have its testing before he left. The Gospel "way," the way of salvation, of true living, is sure to create a stir sooner or later. Preach the Gospel faithfully and fully, and it will stir up any community. It is not necessarily a bad sign when things begin to be disturbed. It may simply indicate that the fire is getting hot. The good results of revisals do not hurt business, but they do

LABOR CONDEMNS SALOON. "The time has come in this country

when even men who take an occasion al drink and feel it their right and privilege to do so, if they please, are coming to agree that it is not right for a man to make it his business to cultivate the vices of a community, and to take from men money that belongs to their familles, giving them in exchange liquid madness, bru tality, insanity and damnation."

These words were spoken by Rev. William B. Millard in an address at a remarkable labor meeting held in Garrick theater, Chicago, "The labor union, like the church," continued Mr. Millard, "should regard the open sa loon as its greatest enemy. The time has come, nay is so near, that the rosy radiance of the glorious dawn already greets our eyes, when the saloon will be abolished and the barkeeper out lawed, so that a man may no longer be waylaid on payday and sent home to his broken-hearted wife and terrified little ones a raging, loathsome penniless beast."

Tremendous applause greeted these sentiments. The theater was packed to utmost capacity with representatives of union labor.

RED ROSES INSTEAD.

The place formerly occupied by one of Spokane's most notorious saloons is now a "brilliantly lighted, cleansmelling" market where "chops, cabbages and groceries replace the foaming brew" once sold there in great abundance. At the same counter where "red noses" were formerly in line, a fair malden now dispenses "red roses," and at the site of the former "big bar," young men are now busy dealing out fresh meats of all kinds. Nobody but the former brew er and saloonkeeper complains that "business is ruined under prohibition. "Spokane is feeling right smart ble. pert under prohibition, thank you!"

CUTS CITY'S EXPENSES.

Mayor Anderson of The Dalles, Oregon, furnishes this bit of testimony:

"Since the first of the year, when the prohibition law went into effect, all lines of business have improved. This changed condition is particularly noticeable in groceries and meat markets, both cash business and collections showing a marked gain. The following figures are taken from our official records and show the effect of prohibition on the police court:

The spectacle of the American fing depicted in its natural colors vividly on low, overhanging clouds one night caused a sensation among superstitious people of Pottsville, Pa., many of whom considered the national emblem in the heavens to be an omen of approaching war.

Cockroach a Troubler.

Recently while inspecting a large plant attention was called to a peculiar inclifent. On a branch circuit there was some peculiar trouble. Fuses would blow out at various intervals running from one-half to twenty-four hours. says the Popular Science Monthly. At first no attention was paid, but when the ground detector started to show signs of trouble, first on one side and then on the other, an investigation was made. Covers were removed from the outlet boxes and from one box a shower of live and dead cockroaches fell on the head of the examiner. On looking into the box, it was found that the insulation around the joints and especially at the points had been entirely eaten away, the vibration do-

How easily the purpose of God is realized, so far as man is concerned, If only we choose to come. No difficutty task is put before us, no impossible requirement, simply believing in Christ. And this means more than having an historical faith or a general religious belief; it means committing one's life to him: trusting him and him only to save. So easy, yet so hard for some to do, because it is the surrendering of one's self absolutely to Christ that he may save, "I know," says the apostle, "whom I have belleved, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day." This anyone can say who really trusts Christ to save, for "he shall not perish but have everlasting life."

Why not, as you read this, trust Christ to save you? It is so easy to rely upon him. An old lady sat in a railroad train bound for Bay City, Mich. She had not traveled much and was afraid she was not on the right train. Nervously she arose and spoke to the woman in front of her: "Is this the train for Bay City, Michigan?" "Yes, madam," the woman replied. But the old indy was not satstied. Perhaps the woman was mistaken. Women sometimes are mistaken. A man was reading his paper across the aisle. "Pardon me," she said, addressing the gentleman, "is this the train for Bay City, Michigan?" "Yes, madam," he replied without looking up. She returned to her sent still not certain, for men sometimes are mistaken. Just then, down the aisle came the conductor of the train. "He will know," the old lady said to herself, "I'll ask him," "Pardon me, sir, is this the train for Bay City, Michigan." "Yes, madam," the con ductor replied, as he passed on. She heaved a sigh of relief, as she sank back into her seat and, putting her face against the window pane fell fast asleep. What had she done? Taken the conductor at his word. He was a man with authority and she trusted him. Christ speaks to you, my friend, he is one with authority and knows whereof he speaks. Why not, just as the old lady trusted the conductor, sweetly trust him and have life and utiered a striking and truthful commendation of Paul (v. 26), although it was entirely unintentional. (See I Thess, 1:9-10). Demetrius does not seem to seek to controvert the preaching of Paul, or that it did not square with the word of God, but rather that it would interfere with financial considerations. The modern world is full of descendants of the Ephesian silversmiths,-politicians and business interests which defend the saloon, and fairly respectable citizens who receive rents from such business, or from immoral or unsanitary properties, and who cry out against any reform which Interferes with trade and money making. There are many today who are can coin money out of it or get into an office. His statement about all Asia and the world worshipping Diana was not true, nor did he care the least about Dinna.

Some were enroged because they saw their business going to pieces; some because they saw their religion going upon the rocks; and there was a considerable number who desired to re-establish business and religion at the same time. Therefore the united cry, "Great is Diana of the Ephesinns."

At this theater meeting (Paul was not present, vv. 29, 31) Demetrius appealed (1) to wealth, (2) to religion, (3) to the honor and fame of the city, and (4) he also made an esthetic appenl. (vv. 25, 26, 27). The Jews put forward one of their number, Alexander, to make a defense unto the people, and to show that they were not in sympathy with Paul and his companions in their preaching against the worship of Diana or that as Jewish Christians they did not maliciously hope to destroy the worship of Diana and the business interests of that city. Their effort, however, only stirred the mob to a larger shout, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians," which lasted for two hours. Those who yell the loudest think they are sure to prove their point, though in such a way the point does not stay proved. Paul combines fearless courage and humble common sonse, and, while he fain would apneal to the mob (v. 30), he refrained. The mob must soon awaken to the manilness and spirit of Paul's soul. It was the town clerk who interfered (v. 35-41) and by skillful management quelled the excited mob. He was the temple keeper and showed that the worship of Dinna was so settled in Ephesus that no company of Jews could overthrow it, and that they did not have any real cause for violence. He also emphasizes the fact that the image of Diana, their chief god, had been miraculously sent to them by Jupiter. He called attention to the fact that Paul had not committed the wrong of which he was charged. Paul was not a robber of churches. He had preached simply the gospel of Jesus Christ, and his converts had not blasphemed the goddess.

TEETOTALERS WIN.

In Germany a walking contest was conducted over a course of 62 miles. Eighty-one men entered the contest, of whom only 24 were abstainers, but the first four men who crossed the line were abstainers. Of the ten prizewinners, six were tectotalers and two had been abstaining for some time while in training. More than half of the non-abstainers fell out by the way, but only two of the 24 abstalners.

THEY WORK ANYWAY.

"It's the women," growled a portly saloonist. "They are behind all of this. They will find out. If they are going to run things, we are going to let them work." Whereupon, his quickwitted listener remarked, "The wives of drinking men always have had to work. If they have to choose between a sober husband and work, or a drunken man and work anyway, I think they will take the dry man.'
