Kidney Disorder

(BY DR. V. M. PIERCE.)

The most simple methods are usually the most effective ones when treating any disorder of the human system. The mere drinking a cup of hot water each morning, plenty of pure water all day, and a little Anuric before every meal has been found the most effective means of overcoming kidney trouble. Death would occur if the kidneys did not work day and night in separating poisons and uric acid from the blood.

The danger signals are backache, depression, pains, heaviness, drowsiness, irritability, headaches, chilliness, rheumatic twinges, swollen joints or gout.

Since it is such a simple matter to slip into your favorite drug store and obtain Anuric, anyone who earnestly desires to regain health and new life will waste no time in beginning this treatment.

DELAWARE NEWS

Bethany Beach, Del.—"I had a complete break-down from overwork, so the doctor said. I surely was a complete wreck and suffered terribly from bladder and kidney trouble. In fact, I was down on the flat of my back for about two weeks, could not do anything. My suffering was so great I can't explain it. The doctor said I had inflammation of bladder and kidneys. He came every day and finally managed to get me up and around, but I still was a great sufferer. I never got much relief until I began to take Dr. Pierce's Anuric, and from the very first dose I began to get relief, and in two days I felt well, and I never have had one symptom since. I can't praise this medicine enough. I have been waiting to see if the pain would return, but I believe I am cured."—MRS. ALMIRA I. HENDERSON, Send Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. PROVED EQUAL TO OCCASION

Super's Blunder Merely Served to Show the Resourcefulness of Hamilton Footlites.

Dewey, discussing the naval battle of Skagerrak, said at a Washington luncheon:

"A naval officer, to succeed, must be very quick-witted and resourceful. In fact, he must be like Hamilton Footlites."

"Ham Footlites leaned on the rail of his sea-going yacht soliloquizing about love while the blue waves rolled and heaved splendidly, each blue wave being a super under a roll of canvas."

"But the waves were here and there threndare, and suddenly a wave ripped and a head-bobbed up in the midst of the heaving sea and stared around in bewildered fashion."

"Ham Footlites silenced the audience's titters with one stern glance."

"Man overboard!" he yelled in stentorian tones.

"Then the super, managing to draw back his head through the hole in the wave, disappeared. Ham Footlites heaved a stormy sigh."

"Another victim seized by the relentless sea, alas," he said.

CANCER RELIEF IN SELENIUM,
DOCTOR SAYS

Drug Treatment Is Used On 200 Patients in Five-Year Test.

MARKED SUCCESS IS SHOWN

Physicians Believe Cure May Result from Experiments by New Method—Local Treatments, However, Necessary as Makeshifts, Have Been Based on Makeshifts.

New York.—Marked success in the treatment of cancer by selenium has been announced in medical publications by Dr. Charles H. Walker, of 327 West Eighty-sixth street, this city. Selenium is a powerful chemical which, taken internally, in capsules, has relieved suffering in many cases and in others has effected an apparent cure.

Dr. Walker, however, does not say he has found a cure, but he firmly believes the treatment is worthy of a thorough trial.

"I have treated in the last five years more than two hundred cases," Dr. Walker said to a New York Tribune reporter. "In many of them diagnosis had shown beyond all question the patient was a cancer victim, and in a few was there much ground for doubt. I can safely say in no case was there a total failure in favorable results from the use of selenium."

Believes Cure Was Made.

"Some of the patients were near death when I first saw them, and it was possible to do nothing but relieve a little of their pain. In other cases, said by specialists to be beyond help, I believe there has been a permanent cure. If selenium will only relieve pain it is worth using, and if it will cure, the treatment should be thoroughly investigated."

Sulfio-selenium, a combination of sulphur and selenium, the compound Dr. Walker uses, was worked out in cooperation with Dr. Frederick Klein, a biological chemist, of this city.

In 1911 Dr. Walker came to the conclusion, upheld by eminent authorities on cancer, the disease was not due to a germ, but to a certain peculiar condition in the body, which might be corrected by treatment with chemicals. Experiments with selenium were begun and have been continued the last five years.

First Clue to Treatment.

In a report published in "The Medical Record" in 1912 eminent surgeons stated the remedy for cancer might well be a chemical substance.

"It has long been the opinion of thoughtful students of the subject," says the report, "that local treatments for cancer, however, necessary as makeshifts, have been based on a misconception. It is quite possible, for example, that X-rays or the fulguration treatment may benefit a superficial cancer at its point of origin, but the danger of such growths lies largely in their spread to distant and inaccessible vital organs, where local treatment is impossible."

"We believe it, therefore, axiomatic that a scientific remedy for cancer shall be one soluble in the blood, transmissible by the blood and lymph currents to all parts of the body, and possessed of a selective affinity for the cells of the tumor to be destroyed."

"Such a remedy may quite conceivably be a chemical substance existing in the outside world, and by happy accident discovered to have the desired properties."

Dr. Francis Carter Wood, director of the Crocker Cancer Research Fund, speaking on the laboratory study of the causes of the disease at a meeting of the New York Academy of Medicine last May, said it had been established, almost beyond question, that cancer was not a germ disease, nor in any way allied to germ diseases.

Dieting a Necessary Aid.

"Dr. Klein and myself have probably not found the final chemical form in which the use of selenium will be most effective," said Dr. Walker, "but we hope to. Its use must, of course, be accompanied by the strict dieting inevitable in all treatments of cancer."

It is declared by medical authorities one of the greatest difficulties in the way of determining the actual value of proposed cancer treatments, even where several hundred cases are under observation, is the question of diagnosis. This can seldom be made with absolute certainty unless the cancerous growth can be seen. In many cases this is brought about only by operations.

In many of Dr. Walker's most successful cases no question of doubtful diagnosis can be raised. One patient was an Italian laborer, twenty-one years old, operated on at the Massachusetts General hospital, in Boston. He was discharged from the hospital after a microsopical examination had resulted in a diagnosis of cancer of the stomach. The hospital chart showed the operation had "relieved" him.

The patient came under Dr. Walker's care eighteen months later with all the signs of recurrent cancer. He was treated with selenium and a rigid diet enforced. This was continued for a year, with intervals of cessation from all medication, and was stopped last January. Two weeks ago the man was working as a day laborer, had suffered no pain from the cancer in more than a year, had a good appetite, good color, and had gained 30 pounds since he began the treatment.

Treatment was as successful in the case of a man fifty-nine years old. He was told after diagnosis at Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, that he was suffering from cancer of the tongue. Radium was applied in April and June, 1915, but the patient told Dr. Walker that he continued to grow worse. In July, 1915, treatment with selenium was begun and continued for several months, at the end of which he returned to his home in Canada with the ulcerations healed. Last July he wrote Dr. Walker that there had been no sign of recurrence, and he was attending to business regularly.

A woman, forty years old, was operated on for cancer at St. Luke's hospital in 1912. A microscopic examination confirmed the diagnosis. The trouble returned in 1913 and the selenium treatment was administered for a year. Last August the patient said she felt better than she had for many years and was suffering no pain whatsoever. She was still gaining weight, though the treatment had been discontinued almost two years before.

One of the most remarkable cases is that of the manager of a Stock Exchange house, who in July, 1914, when he was sixty-three, consulted two specialists and was told, following an X-ray examination, that he had cancer and could not live only a short time. He then weighed about 120 pounds. Treatment with selenium was begun and continued for a year; at the end of which he weighed 187 pounds and was attending to business. He has since continued well.

The distance between Chicago and New York as Carlstrom covered it is about 975 miles. During the entire trip he averaged about 110 miles an hour.

Young Tennessee Woman Loses Her Position Through Marriage to Sixteen-Year-Old.

Memphis, Tenn.—He is sixteen years old and she is twenty-two. They are married and they are happy.

Two years ago she was twenty, Miss Sadie Patrick of Arlington, Tenn., came to Memphis and secured a position in the public schools. She had one pupil to whom she became greatly attached. He was James L. Yarbrough, at that time fourteen years old.

This fall James was in the fifth grade. Miss Patrick was again his teacher. School ran along smoothly for a month. Then the principal noted a marriage license had been issued to James L. Yarbrough and Miss Sadie Patrick.

He questioned teacher and pupil. They admitted they had been married. The school laws do not permit married women to teach, so Mr. and Mrs. Yarbrough are making their home with the elder Mr. and Mrs. Yarbrough.
