Honey Crop Worth $1,360,800.

The honey bee in Pennsylvania during the past year produced honey to the value of $1,360,800 according to statistics just announced by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. It was one of the best years ever known to the industry in the State and the reports from all sections indicate that there is a gradual increase in the number of colonies of bees being kept on the farms and by orchardists throughout the State.

It is estimated that there are 140,000 colonies of bees in the State and the average production per colony was estimated at 54 pounds for 1916. This shows a production of 7,560,000 pounds of honey which at an average price of eighteen cents a pound makes the production of the busy bees worth $1,360,800. It is estimated that there are 28,000 bee-keepers in the State.

Secretary of Agriculture, Chas. E. Patton says:

"Pennsylvania is next to the greatest fruit producing State in the Union cannot be without her honey bees. The bees are so positively essential in the great plan of nature for the fertilization of blossoms and the setting of fruits, and their value to the State amounts to hundreds of thousands of dollars, or even millions of dollars in an indirect manner for the owners of fruit trees, as well as directly to the bee-keepers, for the honey they produce.

"Prominent fruit growers keep bees in their orchards for the purpose of performing their natural and important function of cross fertilizing the blossoms and insuring the setting of the fruit. Contrary to the popular opinion, bees are not injurious or obnoxious in cutting into fruits and grapes. They only suck out the juice from damaged fruits.

Thank You.

It was not a dough-nut party but a genuine Donation when many of the members of the Reformed Church took the parsonage by storm last Thursday evening and brought with them basket's full of necessary things for the physical life to the approximate amount of $25.00 and left it all for the enjoyment of the pastor and his wife. It was not only leaves and fishes they brought but heart's full of love and esteem upon which we can place no estimate. As we consume the many good things for bodily maintenance from day to day we shall be reminded of the kindness of our people and humbly give thanks to God for the pleasures we enjoy at the hands of his servants.

BE A BOOSTER.

There's nothing to be gained by nursing a grouch. It will not help your business. It will not help you. Be a BOOSTER for your own business, anyway.

We are boosting for our business in a modern way right now. We don't expect all the business but we want more business. We have built up a good strong creditable bank. The more patrons we have, the stronger our bank will become. We need your business. We want you to do business with this bank. But this is only one side of the question—our side. We can help you, also. We safeguard your funds. We offer you every accommodation afforded by any reliable bank. It's to your advantage as well as ours to make our bank your bank.

We have built up our business by boosting our own business. The business man who has a grouch is knocking his own business.

Come in and talk business over with us. We are always glad to exchange ideas.

The Producing Cost of Eggs.

"Eating dinner at a hotel the other day a traveling salesman lamented on the high cost of living and remarked that the farmers are now getting 45 cents a dozen for eggs in that very town," says L. W. Lighty, farm adviser of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. "I had the temerity to ask this man of business what he thought those eggs cost the farmer."

"Why nothing," he promptly replied.

"How would you thus produce eggs?" I again asked. "Why," said he, "the fowls pick up what would otherwise be wasted and the eggs cost the farmer nothing."

"As I am an adviser I promptly advised him to get 10,000 chickens and make his millions and get out of the 'slavery of the road.'"

"Who puts such fool ideas into the city people's heads? The other day I called on the phone an expert poultry farmer who has been in the business for years keeping from 600 to 1,600 chickens and asked him what it cost him what it costs now to produce a dozen of eggs and he stated it cost him in feed alone 62 cents to produce a dozen of eggs for the last month and the labor and the interest on the investment and insurance and the taxes he was trying to forget until conditions improve."

Feed Hens Hay.

"These winter days when the fowls are confined to the houses, try throwing a forkful of dry hay into the house each morning," says J. T. Campbell, Farm Adviser of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. "Clover is preferable, but any good bright hay will do, and use the leaves that shatter off on the barn floor. Note how the hens like this hay. They will eat many of the leaves and blossoms. I find hens frequently prefer the dry hay to that which had been scalded and mused over. This dry feeding is a great labor saver and can easily be tried on any farm where fowls are kept. The practice of using ear corn and permitting the fowls to pick it from the cob has much to commend it. I have observed that the grains of corn kept on the cob till the fowls are ready to eat it has a more favorable effect on the vitality of the bird than corn which has had the germ exposed to the air for several months."

Bazaar.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Burnt Cabins M. E. church will hold a bazaar at the home of Lemuel Cline on Thursday evening February 8th.

A quilt containing about 600 names will be sold; also, a variety of fancy work and other useful articles. A chicken supper will be served.

Proceeds for church benefits. Everybody come.
