What Well Dressed

IS CHILD CROSS, FEVERISH, SICK

Look, Mother! If tongue is coated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely. A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sours, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't ent. sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is conted, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for bables, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Adv.

Easter in

F ALL annual festivals among principal tavern or church, and ate in abundance is consumed, an affair to have made the most serious impression, and the customs connected with its first celebrations to have lingered the longest. Europe, with its many nations, and, therefore, many peoples, has ever been the scene of various ceremonies distinctly belonging to the separate countries, with the Letin church always in the lead in the matter of picturesque symbols and processions.

Strange customs, sometimes comfound oftenest in the rural districts, where the people have not free access to the towns, and simplicity of living does not question the difference between truth and tradition.

legends. The very people, quaintly dressed as they were a thousand years ago, suggest legends and traditions. When the faith of the Nazarene was first preached to their ancestors they held the mammoth stones which abound in the fields and countryside in deep veneration. The church united stories of wonderful stones with the word of Christ so that its teaching might sooner develop converts. Fete days were held in high esteem, and many queer beliefs and associations became entangled with the festivals.

On Easter morning at the Church of St. Cronley, in the village of Finistere, Brittany, every man, woman and child of the vicinity is in attendance. The women and children are in their best frocks and snowlest caps, and the men are leading the cattle to the door of this church, which would do credit to a city of size.

There the priest receives the men and animals, and while the women cluster around, gravely listening, the cattle are blessed and the care of St. Cronley invoked in their behalf. This saint is a great favorite all over Brittany; and, like so many traditions of the Bretons, his story is connected with the giant stones. It appears that he was a bishop of Rome come up to the province to convert the heathen. He was hunted by wild men until death seemed near, when suddenly every pursuer was turned into a stone, and so they stand today, one group forming a regular border along the road from Carnac to Kerlescant. Mounting many of these stones are crucifixes and on Easter morning the little processions passing through the fields and along the road to the nearest church stop and rest a few moments and offer up an Easter prayer. In scattered communities, where there are few towns, an Easter service is often held in the fields, and a sermon preached from a wayside shrine, set in one of the historical stones.

CLING TO ANCIENT CUSTOMS

in Rural England Forms of Easter Celebration Indulged in for Centuries Are Still Kept Up.

The mention of hot cross buns immediately suggests England, where they are used more universally than perhaps any other country. And while England is not a Catholic country, so-called, rural customs of all kinds, religious and otherwise, have an unusually firm hold. One of the very strangest Easter-day customs is called the hareple festival, enacted in Leicestershire, at the village of Hallaton. Every Easter morning a brass band heads a procession which takes in most everybody in the town.

They parade through the streets and after a short service at the Episcopal church the rector, aided by two or three officials of the village, cuts up a large rabbit ple, which has been baked for the occasion. These pieces of pie are fought for by boys and young men, down a hillside called Hare Bank, and it is considered something to be proud Other Lands of to deserve the largest cut of the

NEW WONDERS OF THE X-RAY

One of Its Most Remarkable Uses Is to Determine Age of Human Beings.

Of all the wonders that the X-ray is responsible for none is more remarkable than its ability to tell age in human beings. Recently in Cincinnati, a youth was arrested for striking and seriously injuring a fellow workman. He stated when he was arrested that he was nineteen years of age. Learning the seriousness of the charge against him, the defendant and his father asserted that he was but seventeen years old, and demanded that the boy be at once turned over to the juvenile authorities, as the law of this state prevents a prisoner under eighteen years of age being tried in a criminal court.

Thoroughly convinced that the youth was at least eighteen years old, the juvenile court physician decided to have X-ray photographs made of the epiphyseal bones of his hand, elbow and hip, and also photos of the same bones of a seventeen-year-old youth. Comparison, it was hoped, would then settle the matter, as it is a known fact in medical circles that when a boy reaches the age of eighteen years those bones become hardened.

The photographs developed from the X-ray pictures of the bones of the boys showed that those of the seventeenyear-old boy had not hardened, but those of the defendant in the case had done so. The physician immediately fixed the age of the boy at eighteen or more.

Did Uncle Smile?

Mr. and Mrs. Tompkins had "expectations" from their rich old Uncle Edward. So, when he came to them on a few days visit, they prepared to do all they could do to make a good impression, and commenced by meeting him at the station.

On the way home in a trolley car to a Boston suburb they encouraged their only child, also named Edward, to sit on the old gentleman's knee, or, as he was stout, as much of it as was avail-

Japan's Experience Costly. When the railways of Japan were first planned, the narrow gauge of 3 feet 6 inches was selected for them, because it was cheapest to build and equip, and was thought best suited to the country's narrow highways and steep grades. Now the 6,000 miles of Japanese railways, all of narrow gauge, are found to be sadly behind the times, and a movement is on foot to rebuild them to standard gauge, although the cost is estimated at nearly $450,000,000. At present the trains are slow, the fastest expresses making less than 30 miles an hour; the conches are low and parrow, and the sleeping cars are cramped and inconvenient; while most of the railway inventions of other nations cannot be used because of the difference in track gauge and size of cars. The director of imperial railways favors the change, in spite of the cost, and estimates that the main Tokaido line could be converted to broad gauge in 12 years and other lines on the main island of Japan within 25 years,-Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Dinner Mints. To make after-dinner mints you will need two cupfuls of granulated sugar, one-half cupful of water, a pinch of cream of tartar and one teaspoonful of peppermint. Even with war prices on sugar the ingredients cannot come to ten cents. Dissolve the sugar over the fire and add the cream of tartar. Let it boil without stirring till when tested in cold water it is brittle. Quickly pour out on a buttered platter. When the edges begin to look opaque, fold the cream toward the center and as soon as it is hard enough to handle, pull as you would pull old-fashioned molasses candy until it is white. The pepper mint flavor should be added in drops to the candy when pulling it.

The Giant Republic.

You could put all our United States (excluding Alaska) into Brazil and have 200,000 square miles left! There is said to be more unexplored country in Brazil than in all the rest of the world put together! If we had a river like the Amazon stretching inland from New York, the greatest ocean steamers afloat could sail through the heart of the United States as far as Omaha, Neb. And this land of big things will become as great commercially as she now is physically. Already four-fifths of the world's coffee is raised in Brazil.-Dan Ward in World Outlook.
