HITS QUALITY OF SERVICE

Says Members Should Be Willing to Perform Legislative Service at a Sacrifice to Themselves—Some Other Vetoes.

—Harrisburg. There is satire in Governor Brumbaugh's veto of the bill to increase the salaries of legislators from $1,500 to $2,500 a year.

"We are in the midst of a great war. Many sacrifices will be made. Many men will willingly give up time and money for the national good."

The Governor says in the course of his veto that like bills have been disapproved by his predecessors, and that members do not seek legislative places for the salary, and there is no lack of willing citizens for place.

Some Other Vetoes. Other bills vetoed were: House bill authorizing railroads to construct branches, which the Governor says is "vague and uncertain."

House bill validating claim of counties for bounties for scalps of animals which have been refused payment by the Auditor General.

House bill providing for the Governor to appoint an officer or employee of the State civil service or any of its branches, or employees by any county, municipality, township or school district.

The Governor also announced approval of the bill reappropriating $165,000 of unexpended National Guard appropriations to the improvement of the permanent camp ground at Mount Gretna.

Favors Fine Salary Boost. In announcing his approval of the House bill to fix the salaries of Common Pleas Court clerks of Philadelphia at $4,000 a year, the Governor says:

The Shame of the Gospel

By REV. L. W. GOSNELL, Assistant Dean, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—For I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ; for it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth: to the Jew first, and also to the Greek.—Rom. 1:16.

Why should we be ashamed of the Gospel? Men are not ashamed of per-versions of it. Our friends who have responded to modern "isms" talk of their duties in the parlor and on the street, hand us literature about them and invite us to their meetings.

It seems natural for them to do so. But there is something unnatural about our doing likewise in regard to the Gospel. Why?

We can understand why Paul might have been ashamed of the Gospel in Rome. Today the cross has become glorified in men's eyes, but then it was only the symbol of shame, and Paul preached as Savior one who was crucified between two thieves.

Many of the early Christians were of lowly station while Rome was the center of wealth, culture and power.

Things have changed somewhat, outwardly, yet we too find abundant temptations to be ashamed of the Gospel. Scientific circles often ridicule its teaching as to man's origin, condition and destiny.

The working man finds it takes courage to tell his companions of his conversion and school boys will jibe their fellow who dares to kneel at his bedside to pray.

Frances Ridley Havergal tells of attending a social gathering one evening where she was invited to sing. She selected a sweet hymn about Jesus and sang it, and as we read of it, we feel it was not easy to do that.

Why We Are Ashamed. And now it is time to try to give the real reason why Paul might have been ashamed of the Gospel at Rome, why we may be ashamed of it now, and, on the contrary, why the followers of new "isms" are not ashamed of them. We believe it is because of the different attitude taken towards man. The Gospel regards him as lost and undone, needing a Savior who redeems him by the death of the cross.

It tells him he must be born again, becoming a new creation. True, the Gospel holds before man a destiny such as has not entered his heart to conceive, but only sovereign grace can award this destiny. False religions, on the other hand, repeat Satan's lie, "Ye shall be as gods," and assure man he is abundantly able of himself to reach the heights.

The natural heart loves such flattery, but presents the attitude of the Gospel, while we, in our turn, are ashamed of it.

Paul tells, however, why he was not ashamed. First, the Gospel is a power. Of this there can be no doubt. For example, John Lawrence declared that however much the British government has done for India, the missionary has done more; the modern educational system of India sprang from Carey and Duff through Macaulay. Dr. Edgerton R. Young tells, in a fascinating way, how this same Gospel wrought changes among the American Indians for the far north, transforming them from improvident savages into owners of harvesting machinery and well-built barns and bounteous crops.

The Converted Medicine Man. But, this is not all; it is a power "unto salvation." Let others do with all their enchantments what the Gospel is doing every day—bringing peace to bad consciences, contentment to restless hearts, and hope to those whose outlook into the future is gloomy. We recall one story told by Dr. Egerton R. Young about an Indian medicine man. We are persuaded by his accounts and those of David Brainerd that many of these men were possessed by demons, just as spiritualistic mediums have their "controls." Doctor Young visited the man referred to and consented to eat with him. In an instant there was a gleam in the Indian's eye and he glanced at the medicine bag hanging on his tent pole. Doctor Young knew what the gleam meant; the Indian thought he would now be able to kill him by some of the powerful poisons in the medicine bag. Doctor Young boldly charged him with this murderous intent. The Indian covered under the rebuke, but that was all. Yet, after some weeks, this same poor creature was found clothed, in his right mind and sitting at the feet of Jesus. Surely we are not ashamed of a Gospel of power like this!

Third, this power is for everyone who believes, Jew or Gentile. The fact that all races and classes may enter into the blessing suggest that the Gospel originates with him who is Lord of all. The fact that it is by faith makes it available to every son of man. Where is place for shame with such a Gospel as this!

Ashamed of Jesus! Sooner far Let evening blush to own a star; He sheds the beams of light divine On this benighted soul of mine.

Ashamed of Jesus! That dear Friend On whom my hopes of heaven depend. No; when I blush be this my shame—That I no more reverse his name.

What is It to Believe? And now, dear reader, what is that belief, that faith which brings us salvation? It does not mean mere belief in a creed, or anything of that sort. It is rather trust in a person—and surely the Savior of sinners is altogether trustworthy. Venture, then, upon him and salvation is yours, for "with the heart man believeth unto righteousness and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation."

Temperance Notes

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

MAKE THE MAP ALL WHITE. O my comrades, have you heard the glorious news that's going around. There'll very soon be no saloon on all Columbia's ground.

There's a wave of Prohibition rolling up from every strand And all the states it inundates straightway become dry land. Maine is at the head, for she has led for half a hundred years, And Kansas great and North Dakota stand among their peers.

Georgia next and Oklahoma won a place among the free, Alabama, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee, West Virginia, and Virginia too, and Colorado's white.

Arizona then, with Washington, and Oregon's all right, Arkansas and Iowa came next, with Idaho for mate, And then came South Carolina, the old Palmetto state. Then Michigan, who speeded up, Montana great and grand, Nebraska's rolling prairies and South Dakota land.

Then along came Indiana, the Hoosier state so dear; And Utah also said good-by to whiskey, wine and beer. New Hampshire next, the Granite state, then sounded liquor's doom, She sternly told John Barleycorn, "For you we have no room."

The District of Columbia, on old Potomac's shore, Where stands our nation's capitol, will see saloons no more. And shining o'er the polar star, Alaska's golden light, And all the states will follow till we make the map all white.

LICENSE AND ILLITERACY. One of the claims of the defenders of the liquor traffic is that prohibition states have a large percentage of illiteracy than have license states. They proceed to prove it by grouping together the license states having the best showing in this respect, and against these they group Southern states such as Georgia, Mississippi and North Carolina, having a very large colored population. The illiteracy in these states comes to us as a relic of slavery days, and existed there in even a large percentage before the adoption of prohibition.

Comparing the New England states, we find that Maine—with prohibition—has the lowest percentage of illiteracy of any with the exception of Vermont, and Vermont had no licensed saloons for 50 years previous to May 1, 1903, and last year had license in only 17 towns. If prohibition promotes illiteracy, then the most illiterate states in the Union ought to be Maine, Kansas and Vermont. On the contrary there are only four states in the Union where the percentage of illiteracy is lower than in Kansas, while Maine and Vermont present the most favorable showing of the New England states.

DRY TOWNS AND COUNTIES. That the expense of government is less in dry cities and counties is shown in the following table taken from the records of Spokane, Wash.: Superior courts, reduction, $9,211; Poor farm, reduction, 4,069; Jail, reduction, 1,267; Prosecuting attorney, reduction, 684; Honor camp, reduction, 1,133; Aid county poor, reduction, 2,580.

A comparison of two dry counties in wet Pennsylvania tells the same story: Dry Wet Greene Co. Elk Co. Population, 28,882, 35,871; Bonding prisoners, $362, $2,247; Grand jurors, 663, 2,119; Penitentiary and work-house, 431, 2,122; Reform schools, 368, 770; Commonwealth costs, 1,287, 3,516.

Total, $3,111, $10,774; Cost per voter, $0.47, $1.84; Number of licenses, None, 68.

SALOON DEAD ENEMY OF LABOR. Organized labor should be opposed to the saloon because the interests of the saloon are always opposed to the interests of the workman. The way to find out whether or not organized labor can afford to stand for the saloon is to find out what organized labor itself stands for, and then see how the saloon comes up to its standards.

Organized labor believes in better jobs for the workman, in greater efficiency, in increased wages, in the abolition of child labor, in the dignity and elevation of womanhood, and in the preservation of the home.

The saloon breaks every one of these standards.—Charles Stelzle.

AS DESTRUCTIVE AS WHISKY. Doctor Struempel, a German physiologist of high standing, does not tolerate for a moment the suggestion that beer is less of a social enemy than other liquors. He says: "Nothing is more erroneous from the physician's standpoint than to think of diminishing the destructive effects of alcoholism by substituting beer for other alcoholic drinks, or that the victims of drink are found only in those countries where whisky helps the people of a low grade of culture to forget their poverty and misery."

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE? There isn't a state so wet that the authorities would for any amount of money license a man to spread hog cholera among hogs. Why? Why, because even a wet knows the value of a hog; even a wet wouldn't license a man to disseminate a hog. What I ask you—and isn't it a simple and reasonable request—all I ask you Democrats and Republicans is just to forget your partisan differences long enough to raise men to a hog level by not licensing the saloon.—William Jennings Bryan.

Fish Are Misnamed.

Apparently every popular name for fish is a misnomer. There is a fish plentiful on the coasts of Alaska known as the atka mackerel. The bureau of fisheries patiently points out that it is not a mackerel and nothing like a mackerel. But it is an excellent food fish, and can be shipped salted. Alaska canneries have been encouraged to salt this fish, which will be known as the atka fish, and it should make its appearance in our markets in the coming winter.

To Drive Out Malaria And Build Up The System TAKE THE OLD STANDARD GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC. You know what you are taking, as the formula is printed on every label, showing it is Quinine and Iron in a tasteless form. The Quinine drives out malaria, the Iron builds up the system. 50 cents.

Both Appropriate. Longmore—The former clients of Smith, the divorce lawyer, who died last week, are going to do a nice thing. Short—What? Longmore—Show their appreciation by erecting a monument to his memory. Short—Have they chosen the design? Longmore—Not yet. A number of them want something among the lines of the Statue of Liberty, and the others favor a colossal granite cleaver.—The Lamb.

Mantell's Ghost Story. Robert Mantell tells of a barnstorming company in the West in the old days that made a try at Shakespear. Considerable complaint was heard relative to the efforts of the man who essayed to do the ghost in "Hamlet."

One day a dramatic man on a local paper said to the leading man: "That fellow who plays the ghost does not suggest the supernatural." "I should say not," assented the leading man with alacrity, "but he does suggest the natural super."—Everybody's Magazine.

Then Silence. They were dancing merrily, this young man and the young woman, and were talking of nothing at all, when suddenly the girl asked: "Have you enlisted?" "No," answered the youth. "Haven't you joined the Officers' Reserve corps?"

"No, not yet. I haven't thought much about that sort of thing." "Haven't you done anything about the war?" "No," the youth replied. Whereupon the girl stopped dancing.

I wish you would take me to a seat. I don't think I want to dance with you.—Washington Star.

Elections in Land of Nippon. The Japanese people are satisfied with the result of the election of April 20, but agitation regarding expense attending a canvass for a seat in parliament is renewed. The same argument is heard as those after the last general election, according to East and West. The Chugal Shogyo estimates the cost of 600 candidates at not less than $2,640,000! This is more than representatives in the United States expend, but senators have been known to pay half a million for seats in that body. The Chugal says the government spent $200,000 for supervising the election, which, to Americans, will appear moderate. This sum includes "stumping trips" through the country by cabinet ministers; members of the opposition paid their own expenses. The editor regrets that so many men entitled to vote fail to exercise their high privilege. Repeated dissolution of the diet not only causes political disturbances, he argues, but imposes heavy financial loss upon the nation and upon individuals.

Dr. Peery's "Dead Shot" not only expels Worms or Tapeworm but cleans out the mucus in which they breed and tones up the digestion. Use dose sufficient. Adv.

Marital Consideration. A considerate man who really wants to make his wife happy will look detected and miserable at the station when she is leaving for the summer. She carries a heavy heart with her if he happens to be brutal enough to look as if he were anticipating a hot old time.—Houston Post.

Pittsburgh has measured telephone service.

Foresight. "When one of those musty thrones topples over in Europe do you suppose there is much dust?" "Not as much as you might think. Most monarchs are crafty enough to put their dust away in a safe place before a revolution starts."

A man is never such a bonehead that he can fool himself by lying to himself.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying powers are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them willfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

CULTIVATE! CULTIVATE!

Produce More Food, But at the Lowest Cost.

A trip through most of the grain growing districts of Western Canada, and information received from authentic sources, reveals that the spring seeding of wheat, barley and oats is finished and the grain is having a most rapid growth. Men of farming experience here say that the conditions are similar to those years when there was an abundant harvest reaped. During the past year a number of new settlers came into the country, and they will undoubtedly have a good crop this year. This added to the normal acreage, made considerably less by the lack of labor owing to the number who have gone to the front, will give a fair general yield. It is surprising the growth that this country is capable of producing.

Wheat has this spring germinated and shown three or four inches growth in five or six days, and with anything like favorable weather, harvesting should commence about the 15th of August, or a little over one hundred days from first seeding. Hundreds of farmers throughout this vast country paid for their entire holdings out of one year's crop and it would not be surprising if the same experience met a great many more this year.

The best authorities on the wheat situation give it as their opinion that for many years to come, wheat prices will be high. They base their opinion on a scientific calculation and their reasoning seems to be sound. Anyway, it is quite evident that for some years to come, the producer of wheat will be amply rewarded for any effort he may make to develop this branch of agricultural industry. Money may be made on the high-priced lands of the wheat-growing districts of the United States, but it is a question if these high-priced lands would not be more profitably employed in other branches of farming than in growing the smaller grains, leaving it to lands just as productive for wheat, less expensive to operate, and with a much smaller initial price, to provide the world with this necessity of life. Here is where Western Canada, with its vast rich fertile plains, its low railway rates, its exceptionally good shipping privileges, its excellent climate, and its perfect social conditions, has a combination of advantages not possessed by any other portion of the continent.

Furthermore, these lands, of unexcelled quality, are extraordinarily cheap, while for the man who does not care to undertake farming on so extensive a scale there is the free homestead which offers him all the opportunity for which he is looking.

The prospective purchaser will have no difficulty at all in making a selection of a fine piece of land, well located and convenient to transportation, which may be had for from $15 to $25 an acre, and the railway companies or other holders of large tracts are always glad to sell on easy terms. Or if he desires a farm that is already under cultivation and improved, many such are to be had from farmers who already have made comfortable fortunes and are ready to retire.

It is not to the grain grower only that Western Canada offers great opportunities. If one wishes to go in for cattle raising, there are great stretches of range land both free and for lease; and in many sections of the country there are the finest of grazing lands that may be purchased at very low prices.

The appeal which has been sent out both by the United States and Canadian governments, for an unstinted, unlimited production of food stuffs to prevent what might otherwise be a famine throughout this great continent—and then consequently, throughout the world—should in itself arouse all the ambition and desire in the heart and soul of the man who is not fighting at the front, to produce all he can. In addition, there is the potent fact that no chances are being taken in answering the appeal. Take it from either standpoint you answer the country's call, although not fighting, and you are also insured against any loss by the high prices that are bound to exist for some time. Whether it be in the United States on its excellent grain lands or in Canada on its splendid grain lands, all should do their bit.—Advertisement.
