Proverbial Wisdom.

All countries have sayings dealing with marriage, mostly taking rather a cynical view. The Italians seem to take a fatalistic attitude, for they say, "In buying horses and in taking a wife, shut your eyes and commend yourself to God." A wholesome piece of advice is contained in the Hindu saying, "Women are wise offhand and-fools on reflection-so take your wife's first advice and not her second." The Irish saying is very comforting, "A man's best fortune is his wife."

ing in the world. 4. He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness. "Righteousness" is the qualifying word of the sentence so far as its application to man is concerned. Who are those that he leads? They who are in the paths of righteousness. The unrighteous therefore he does not lead. But the "righteous" from the Gospel point of view are not the externally moral people merely, but those who have submitted themselves unto the righteousness of God, the righteousness which is by faith. They are found in the paths of righteousness, because they are found in Christ. But being found, they are now led therein. This leading is equivalent to their growth in grace, their development in Christ. Hence the significance of that preposition

"in." He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness. Not "into" them but "in" them. He leads us into them in the first place, since without his regenerating grace we would never have been found in them.

Leading While in the Way.

But it is a different thing to be led "in" them after we have been led "into" them. The paths of righteousness would themselves become paths of error to us, if God were to withdraw his personal leadership. He must not only make us Christians, but he must keep us Christians, if we are to remain so. And the importance of this continued leadership is emphasized by the word "paths." Not one, but many. Sometimes they are paths of bodily affliction, of peril, bereavement, povert strong temptation, mental darkness, "lesertion, opposition, doubt, but in all these paths he leadeth me. By his word, by his providence, by his spirit, and by the example of his own life in the flesh! For His Name's Sake.

5. He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness "for his Name's sake." It is wonderful how many and how great things God has done for us and promises to do for us in his Name's sake. This is a humbling truth, since it takes from us all thought of personal right or merit in the matter. But it is also an inspiring truth. For if God leads us in the paths of righteousness for his Name's sake, the honor of his Name is involved in his leading us to the very end, and up to the throne of glory.
